NEW HOME FOR BANK OF VIRGINIA BEACH

This is the new main office of the Bank of Virginia Beach located on Pacific avenue just off 31st street. The new banking facility will be formally opened to the public on Saturday, June 5.

"HOUSE WARMING" SATURDAY NIGHT

BANK OF VIRGINIA BEACH OPENS NEW HOME FRIDAY

The Bank of Virginia Beach will move into its new home tomorrow and on Saturday will hold a formal opening of its new building on Pacific avenue at 31st street. The opening and dedication date also marks the ninth birthday for the banking institution.

While the new building will become the bank's main office the present facility located on Atlantic avenue between 18th and 19th streets will be utilized as a branch of the Bank of Virginia Beach. Present depositors there may continue banking at the location or may use the new facility.

The new building measures 62 feet by 80 feet and is of one and one-half stories construction with the main entrance Pacific avenue. Ample parking facility has been provided for the bank's patrons.

The building is graced with beautiful block letters on the Pacific avenue side and smaller block letters on the 31st street side.

The latest in banking equipment has been installed and a large number of safety deposit boxes are available to customers. A board of director's room runs the full width of the building along Pacific avenue. The building is completely air conditioned.

The Bank of Virginia Beach was founded on June 5, 1945, and E. H. Church serves as president, a position he has held since the founding of the institution. Floyd E. Kellam serves as chairman of the board.

The present drive-in facility will be considered a part of the new headquarters building, he said.

PRESIDENT

E. H. Church, above is president of the Bank of Virginia Beach, which will formally open its new main office on Saturday. Dedication of the facility coincides with the institution's ninth anniversary of its founding.

Erosion Control Funds Voted by Federal Body

The sub-committee on Rivers and Harbors of the House Committee on Public Works reported favorable recommendation last week on an appropriation of $747,101 for beach erosion control work at Virginia Beach.

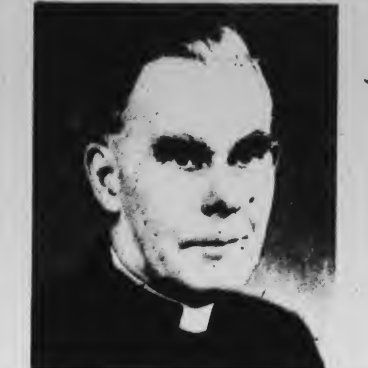

The favorable action by the subcommittee brought jubilation among city officials and members of the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission. The action was a culmination of the unified effort put forth during the past three years.

Several weeks ago Mayor P. F. Murray, Commission Chairman E. H. Church, Vice-Chairman H. E. Halstead and others from here appeared before the subcommittee. It is felt that the local group made such a convincing presentation before the committee that the favorable recommendation resulted.

It is understood, too, that the Army engineers have been impressed with the work and planning of the erosion commission and the fact that the work accomplished to date has run below the estimated cost.

When the erosion project was first adopted it was believed that the Federal government would participate in its financing. The action by the subcommittee last week is another step in the procedure to secure Federal funds or the work.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, Chaplain of the United States Senate, will deliver the commencement address to the first graduating class of the Virginia Beach High School. Commencement exercises will be held next Thursday night, June 10, in the school auditorium.

Candidates Ask Added Facilities For Recreation

The Unity Council Ticket candidates, P. F. Murray, Frank D. Tarrall, Jr., and John A. Tallaferro this week issued a statement elaborating on one of the points in their campaign platform.

In their original platform, the Unity Candidates pointed out their desire to increase Virginia Beach's recreational facilities and on Wednesday the candidates issued the following statement:

"The candidates on the Unity Ticket, if elected, plan to have a detailed inventory made by some well known authority on recreation, of the existing recreational facilities of Virginia Beach. These facilities are to be compared with accepted standards, and recommendations are to be made for a plan to provide for development of these existing facilities along with a plan for additional means of recreation.

The American Medical Association has said that growing youngsters need several hours daily outdoor. Adults require less, but the need exists and the agency making the survey will be instructed not to neglect the need of recreation for those in the productive years of adult life, who find their resources of recreation limited.

UNITY SLATE GETS MORE BACKING AS VOTING NEARS

Managers Confident

With the councilmanic election in Virginia Beach just a few days away, the Unity Council ticket received further endorsement this week by two of the city's foremost citizens and the co-managers of the ticket issued a final statement.

Endorsement of the candidacies of P. F. Murray, Frank D. Tarrall and John A. Tallaferro came from a retired Naval captain and an attorney.

Captain W. M. Walsh, USN, (Ret.) issued the following statement:

"I have traveled in many foreign countries and have lived in many parts of the United States. When I retired some four years ago I selected Virginia Beach as my home, and I have never regretted it.

We have had good administration of our city's affairs and I firmly believe that the candidates on the Unity Ticket will continue our good government. I, therefore, endorse P. F. Murray, Frank D. Tarrall and John A. Tallaferro as candidates for city council to be voted on June 8, 1954. It seems to me the city is fortunate in having men of this caliber running for public office in our city."

Another statement released in support of the Unity Ticket this week came from Robert G. Barr, Jr., an attorney and a former city councilman. Barr said: "As a lifelong citizen and former councilman of the City of Virginia Beach, I fully realize the problems with which the City is confronted, and it is with a great deal of pleasure and confidence that I endorse the Unity candidates, Pat Murray, Frank Tarrall and John A. Tallaferro.

These candidates possess the integrity, ability and have the desire to accomplish the will of the people of the majority for the betterment of the City in which they live and a better qualified group of candidates would be hard to find. These candidates have expressed their desire for unity and it is my firm conviction that the future of Virginia Beach rests upon the success of their cause."

A. R. Walton and Richard G. Brydges, co-managers of the Unity Ticket campaign, issued the following joint statement:

"Back in April, when we volunteered our services to the candidates for the Unity Ticket for City Council at Virginia Beach, the candidates, their supporters, ourselves as campaign managers, agreed that we would conduct a clean, progressive, non-muddling campaign in which we would let our candidates speak rather than the coming of the anti-unity candidates."

Now, as the campaign draws to a close, and election day, June 8, 1954 approaches we feel that we have been successful in that purpose and we want now to thank our many supporters for contributing to that effort, and realizing the many efforts to see to it that the campaign was a clean, character assassination, and plain ordinary mud-slinging.

The supporters of the anti-unity ticket, also known as the Greater Virginia Beach Ticket, have called us and our supporters Rascals, Rascals and Racketeers. They have assailed the character of our policemen, school teachers, and other school officials and have brought in non-voters and non-residents of Virginia Beach to manage, finance, and operate their campaign. They have tried to make school teachers and their procurement, our policemen and their procurement, a political issue.

We have condemned the accomplishment of our Beach Erosion Commission, which has so successfully replenished our beach and averted a serious threat to our welfare. It is evident to us that they have committed themselves to a policy of tear down, undo, and failure, mainly because they are against our candidates who stand for build-up, do and success for our City.

We believe the main agitators of this group are the same that have been repeatedly repudiated by the voters by the citizens of Virginia Beach.

Men of the calibre of P. F. Murray, Frank D. Tarrall, Jr., and John A. Tallaferro do not engage in that sort of political skulduggery. They are builders. (Continued on Page Three)

Others Endorse Unity Ticket

R. Lee Page, well known Virginia Beach and Norfolk businessman, and Mrs. James S. Barron issued statements Wednesday endorsing full support of the Unity Council Ticket in next Tuesday's election.

The two latest endorsements of the council ticket composed of P. F. Murray, Frank D. Tarrall, Jr., and John A. Tallaferro brought the number of published statement-endorsements of these candidates to approximately thirty.

Mrs. Barron issued the following statement: "I have seen members of the city council come and go. Virginia Beach is fortunate in having had able administration of its affairs and I have never advocated change for the sake of change. When we have something good we should keep it."

The candidates for the Unity Ticket have indicated they will continue our good government and I am for that and endorse P. F. (Continued on Page Six)

This lovely garden, not only was included in the tour of the Virginia Beach Garden in the tour of The Garden Club of Virginia, but during Garden Week was included in the tour of The Garden Club of Virginia. No greater compliment can be paid to any garden and this selection speaks for itself as to the beauty surrounding the Royster home in making Virginia Beach more beautiful.

LOCKWOOD OR WEARY MAY BE PROSPECTS

CITY MANAGERSHIP SEEN PLUM SOUGHT BY GVB COUNCIL TICKET

The city manager's job seems to be the political plum eyed by certain supporters of the Greater Virginia Beach Council Ticket, according to persistent rumors as the council election dates near.

The two apparent bidders for the position are Lawrence Lockwood, who served in the position briefly a few years ago, and Leslie A. Weary, campaign manager for the "GVB" ticket.

While Weary has denied any aspirations for the position the possibility of his being named to the position should the GVB candidates be successful has been a prime rumor in the current political campaign.

Many feel that Lockwood has his sights set on the position and rumor has it that there is considerable jockeying between the two in the GVB political campaign. Lockwood recently hauled charges at the present city administration and stated that "90 per cent of the police department personnel should be fired." Lockwood spoke at a recent barbecue sponsored by the GVB group.

W. W. McManan, Jr., who is seeking reelection to the city council on the GVB ticket, praised the work of Lockwood at the same barbecue rally. McManan spoke of the work Lockwood did while serving as town manager. It is felt that if the two men are vying for the city position that McManan, by an interpretation of his remarks at the rally, would back Lockwood for the job.

The Unity Council Ticket of Mayor P. F. Murray, Frank D. Tarrall, Jr., and John A. Tallaferro are being opposed in next Tuesday's election by McManan, W. C. Everett and W. B. Costenbader.

"Lee Soybean Recommended For Virginia Farmers"

Lee, a new non-shattering, disease-resistant soybean variety, is boosted as a find for Virginia farmers. The new variety is being recommended for use in areas where Ogden is now grown. In Virginia, it matures about one week later than Ogden and a week earlier than Jackson or Volstead.

It was developed cooperatively by the U. S. Regional Soybean Laboratory and the Agricultural Experiment Stations of the southeastern states. An adequate supply of seed is expected to be available for 1955 plantings.

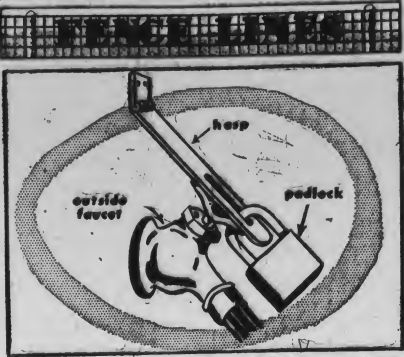

Lee is the most shatter-resistant variety developed to date. It is also resistant to bacterial pustule, wildfire, frogeye, and purple seed-stain diseases. It is similar to Ogden in plant size has moderate stems, heavy foliage, and purple flowers. The seeds are glassy yellow with a black hilum or eye. Its yellow seed coat, sound seed coat, and resistance to shattering when left in the field even for long periods of time after maturity are its main advantages. Lee yields have been equal to or higher than Ogden or Jackson in official yield tests at VPI Agricultural Experiment Station.

Under farm conditions, however, where shattering is a problem, harvested yields of Lee would generally be much higher than Ogden, because of its ability to with stand shattering. In addition combine losses would probably be less since the lowest pods are somewhat higher off the ground than those of Ogden.

"Sawdust Mulch Helps Shrubs, Berry Bushes"

Most ornamental shrubs will grow more vigorously if a mulch of one or two inches of sawdust is kept on the soil under the branches over the rooting zone. This is especially true of evergreen shrubs, particularly azaleas and rhododendrons. Most shrubs have many small feeder roots near the surface of the soil. These are injured if the ground is cultivated, and also may suffer in a dry unmulched soil. A mulch of sawdust, peat moss, peanut hulls or chopped straw will be most beneficial for such plants.

Berry bushes, such as blueberries, raspberries, blackberries, currants and gooseberries usually grow and fruit better if a mulch is used around the plants. A one- or two-inch layer of sawdust or other organic mulch material is recommended. As this mulch decomposes into the soil, additional amounts should be added to maintain the desired depth.

A mulch around grape vines, especially on fertile soils where there is enough rain, may cause tender growth to come out too rapidly. However, a mulch may be beneficial for grapes on sandy or gravelly soils where the water supply may be somewhat short during the growing season.

and represent those who want to continue to build our city into a more prosperous, unified city for us all.

Although the correction of our beach erosion problem has been successful, there will be other problems facing our city council and we will need the best men available for their solution. Our city is a big business now and we need men who are willing to meet these problems with determination and integrity, not with malicious gossip, insidious whispering campaigns and circus-like stunts.

We need qualified men, men who will attend council meetings, men who have the interest of our City at heart -- we do not need men who would sacrifice every institution in our city, to win an election.

We have worked diligently to have the candidates on the unity ticket meet all the people. They have met on the streets, in people homes, and 1600 attended our barbecue, but it is impossible to see all the people.

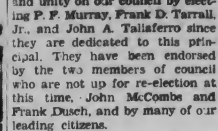

We do hope that the people of Virginia Beach, in observing the conduct of this campaign will realize that more is at stake than petty jealousies and personal differences. The three men elected on June 8 will represent a majority on our council for the next

We ask every citizen of our City to join with us and vote for the candidates of the unity ticket.

From the response we have received during the campaign, we feel confident that P. F. Murray, Frank D. Tarrall, Jr., and John A. Tallafiero will be elected by an overwhelming majority.

VOTE UNITY ON TUESDAY

On next Tuesday, June 8th, voters of Virginia Beach will go to the polls to elect three city councilmen in probably the most important election that this city has ever held. When P. F. "Pat" Murray, Frank D. Tarrall, Jr., and John A. Tallaferro announced their candidacies for the city council under the banner of the "Unity Ticket" it brought favorable reaction throughout the city. Many, who in the past, had differed politically joined hands in support of these three outstanding citizens.

This newspaper also endorsed the Unity proposal and the candidacies of these men. We did so because of their excellent qualifications and because unity is necessary if our city is to progress.

Last week we witnessed that same unity paying off in a big way. The cooperation between city officials, U. S. Army engineers and Federal officials resulted in the city being advised that the sum of $747,101.00 had been recommended by the sub-committee of Congress for the Virginia Beach Erosion Control project. It came about by diligent work and careful planning on the part of City officials and the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission working with the Army engineers who have stated that, because of this careful planning and the economical manner in which the beach was replenished, it was done at a much lower cost than was anticipated.

When the voters of this city go to the polls next Tuesday they should consider this accomplishment. In addition, there are many other points to be considered.

The voter should consider that we have thirty-two miles of excellent improved streets that meet all State standards and they should consider our wonderful school and our outstanding staff of qualified teachers and administrators.

The voter should consider that we have a fire department whose record is outstanding and that, as a result, the residents of Virginia Beach enjoy exceptionally low fire insurance rates and that both the paid and volunteer personnel are devoted to their duties.

They should consider that we have an outstanding police department that has received many citations from law enforcement organizations such as the State and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. And, because of this outstanding record, Virginia Beach's crime record has, year after year, been consistently below the national average among cities of comparable size.

They should consider the excellent financial condition of the city. They should be justly proud of the view taken by financial houses in the sale of city bonds and the low interest rate on which its bonds have been issued. They should consider that the City has no temporary loans and that its tax rate, based on percentage of assessment, is the lowest in this area and one of the lowest in the entire State.

They should also consider the cooperation at City Hall and the courteous treatment afforded all taxpayers by city employees there.

They should also consider the progressive program of the City candidates which calls for the curb and guttering of Pacific Avenue, elimination of open ditches, the improved recreational facilities, the securing of a convention hall and others which space does not permit us to list.

We sincerely believe that when our citizens stop and consider these accomplishments and proposals they will overwhelmingly elect P. F. "Pat" Murray, Frank D. Tarrall, Jr., and John A. Tallaferro as their city councilmen next Tuesday.

MORE ABSENTEEISM

After citing the accomplishments of the present city administration above it is rather interesting as well as sickening to look into the absenteeism of Councilman W. W. McClanan, Jr., who is seeking reelection on the anti-administration council ticket. McClanan has stated that he is running on his record.

We have pointed out that McClanan was absent when action was taken to enlarge the Willoughby T. Cooke School, when action was taken authorizing and at the time of the sale of $900,000 in bonds to correct the Beach erosion; that he was absent when the budget was approved and the tax rate was set. That he was absent when the city received its financial report from its debt service commission. That he was absent from the meeting when authorization for the sale of $300,000 in bonds was given for the installation of sewerage in South Virginia Beach. And, he was absent when action was taken to secure water for North Virginia Beach.

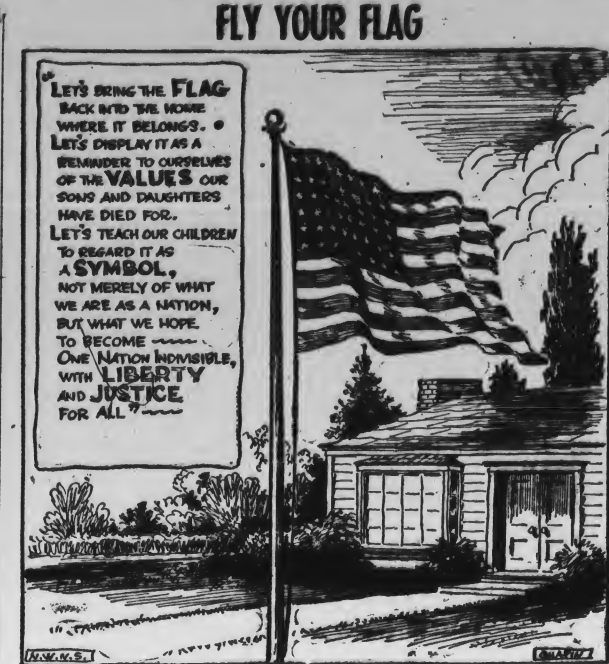

This is typical of the absentee record of Mr. McClanan for he was also absent on October 10, 1950, when a town manager was employed. He was not present to vote in July, 1951 when the town budget was adopted. He was not present in September, 1951, when an appropriation of $50,000 for repairs to the walkway were made.

He was not present in May, 1952, when the present accounting system was installed at the recommendation of the State Auditor of Public Accounts. He was not present in March, 1953, when the $30,000 advertising fund was approved.

And, so his record goes although he had been chosen by the citizens of Virginia Beach to represent them in this important undertaking.

Mr. McClanan has laid great emphasis on the matter of annexation. We pointed out that he had done nothing as far as we could observe to help the City secure the area known as North Virginia Beach when it fought so hard in court to annex this territory.

Last week, in a news article, Mr. C. A. Mowry, chairman of the North Virginia Beach Improvement League, pointed out

Editor
Va. Beach Sun-News
Virginia Beach, Va.
Dear Sir:
After reading the letter signed by Mrs. Brockett in your paper the morning of May 28th, I cannot help but write in answer.

I have lived in Virginia Beach inside the city limits, for many years. Although I did not attend school here my brothers & sisters did. Our schools have always been considered the best.

How many High Schools open less than two years are accredited? The first graduating class from the Virginia Beach High School are graduating from an accredited school.

Mrs. Brockett incidentally does not live inside the city limits of City of Virginia Beach but her children have the privilege of attending the City schools. Virginia Beach has some of the best teachers in the country but some have been driven away by the actions of people like Mrs. Brockett and if they continue to treat teachers this way and make life unpleasant for them, good teachers will not want to come here.

Virginia Beach welcomes newcomers who want to help the City. I cannot say as much for these newcomers who try to wreck our schools and tear down the good feeling between the printhat Mayor Murray, who is running on the Unity Ticket, had cooperated 100 per cent with their committee in their efforts to bring their area into the city.

The records will reveal that on February 10, 1954, Mayor Murray advised Mr. Mowry that he felt sure that the city would go as far as it could in securing this area as a part of the city. We have been unable to find any evidence of Mr. McClanan's activity in behalf of annexation except just before election when he deemed it politically expedient to demonstrate some interest in this very vital matter of annexation.

LOCKWOOD'S THANKS

On November 1, 1950, the Virginia Beach Police Department received a telephone call from a local physician to the effect that he had a patient desperately ill and unless blood could be secured from the blood bank in Norfolk immediately the patient would not be expected to live and that it was absolutely an emergency that he receive the blood at once. The local police contacted the Norfolk police department and asked that they dispatch officers to meet the Virginia Beach police at the Norfolk city line with the precious blood. On their way to meet the Virginia Beach police the Norfolk officers were hurt seriously in an accident. Two additional Norfolk city police took over and met the Virginia Beach police at the Norfolk city line. Racing against time the Virginia Beach Police brought the blood to Virginia Beach and saved the man's life.

On May 22, 1954, at a political rally held by the candidates for city council on the so-called Greater Virginia Beach ticket this same man whose life had been saved by the Virginia Beach police was one of the speakers and advocated the firing of 90 per cent of the personnel of the Virginia Beach Police Department. If this were done, at least one of the two men who saved his life would be fired. That man whose life was saved and who wants the policemen fired is the big blow of the Greater Virginia Beach Ticket — Lawrence Lockwood. How ungrateful can a man get in a political campaign?

SAME TUNE - NEW YEAR

On April 22nd this newspaper said that this political campaign looked like the same old type of campaign usually conducted by the anti-organization group, that of the position of the candidates' names on the ballot, purging of the books, etc. The anti is running true to form as the campaign draws to a close when they talk about debating the issues. They should know that the candidates on the Unity Ticket have been discussing the issues with the citizens of Virginia Beach in large and small gatherings ever since the campaign started, having at one of their meetings more than 1600 people.

The anti's now want to discuss career city manager, school teacher's pay, reorganization of city departments, etc. There is but one answer to this and it lies with W. W. McClanan, who is a candidate on the Greater Virginia Beach Ticket. He has been a member of the council for the past eight years and if he is sincere in advocating these points why has he not proposed any of these changes during the time he has been a member of the city council. That is the real issue and Mr. McClanan should inform the people of Virginia Beach why he has not proposed these changes while serving as their elected representative and prior to the present political campaign.

WAR THREAT DEMANDS SPIRITUAL PREPARATION

The possibility of another World War more terrible than any recorded history hangs like a pall over our nation and exerts a tremendous influence upon domestic as well as foreign policies.

National defense has been taking seven out of every ten dollars spent by the Federal Government and reductions in this area were our chief hope of balancing the budget within the next few years. It now seems probable, however, that because of the crisis in the Orient and the new menace of Communism in Central America we shall have to increase defense spending by two or three billion dollars. That puts another barrier in the way of tax reductions. It also indicates that the mild recession we have been experiencing may be replaced by a new period of inflation — a hint already taken by speculators on the New York Stock Exchange.

While the war threat is offering an unwelcome stimulus to our economy, however, I hope that it also will stimulate a spiritual preparation to meet whatever demands the crisis makes on us and that was a subject I discussed in two speeches over the Memorial Day week-end.

Addressing the fine graduating class at Fort Union Military Academy on Saturday, I told those boys that they must furnish the new leadership which our times demand and that they could find inspiration in the examples of such leaders in the past as Thomas Jefferson, Stonewall Jackson, Robert E. Lee and Woodrow Wilson. I reminded them that one characteristic which these four men had in common was their devotion to the training of youth as teachers or administrators of educational institutions. Virginia's high tradition in the field of education must be preserved.

The following day, at Memorial Services held on the battlefield at Manassas, I made more detailed reference to the contributions of Jackson and Lee through their personal influence in times of peace. I said they exemplified leaders whose claims to immortality rest not merely on their constructive contributions to humanity.

I pointed out that when the North and South were divided, primarily over economic issues, statesmanship could have avoided the bloody War Between the States

40 N&W Men to Receive Honors

Forty-nine Norfolk and Western men will be awarded diamond insignia for fifty years or more with the railway at the 18th annual meeting of the road's Veterans Association in Roanoke on Saturday, June 12. Over 2,000 veterans of twenty years or more with the N. & W. will attend the meeting at the American Legion Auditorium.

Speaker at the 10 A. M. session will be Leonard G. Muse, former state senator now practicing law in Roanoke. Muse, a one-time N. & W. man, has been a member of the State Board of Education, the Virginia Advisory Legislative Council and the Roanoke City School Board. He will be introduced by J. W. Rhodes, Veterans Association President. N. & W. President R. H. Smith will present the diamonds individually to the 49 veterans.

A professional vaudeville show will be seen in the afternoon and refreshments will be served. Veterans are supplied with meal tickets good in any Roanoke restaurant or drug store.

Veterans from more distant points will travel to Roanoke on special trains and on extra sleepers attached to regular trains. Sleepers will originate at Columbus, Cincinnati, Portsmouth, Kenova, Williamson, Bluefield, Bristol, Hagerstown, Norfolk, Petersburg and Crewe.

George W. Lucado, Radford Division agent-operator at Eggleston, Va., has been with the railroad for 52 years, seven months and seven days - the longest tenure of any man being honored this year.

AND MENTAL HEALTH

NOTES FOR HOMEMAKERS

By MRS. ELIZABETH DEAL

GARDEN SAFETY

Gardening and other work on the home grounds at this busy season often calls out the whole family. For this reason, and because more chemicals and power-driven machines are being used—often by beginning gardeners—more alerting against accidents is suggested.

For safety with insecticides, read all the print on the container to know whether dust or spray is toxic, and if so, how to use it safely as well as effectively. Label containers of toxic materials conspicuously. Keep them out of reach of children and pets. Sprayers and dusters, used to apply these chemicals, also should be put out of reach of youngsters promptly after use. Any container, such as a pail, used in mixing insecticides, should be thoroughly washed with hot soap suds afterwards. The "washings" or any leftover insecticides to be disposed of, should be flushed down a sewer or dumped into a hole and then well covered with earth that children, pets and birds—chickens included—won't get to them.

A still day is the safest and most effective time to dust or spray. If there is a breeze, stand with your back to it so the spray or dust blows away from you. Avoid breathing in these materials. If any happens to get on the skin, wash it off thoroughly.

Safety measures with power lawnmowers or garden tractors may seem obvious, but they are not. An increasing number of accidents each year as more people use them. Children often are chief sufferers, either because they want to try out the machines or get in their way. Many rotary-type mowers now have guards to protect against flying bits of metal, if the fast-whirling blades are nicked by hitting a stone, for example. But all power machines need to be used with care.

Other familiar accident hazards are worth noting. If garden tools are put away promptly after use, no one will fall over an up-turned rake, for example. Some smart gardeners paint tool handles red for convenience and safety. Garden stakes should be made unclimbable to save accidents. Bits of cloth tied on stretched wire or cord are safety flags. Thinking ahead of safety is good insurance for the whole family.

WILTED GREENS

Do you sometimes like to vary the way you serve leafy green vegetables? They're good served raw in salads, but they're good served wilted, too.

Here's a way to fix wilted lettuce suggested by nutritionists at VPI. This recipe is colorful, and the lettuce doesn't get too limp and slimy.

Tear the leaf lettuce. In a generous quart of lettuce, slice one-half dozen young garden onion, green part and all, and one-half dozen radishes.

Mix together 2 tablespoons bacon drippings, 1-4 cup vinegar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, and 1-2 teaspoon celery salt. Pour the hot mixture over the prepared vegetables. Mix until vegetables are well-coated. All 4 slices crumbled bacon as a garnish, if desired. Serve immediately while it's still hot. This is good with leaf lettuce, young spinach leaves, or a mixture of spinach, lettuce and endive. And it's especially good with young, tender dandelion greens.

To Avoid Lint

Wash dark-colored garments alone or with other dark garments so they won't pick up lint. Iron them on the wrong side over a lint-free ironing board cover.

Padding Clothes Hangers

While you're doing your spring sewing, why not pad some wire clothes hangers with left-over material? Wrap the hanger with cotton or some bulky fabric. Then cover it with colorful material—rayon, nylon, cotton, or even wool. The hangers will look nice in the closet, and clothes will keep their shape better than on the plain metal hangers.

Page's statement follows: "I have lived in Virginia Beach for a number of years and have been extremely proud of our city government. Believing sincerely that the candidates on the Unity Council Ticket, P. F. 'Pat' Murray, Frank D. Tarrall, Jr., and John A. I believe election of the Unity Ticket is best for our community and I sincerely hope that all my friends will join me in electing the Unity Ticket to our city council." Signed: R. Lee Page.

FT. STORY TELLINGS

Latest phases of the Transportation Training Command's big logistical support problem, "Operation LOTS," which ended here Friday, resulted in official spectators by demonstrating "big improvements" in cargo handling and ship-to-shore DUKW operations around the clock. Troops from Fort Eustis and Fort Story's 54th Transportation Battalion handled 3,000 measurement tons of cargo with speed and skill. Brig. Gen. Frank S. Benson, Jr., Commanding General of TTC, visited the operations areas twice during the five-day problem.

COMMENDATION RIBBONS were presented to two Fort Story soldiers by Col. Guy D. Thompson, CO, at the post's monthly "garrison review." SFC Harold E. Hare, 265th T Company, was decorated for "exemplary accomplishments" as battery motor sergeant with the 171st FA Battalion in Korea last year. Cpl. Samuel Nixon, Jr., 197th T Port Company, was cited for meritorious achievement in Labrador, Canada, last September. When the 30-ton Lima crane he was operating slid into the icy bay during discharge of cargo, the plucky corporal stopped it in eight feet of water and, disregarding his own safety, got it back on dry land.

The 870th T PORT Company, incidentally, was cited as the Fort Story unit of "outstanding appearance and performance" in the garrison review mentioned above. Capt. Kermit C. Williams is CO, and M-Sgt. Roy A. Flood is first sergeant.

CAPTAIN'S BARS went to the CO of the 489th T Company, 1st Lt. Robert H. Schwarz of Boise, Idaho. The captain, a veteran of 38 months in Germany, was Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff at

"PLEASANT MEAL" AT COLONY RESTAURANT

"A most pleasant meal — real good steak. Very good food very pleasant appointments." These were the remarks of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Mullen, Ocean Road, Portsmouth, New Hampshire, after a pleasant meal at the Colony Restaurant on Atlantic Avenue off the Jefferson Hotel building.

Fort Eustis before coming to Story in March.

ARMED FORCES STAFF College at Norfolk sent a group of 130 officer-students to visit the BARC Test Team area at Fort Story this week. Accompanied by the Deputy Commandant of the College, Rear Admiral John McNay Taylor, the students inspected the three huge experimental amphibious carriers and later rode one the ocean off Cape Henry.

STORY'S BASEBALL team, the "DUKW's" won their sixth game in the Hampton Roads League's season by defeating the Naval Mine Warfare team by a score of 4 to 2. Pvt. Eddie Hudson's three hit pitching contributed to the win.

NORFOLK'S MEMORIAL DAY parade had appropriate representation by the Transportation Amphibious Training Center. Four trim DUKW's, specially decked up for the event, took part in the parade. The amphibians and their crews were from the 461st Transportation Company.

Softball Season Going Full Tilt at FADTC Dam Neck, 6 Teams Play

"Let's go gang!" "Time's whistling." The spectators yells can be heard loud and clear, "Play Ball!" "Batter up!" is the reply of the umpire as he dusts off home plate. Every one aboard FADTC Dam Neck knows that these echoing chants signify the start of another inter-divisional softball league game. The league was started last year and due to the great amount of enjoyment and recreation that it afforded, the idea was again brought into play at the start of the softball season.

At present there are six teams entered in the league with each team representing a division of men. The games are played during the lunch hour, Monday through Thursday. The spectators get as much, if not more, exercise from laughing and yelling, as do the teams on the field from playing ball. And while errors and laughs are a plenty the competition is keen and everyone plays his best.

to clinch the victory for his division. Dam Neck also fields a softball team known as the "Gunners" which is nominally the station team and the "Guided Missiles" which is fielded by the Guided Missile School. The Gunners are the varsity team aboard the station and is entered in the Virginia Beach Softball league. All games in the league are played at the Virginia Beach Softball field on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday with the first game starting at 1:00 P.M.

The Gunners have done very well during pre-league play by winning five and losing two practice games. They will start league play on June 1, with the "Moose" as their just opponent. We will keep a lookout for and hope to see you there rooting for your favorite team to win.

Department of Health and Welfare Observes First Anniversary

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare celebrated its first birthday as a full-blown cabinet department in April, but it administers some very old programs—the Public Health Service, for instance, had its start in 1798. The past year has seen a thorough review in HEW of the procedures under which these programs are carried out, and Secretary Oveta Culp Hobby has asked Congress for authority to make important changes in the means by which grants in aid for a variety of purposes are made to the states.

At present, the Public Health Service makes six separate grants to state health authorities, conveying earmarked funds to be used for general health, Tuberculosis control, venereal disease control, mental health, cancer control and communicable disease control. Money given for one of these purposes cannot be used for another. HEW claims that this earmarking introduces rigidity into state health plans, keeps available dollars from going as far as they would if state health authorities had more freedom in use of the funds. Authority was requested to make a unified public health grant to the states, to be allocated at their discretion.

HEW's new grants-in-aid seem likely to be unified, with funds applied as: Support grants, to help maintain basic services, given on the basis of financial need; extension and improvement grants, given on the basis of population; and special project grants, given on the basis of unusual problems and opportunities.

The MIXING BOWL... IT'S Fun TO COOK!

In the Spring and the young man's fancy turn to thoughts of love - so the saying goes. I'll bet every young and old man's fancy turns to BEEF for a wonderful dinner - how about it? Do you men folks enjoy a luscious Pot Roast of Beef or good old Round Steak and onions or maybe Chinese Beef with Asparagus?

The most frequently prepared pot roasts are those from the beef shoulder. These are called Chuck roasts. Chuck roasts are often found in the markets in the form of rolled roasts. These are very popular and are easy to carve. Another popular pot roast is the rump roast.

A Dutch oven or any large heavy utensil is just right for that pot roast. Melt a little shortening in your cooking utensil and in it brown the roast on all sides until golden brown. Sprinkle over the roast salt and pepper. When you turn it. Sprinkle it again. After you have browned the roast put a rack or trivet under it. Now add 2 or 3 onions, chopped, and about 1 cup chopped celery. Add either 1 cup water or 1 cup tomato juice if you like tomato flavor. When this has come to a boil. Turn to simmer - cover. Cook 3 to 4 hours. Depending on size of roast. Replenish the liquid as it boils away for as the roast cooks the liquid will cook away. The last hour put around roast carrots and potatoes. Sprinkle with salt and add more liquid and boy! oh boy. You'll have a wonderful dinner. Of course, the gravy with pot roast is all important, so remove roast to platter - arrange potatoes and carrots around it. Stir 2 to 3 tablespoons flour in 1 cup of water until perfectly blended, add to liquid in roaster pan. Stir briskly. Taste - add more seasoning if necessary and more liquid if gravy is too thick. With this serve a tossed vegetable salad and for dessert an apple pie with cheese is a perfect ending.

Here's a beef dish that will fit into your menu planning. I'm sure, provided your family likes Chinese food.

Chinese Beef With Asparagus

- 1 pound beef stew meat
- 1-4 cup fat
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1-8 teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic
- 3-4 cup bouillon
- 1 bunch fresh asparagus or 1 pkg. frozen
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 2 teaspoons soy sauce

Cut meat into strips about 1-8 inch thick. Brown in the hot fat in a 10-inch skillet. Drain off excess fat. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add onion, minced garlic and bouillon (made by dissolving 1 bouillon cube in 3-4 cup hot water). Cover and cook over low heat until meat is nearly tender, about 45 minutes, adding a little water if necessary. Cut asparagus into 1-2 inch pieces and add with 3-4 cup water. (If frozen asparagus is used, first thaw, then cut into pieces.) Cover and continue cooking over low heat until meat and asparagus are tender, about 15 minutes. Mix cornstarch with 1-3 cup water and add to meat; cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened. Add soy sauce and, if mixture is too thick, thin with a small amount of water. Heat and serve on cooked rice. Serve with additional soy sauce. 4 servings.

Bye, now, until next week.

MERRY MATRONS

By Alice Brewer White

Emily Kimbrough, Muncie, Indiana, gal who made good in a big way with her enchanting and amusing stories and books has such a fine sense of humor that she has been able to turn a pretty penny because of it - with her writing efforts. Her latest book, "Forty Plus and Fancy Free" is fast becoming a best-seller non-fiction book and it's the gay story of four youthful grandmothers who romp through Paris and Italy and a stop-in for the Coronation last year. It's the best tonic for frayed nerves, time-on-my-handism and depressive moments. It's a "must" for any merry matrons going abroad - or even on a long trip where they'll meet new people and encounter new experiences - and it's so full of laughter that, even if you're just sitting home at the beach, you'll feel better for having read it from cover to cover. Emily has sure lived the busy life. She's mother of happy, busy twin girls and has a literary and public life behind her already that's the envy of most women. Before her marriage she was fashion editor and then managing editor of the Ladies

Home Journal. While her daughters were young she was a regular contributor to magazines and after her first book, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," was published she trotted off to Hollywood. She's been lecturing hereabouts - many Beach women heard her at the Norfolk Museum last winter - and has tossed off other good books for happy reading such as: "How Dear To My Heart," "Through Charlie's Door," the rousing story of her employment in the great Marshall Field's in Chicago. Yes, indeed, Emily Kimbrough is a good example of "fancy free" after forty and ready for fun and being with interesting people.

Speaking of gay writers, and smart getting about, get Sally Sloane of the Cavalier Club's publicity staff to tell you how she broke into the newspaper business. It's as fascinating as Kimbrough's own story. Sally is a man's newswoman and that your Allisbee means she thinks and writes like a man reporter and does a top job in any language. Yet, sitting beside her at Norfolk's recent War Memorial dinner at the Monticello, you couldn't help but note how feminine the gal really is. She has a distinct flair for good taste in clothes and the most valuable know-how of fine color and accessories combination. She comes from a newswriting family and a witty one, too. Sally's quite a gal and certainly puts zip into the Cavalier's press releases.

Mrs. Arthur Masury has just finished her last directing job for the Virginia Beach Little Theatre what with the curtain's rolling down at the Virginia Beach high school last Tuesday evening with the final performance of "See How They Run." Ruth Masury has given much of her talent, time and self to the directorial duties she has carried out for this local group and, with it all, has never relaxed on her loyalty Cubed red-skinned apples, chunk-style tuna, silvered roasted almonds and coarsely chopped celery mixed with mayonnaise make a tasty luncheon salad. If you're entertaining, add some spiced canned cling peaches and try baking powder biscuits to the menu.

Thin crisp walnut cookies taste extra delicious with a dish of rosy rhubarb sauce. Make a large batch of cookie dough and keep on hand, slicing and baking as you want them.

Honey-glazed carrots are a glamorous vegetable dish. Slice carrots and place in a skillet with bacon fat. Sprinkle with salt, cover lightly and cook until tender. Drizzle about a tablespoon of honey over them and cook uncovered until carrots are nicely browned.

Next time you're entertaining at a desert party, make a chocolate sponge cake roll and fill with whipped cream. Frost with chocolate icing and pat some finely chopped walnuts on the frosting while still soft.

Give steamed rice a new touch by combining with chopped ripe olives. This gives flavor and texture contrast which is especially good with Swedish meat balls.

Pineapple Punch

- 3 tablespoons green tea
- 2 cups orange juice
- 3 cups lemon juice
- 1 quart pineapple juice
- 4 cups sugar
- 3 cups water
- 1 quart pale dry ginger ale
- 1 quart lime ice

Pour 3 cups freshly boiled water over tea; brew for 3 minutes. Strain and cool. Mix together fruit juices and tea infusion. Boil sugar and water for 10 minutes to make a thin syrup. Chill and add to fruit juice. Add ice and water to make 2 gallons. Add ginger ale just before serving and spoon ice on top of punch.

FOR GRADUATION DAY - June is a big month for young women all over our land and especially here at the Beach - it's the graduation day month! Whether the June girl graduate wears the traditional cap and gown or not, she has to have that one very special white dress underneath. So, for graduation and parties all summer long, an airy dress of shadow organza cut with the high-waisted Empire bodice is a good buy. Fabric buttons accenting the length of the bodice and on the tiny turn-back cuffs on the short sleeves with a turn-over Peter Pan collar puts the frock out front in 1954 summer fashion smartness. Today, the simpler the lines in the Girl Graduates dress the smarter. Gone are those days when lace ruffles and bouffant skirts and inserts were considered the last word. Feminine and almost tailored looking white dresses suggest that the girl receiving the long-sought diploma is now ready to step out smartly into her business world ahead.

THE AMERICAN INDIAN SLANT - The American Indian is the source of many fashion ideas in the Southwest. The square dress - which you heard about here in this column last winter - and the shirt, the ancient ritual designs of the Pueblo dwellers are all providing rich inspiration for a fact that is sweeping the country. Native styles are being custom-made and manufactured in thriving centers which have developed in Tucson and Santa Fe. Berta Wright has presented her Wright Desert Series in which many gay and colorful frocks are proving that these brilliantly colorful and easy to wear designs are making a gay contribution to the casual country life which is becoming more and more popular in America. One of the Dorothy Rice Originals reflects the influence of the square dress in a lovely white cotton dress with its deep ruffle banded in red and navy rickrack. Matching it is the trimming on the roll collar, cuffs and tie-on belt. The well-shaped bodice is piped in the front.

DESERT SONG - A desert

to "the play must go on" and her great theatrical know-how. Beach-lites have been fortunate indeed to have Ruth's experience and seasoned direction for their enter-down throughout the year. The shows selected have been fun and certainly entertaining enough for an evening's enjoyment. The sets, cast and costumes have always seemed adequate. It would seem to your Allisbee that a more intensive ticket campaign before the fall season starts might help fill the fine auditorium at the high school which is now available. At any rate, Beach theatre enthusiasts will miss Ruth Masury's fine direction and enthusiasm behind the presentations and your Allisbee's big, red bonnet is off in a big, low sweep to Ruth for her untiring efforts and splendid contribution to the Virginia Beach citizens who have "sat out front!"

Health, Welfare

The one exception probably will be grants for mental health. Members of Congress and a number of state officials believe that lumping these with other funds will cause mental hygiene programs to be submerged in other health activities.

Lobby groups which do not often see eye to eye on national issues joined forces to shoot holes in the Eisenhower Administration proposal for a health insurance program.

The National Chamber of Commerce and American Insurance Association, which have lashed horns in the past, joined other groups in voting opposition to the bill drawn up by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and introduced into both houses of Congress.

HEW Secretary Bobby said the legislation would: Establish a reinsurance fund to stimulate insurance carriers to broaden benefits and service; authorize $50 million to reimburse "excess losses," the fund covering 75 per cent of losses, the carriers the remainder, among other things.

Said the AMA... The bill will not fill its intended purpose and may in fact inhibit satisfactory progress which is now being made by voluntary insurance companies. Said the Chamber of Commerce... (It) would add nothing to the present rapidly expanding and successful system... (and might lead to) socialized medicine under a compulsory health insurance plan."

BETTER MENTAL HEALTH - A BETTER NATION

The other dancing dress by Cecil Chapman had red-ribbon scrolling over black and white checked gingham with a most dramatic wide bright red taffeta cummerbund sash, with the ends of the sash wide and stiff flaring out on the right hip and rippling down the side of the dancing frock. DRESS REHEARSAL

A SHORT STORY

Nancy gripped Bob's hand tensely. Currents of excitement rippled from her eyes, as she whispered breathlessly: "I'm only sixteen, Bob! The folks still think I'm a kid. You can't convince them! I'll bet you can't!"

Bob, more cockily than he felt, grinned back: "They expect us to get married some day. Why not now?"

Nancy dubiously agreed: "Marie told me at the Drama Club last night that she and Jerry are getting married this summer. She's only a year older than I am."

"You can think of your darned old club at a moment like this?"
Bob demanded, aggrieved. "We're facing the most serious decision of our young lives—the real turning point." Nancy repressed a half hysterical giggle, and reached for the door knob. "They'll really hit the ceiling!" she whispered.

Nancy's parents looked up as they entered. Her mother smiled up from her sewing, and her father nodded, an ear glued to the sportscast as if it were an ordinary evening. Nancy hesitated only a moment, then announced brightly: "Congratulations, folks! Bob and I have decided to get married!"

"What!" Nancy's father exploded. His pipe fell out of his mouth, scattering ashes in his lap.
"Now, Dad," Nancy said slowly,
the anesthesia of shock

Steel Production Key to U.S. Prosperity

Max Howell Tells Iron, Steel Executives

Business is not bad when the steel industry's production, employment and wages are as high as at present, Max D. Howell, executive vice president, American Iron and Steel Institute, told 12-60 steel executives in New York recently.

The steel production was about 34.7 million tons in the first five months of this year, or six per cent more than the 1947-49 average; the employment was well over 600,000 persons and the wages were at record high levels, he said at the 62nd Meeting of the Institute.

The output in this country to date this year is only 12 per cent less than Russia's in all of last year, according to Mr. Howell.
He emphasized the present and future importance of steel, and said that the steel industry is better equipped better managed and more efficient than ever before.

The steel executives were told by Mr. Howell that the recent Supreme Court decision on segregation "may well prove of unfor-seen importance as an offset to certain communistic propaganda, both at home and abroad."

He said businessmen must interest themselves increasingly in the problems of government.

Mr. Howell said the steel industry's capacity, greatly enlarged in recent years in line with the government's desire for reserve capacity, now has a wide margin over current consumption.
The reserve capacity is being maintained because the government's possible future defense needs, he said.

Mr. Howell emphasized that steel is important in the growth

Lynchburg Begins Summer Sessions On June 14th

Lynchburg College, Lynchburg, Virginia, will begin its first summer session on June 14, 1954, and continue through July 17, 1954.
July 19 marks the beginning of the second term which ends August 21. During these sessions, courses in astronomy, art, biology, business, chemistry, economics,
English, French, History, philosophy, physics, psychology, religion, sociology, Spanish, and physical education will be offered.

Lynchburg College is a four year college and is accepted by graduate and professional schools.
It is fully accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the Regents of the University of the State of New York, and by the State Board of Education of the Commonwealth of Virginia. It is on the list of colleges approved for pre-medical training by the American Medical Association.

Credits for each course are expressed in terms of semester hours, which represent the equivalent of one hour of lecture or recitation or two hours of laboratory a week for one semester.

A course offering six semester hours credit is of the intensive type and will occupy the entire time of the student throughout one term. A course of only three hours credit occupies only half as much time, therefore giving the student an opportunity to enroll for two three-hour courses.

Classes will meet five days a week each term except for the sixth day of the last week which will meet for examinations or other projects.

Expenses for the summer session include tuition cost of $78.00 for a full program or $39.00 for a half program; comprehensive fee of $5.00 which includes health service, recreational facilities, accident insurance premium, and library use; board for five weeks, $44.00; room for five weeks, $12.00;
bringing the total cost per term to $139.00. An additional fee of $15.00 must accompany applications for room in the dormitory.

BANK OF VIRGINIA BEACH

A monument to nine years of growing, the opening of the main office of The Bank of Virginia Beach at 31st Street and Pacific Avenue is a tribute to the expansion of Princess Anne Countys Home Owned Bank and this fast growing community. Since its inception when a group of local citizens subscribed to the initial stock issue, the history of the Bank of Virginia Beach has been one of progress in its service to the area. In nine short years the bank's activity has necessitated more commodious accommodations for its customers and now, the main office will be housed in the modern building at the corner of 31st Street and Pacific Avenue, adjacent to The Auto Bank which opened in September 1950 to give the bank's customers a new banking convenience and a central location. With the new Main Bank, The Auto Bank and The Atlantic Avenue Branch, The Bank of Virginia Beach now triples its service to this community and is now equipped to render any banking service that might be desired.

Gardens Given Daylight Beauty at Night By Use of New Type Flood Lighting

By Bob Dursley

Imagine Looking out of your picture window some night and seeing your trees and grass as green as by daylight and flowers as colorful as they appear on some sunny afternoon.

It's not just wishful thinking but a reality that even the most budget-minded homeowner can enjoy today.

Paint Pictures With Light
With these bulbs, homeowners can actually paint their own pictures with light. Gardens can be as colorful by night as by day. Best of all, you don't need to be a lighting expert to use these bulbs.

The four basic colors, red, green, yellow, blue and two tints, blue-white and pink may be mixed just as an artist mixes his colors. These colors can be diluted with white light from regular frosted 40-150-watt spot or flood bulbs.

For instance, to enhance green trees, you would of course use green lamps. Then, possibly, if you have geraniums or roses, try spotlighting them with red or pink.

Conceal Lamps

Simply place the 150-watt reflector color lamp of your choice in an outdoor-type holder and conceal it in a nearby tree or behind a shrub. Then aim it on the foliage or flowers you want to light. Naturally, you'll want outdoor-type wiring. Just to make sure the lamps don't break during a summer shower, where drops of water touch the hot bulb, shield the bulb with a homemade hood of sheet metal. Some large cans also make good "shields" if they are large enough to allow the air to circulate freely.

If you are lighting your garden for the first time, be prepared for a pleasant thrill. For best results, here are a few final hints to keep in mind:

(1) Avoid spots of brightness from lighting units. Arrange them so spectators see only the "results" not "how" you did it. Simply conceal equipment in shrubs, tree branches or rocks.

(2) Let darkness conceal unlighted views. It will be your biggest help so depend on it! Actually, in many cases, views are improved at night because you can't see distracting sights.

(3) If your house does not have permanent outdoor receptacles, use any protected outlet such as garage or porch light. The best plan, of course, is to have an outdoor outlet. If you do use porch light, make sure you locate lamps so steps are not left in the dark.

(4) These reflector color lamps can also be used for floodlighting your house at Christmas.

Communications Facility Nearing Completion

Work is nearing completion at three Tidewater sites on the Navy's powerful new communications facility, and the $11,200,000 station should be ready to go on the air by March of 1955, according to official estimates released today.

Designed to keep the Navy's Norfolk commands in touch with the most far-flung warships of the Atlantic Fleet, this modern facility provides for rapid, automatic transmission and receiving of messages.

The three major components of the communications station are scattered at widely-separated points in Tidewater:

(1) The brain or headquarters will be in a new building on the Norfolk Naval Base.

(2) The voice or transmitter will be at Driver, Virginia, 14 miles west of Norfolk.

(3) The ears or receiver will be at Northwest, Virginia, 27 miles south of Norfolk at the North Carolina state line.

Commenting on the new installation's importance, Commander R. D. Pinkerton, CEC, USN, design and construction officer for Fifth Naval District Public Works Office, said:

"Naval communications with the fleet are made by radio and are vitally necessary for the successful operation of fleet units in both war and peace."

"Demands of modern war require greater speed in almost all things, including communications. The purpose of the station is to provide rapid, automatic transmission and receiving of messages to units of the Fleet located anywhere in the Atlantic and eastern hemisphere."

"Also, our global commitments have increased the need for such a facility, NATO Headquarters in Norfolk being an example of this. The Norfolk area was the logical choice for such an installation because of the great concentration of command and fleet activity here."

The communications facility's the various "customer" brain, located at the Naval Base, is a steel-reinforced concrete building, windproof, splinterproof and air conditioned. This control center contains headquarters equipment and staff, and teletype machines which relay messages commands and the transmission and receiving points at Driver and Northwest.

The 871-acre Driver installation, constructed on the site of Monogram naval auxiliary air station of World War II, will serve as the voice or transmitting station for the new facility. Transmitter equipment is located in a steel-reinforced building similar to the one at Naval Base. Several other buildings have been constructed to take care of two officers, 60 enlisted men and 14 civilians.

There is one 800-foot transmitting antenna at the Driver site, plus four 300-foot towers, a 225-foot, and dozens of smaller antennas and poles of varying sizes that carry directional signals. These transmitters range in power from 1,800 watts to more than 50,000 watts, and can contact any vessel attached to the Atlantic Fleet. Heretofore, long-range communications had to be routed via Washington for transmission.

The receiver site at Northwest contains approximately 5,000 acres of land. The receiver equipment is housed in a concrete building similar to the principal structures at Norfolk Naval Base and Driver. Two circles of highly directional antennas will surround the radio receiving building. Beyond that, an area 600 feet wide is being stripped of all buildings and trees to eliminate interference.

Thus, by switching from one antenna to another, signals can be selected that improve reception of weak signals from the most distant ships.

The three communications sites are all components of the U. S. Naval Communications Station, Norfolk Naval Base, commanded by Capt. F. C. Layne, USN.

More than 200 million people, roughly a tenth of the human race, live within the Yangtze River basin in China.

DELICIOUS BROILED CHICKEN

Financier recipe. National Chicken Cooking Contest, Salisbury, Md.

2 to 2 1/2 lbs. Natur-Tender broiler or fryer chicken 1 teaspoon salt

1 lemon 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar 1 1/2 teaspoons paprika

1-4 cup melted Tri-Sure Butter 1-4 teaspoon blk. pepper

Have chicken split in half for broiling. Rub entire surface of chicken with cut lemon, seasoning lemon to obtain plenty of juice. Coat with melted butter. Sprinkle with mixture of salt, sugar, paprika and pepper. Place in broiler pan, skin side down. Place broiler 8 to 12 inches from source of heat. Chicken should broil slowly. Adjust heat so chicken just begins to brown lightly in 10 minutes. Turn and broil with butter top or three times during broiling to brown and cook evenly. Total cooking time varies from 15 to 20 minutes. The skin is done when the meat in the thickest part of the drumstick cuts easily and there is no pink color visible. Serve with peas dripping poured over top.

COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL BUSINESS REVIEW SECTION

Aufenger's Studio One of South's Oldest and Most Progressive

Aufenger's Studio, located on South Street in Norfolk, is one of the oldest established photography studios in Tidewater Virginia and the entire south. The well known studio was founded by Richard Fox, who died when the present owner and operator of the firm was only three months old. In the meantime Mrs. Richard Fox Aufenger continued operation of the business until her son reached manhood. The 50-year old business was the first in the nation to place actual enlarged photographs on outdoor billboards and since that initial step was taken the practice has become quite popular and common throughout the United States.

Aufenger's Studio makes a specialty of wedding portraits and of men, women and children. They employ a complete staff of artists in hand painting and the restoration of old photographs and miniatures.

The firm has kept well abreast of the changing times and is one of the modernly equipped photography plants in the Nation.

Richard Fox Aufenger, Jr., who operates the business, attended the Winona School of Photography after his graduation from the University of Virginia. The Winona school is located in Indiana and is the most outstanding school of photography in the U. S.

Bethanizing Process Makes Better Fencing, Says Acme Products Co.

Bethanized chain-link fences make a better fence. It is claimed by Acme Products Company, of Norfolk, who are distributors for the nationally famous fences in this area.

The bethanized coating of the fence is a zinc coating that is 99.9 per cent pure and presents the greatest advancement in fences in the past 50 years.

This new type coating is entirely different from other zinc or other coatings in the fact that the zinc is applied by an advanced electrolytic process which is a clean-cut departure from other methods. Because of its superior purity, tightness and uniformity, the bethanized coating gained immediate recognition when it was introduced in 1929 by the Bethlehem Steel Company.

Bethanized wire has maximum resistance to corrosion as a result of the perfect uniformity of the bethanized coating over every part

Vets Convert $450 Million Of Insurance

More than $450 million of term National Service Life Insurance was converted to permanent plans, such as ordinary life, 20 payment life, 30 payment life and endowments during 1953, Veterans Administration announced.

Of the more than 6,000,000 World War Two policies in force today, more than 2,600,000 are on permanent plans. At the end of 1945 only one percent of all NSLI policies were on permanent plans. Today, almost 36 percent of all NSLI policies are in permanent plans.

The only GI life insurance which may not be converted under present laws is the special five-year nonconvertible term policy that is issuable to veterans with service since the start of the Korean hostilities.

All veterans who hold NSLI term insurance issued before April 25, 1951, may convert these policies to permanent plans of insurance. Those who convert pay the same premium rate throughout the premium-paying life of the policy. Term policyholders, on the other hand, pay at progressively higher premium rates as they grow older.

Permanent plan policies provide guaranteed values which term policies do not. These guaranteed values, which are available to veterans after premiums have been paid for one full year, include cash surrender value, policy loan provision, and reduced paid-up insurance.

VA said that thousands of term policies, which have been permitted to lapse for non-payment of premiums when the war was still within the five year term period, may be reinstated and converted upon application for VA before their terms expire. Veterans may obtain full information by writing to the VA office to which they are mailing their premiums.

Sea creatures, like mackerel, are attracted to lights. Bait, squid, and even flying fish have been attracted at night by an electric bulb held over the water.

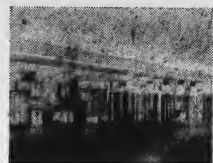

Cancer has risen from eighth place as a cause of death in 1900 to second place in 1949.

Divisionalized Chrysler Plan Progresses

Chrysler's divisionalization program takes a major forward step with the appointment of Thomas S. Lawton as comptroller to head the establishment of an independent financial structure for Chrysler Division of Chrysler Corporation.

"As the result of this and other moves toward complete divisionalization we will be able to continue our program of constantly improving our product while becoming increasingly competitive," said E. C. Quinn, Chrysler Division president.

"This will result in new benefits for purchasers of Chrysler cars, greater profit opportunities for our 3,400 dealers and a greater share of the automotive market for Chrysler."

Under Mr. Lawton's direction the division will establish its own independent financial, cost, and price analysis sections thus making available to management at all times the information needed to meet competitive situations.

The comptroller's office will take over the present factory accounting system. The Chrysler Divisional accounting system now housed at the Chrysler Corporation central offices will move to Chrysler Division.

Lawton has had wide experience in the accounting and auditing field. He joined Chrysler Corporation in 1930 as assistant chief auditor on the comptroller's audit staff and became coordinator of defense accounting for the Corporation in 1953.

A naval officer in World War II, he graduated from the University of Michigan in 1941 with a degree in economics. He joined the accounting firm of Ernst and Ernst in 1941 as an auditor and remained there until the beginning of his war service. Following the war he returned to Ernst and Ernst where he served as auditor until he became associated with the accounting firm of Touche, River, Bailey and Smart, becoming a Certified Public Accountant.

Lawton was born in Detroit, Michigan in 1918. He is a member of the National Association of Cost Accountants and the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Midshipmen Embark On Saturday For Summer Cruise; Libby To Command

Five heavy combatant ships of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet left their berths in Hampton Roads Tuesday morning and steamed North for Annapolis, Md., where they will embark Naval Academy midshipmen for their annual summer cruise on Saturday. They will be followed today by 10 destroyer-type vessels which are to make up the screen unit.

First to get underway was the aircraft carrier USS Sidney, followed by the heavy cruisers USS MACON and DES MOINES, and the battleships NEW JERSEY and MISSOURI. They will anchor in Annapolis Roads. Five of the smaller ships will later berth alongside the Academy's Santee Dock, to facilitate loading.

The 15 ships will stay at Annapolis through the remainder of June Week, which ends with graduation exercises for the Class of 1954 on Friday, June 4. Early Saturday morning, the men-of-war will begin embarkation of more than 1600 midshipmen of the Classes of 1956 and 1957 for a two-month training cruise to Southern Europe. The ships, all units of this year's Midshipman Practice Squadron, will depart for Norfolk where they will embark 1320 NROTC midshipmen from 26 colleges and universities.

Also participating in one or more phases of the cruise are three fleet officers and a storekeeper. Designated "Task Group 40.1," the squadron is under the overall command of Rear Admiral R. E. Libby, USN, Commander Battle-ship-Cruiser Force, Atlantic Fleet. He will fly his flag in the 45,000-ton MISSOURI. The battleship recently returned from a prolonged sakedown cruise to Cuba after a winter's overhaul period.

Second in command is Rear Admiral A. A. Burke, USN, Commander Cruiser Division Six, embarked in the heavy cruiser MACON.

After embarking the NROTC midshipmen, the squadron will leave Norfolk, Monday, (June 7) for Southern Europe. The ships will visit four European countries before returning to Hampton Roads on August 3. The ports included on the itinerary are: Lisbon, Portugal; Cadiz, La Coruna, and Vigo, Spain; Le Harve and Cherbourg, France; Antwerp, Belgium and Rotterdam, Netherlands.

An estimated 13,600 naval personnel, including 3,000 officers and 599 officers will participate in the cruise.

There were 50,000 more persons injured in U. S. motor vehicle accidents last year than in 1952.

Nation's Foremost Golfers Tee Off in 2nd Annual Virginia Beach Open Today

The second annual Virginia Beach Open Golf Tournament opens this morning over the beautiful Cavalier Yacht and Country Club course and the nation's top professionals will be shooting for $15,000 in prize money.

A pro-amateur held Wednesday officially opened the golfing event here and today pros and amateurs alike, will begin the first 18 hole round that will conclude on Sunday.

This year's event, co-sponsored by the Professional Golfers Association and the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, has attracted another star-studded field. Several former national open winners are entered in the 72-hole event. These include Lloyd Mangrum, one of the top money winners, Dr. Cary Middlecott, the Memphis dentist, Julius Boros and Lew Worsham.

Worsham is the golfing sharpshooter, who noosed out Fortinowich's Chandler Harper for the Trans-O-Shanter pot of gold in Chicago. It will be recalled that Worsham holed out his second shot from 140 yards to beat out Harper by one stroke. The shot meant a prize of $28,000 to the free swinging Worsham.

In addition to the former open champions the field will include most of the year's leading money winners and Doug Ford, who won the affair last year will defend his crown.

Bob Tuck, the mighty mile who is the winner of three tournaments this year will also be on hand. Other entrants include Dick Mayer, Freddy Haas, Ansel Snow, Bo Winninger, Leo Blaggett, Jackie Burke, Bob Rogers and Billy Joe Patton. The tournament will be the most best Ben Hogan and Sam Snead for the Augusta National crown.

The Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual Junior amateur golf tournament at the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club golf course on June 14. Play will consist of 36 holes of medal play starting at 9:30 a. m. with 18 holes to be played in the morning and afternoon.

The four top medal winners of the Virginia Beach tournament will be held at Lynchburg June 23, 24, and 25. Beach Jaycees will pay the traveling, meal, lodging and entry expenses for their local tournament winners at the State tournament. Virginia Beach Nash will furnish transportation for the four Beach Winners to the tournament.

The top four winners of the Virginia State Junior Chamber of Commerce Junior Amateur Golf Tournament will receive an all-expense paid trip to the National tournament at Albuquerque, N. Mex., August 16-21.

Awards will be presented to the top four contestants immediately following the tourney. Engraved Silver Trophies will be given to each winner.

The United States Junior Chamber of Commerce is going all out to make its ninth annual junior golf tournament an outstanding contribution to America.

Press Association Meeting at Cavalier; Delegates Engage In Business and Recreation

The annual summer meeting of the Virginia Press Association opens today at the Cavalier Club with representatives of the press from all sections of the State expected to be in attendance. The meeting will continue through next Saturday.

Registration is set for this morning and the first session will be held this afternoon. A highlight of the meeting will be the annual Carl E. Short Memorial Golf tournament. The event will be played over the Princess Anne course Friday morning since the Virginia Beach Open will be in progress at the Cavalier Country Club.

One of the largest gatherings of the press association is anticipated this year, according to Ed Meyer, the association's secretary. Advance registrations indicate that all major newspapers in the state, both daily and weekly, will be represented at the Cavalier convention.

In addition to the regular members, the meeting will also attract representatives of firms who supply newspapers with ink, paper, metal and other items used in the newspaper field.

Last year the association met with the Maryland Press Association in Hagerstown, Maryland.

FORMAL BANK OPENING DRAWS MANY RESIDENTS

More than 1000 persons visited the new main office of the Bank of Virginia Beach at its formal dedication last Saturday night. The beautiful new building was attractively graced with an abundance of flower arrangements sent by friends of the banking institution. Feminine employees of the bank served as hostesses on the occasion and served punch to the countless number of visitors.

Dedication and opening of the new main office of the Bank of Virginia Beach coincided with the institution's ninth anniversary during which time the bank has enjoyed a phenomenal growth. The Bank of Virginia Beach was founded in June 1945 with 120 stockholders and five employees. Today it has built support for the same number of stockholders but now employs 21 persons.

Crowning of 'Miss Virginia Beach' To Be Highlight of Third Annual Sand Festival

J. Leslie Richardson, chairman of the "Miss Virginia Beach" Pageant, has sent out a call for all local girls between the ages of 17-23 to enter the official "Miss America" Preliminary, co-sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and Radio Station WGH.

Miss Betty Jean Woodhouse, 20 years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Woodhouse, is the first entry.

The "Miss Virginia Beach" Pageant will be held as one of the highlights of the Sand Festival, sponsored by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce and Radio Station WGH, at the Sand Festival, announced today.

Arrangements have been made with Sidney Banks to stage the preliminaries Friday night, June 25th, at the Cavalier Beach and Cabana Club. He will open up the club for this civic event and will give the proceeds from it to the Sand Festival. The following night the finals will be staged at the Surf Club. Jack Kane has announced he has secured Tony Pastor and his orchestra for that night.

The local winner will represent Virginia Beach in the State Finals at Roanoke on August 3rd and 4th. If she wins the "Miss Virginia" title, she will then represent the state in the famous "Miss America" Pageant at Atlantic City, N. J., in September.

Members appointed by Richardson to serve on the Pageant Committee are Mrs. Laura Lamb, Committee Chairman; Mrs. Janet Kennedy; Mrs. Oley Kellam; Mrs. Jamie Grandy; Mr. Herbert Norb; Mr. Peter Oley; Mr. Herbert Norb; Mr. Matthews; Mr. Floyd Patrick.

and Mr. Murray Malbon.

The Chairman called on citizens of the Virginia Beach area to encourage all eligible girls to participate.

Pointing out that a "Miss America" may be living right here, Richardson explained, "She may not necessarily be the most glamorous girl in the world, but she will be a 'typical American girl'."

Each girl is judged in an evening dress, a bathing suit and on a three minute talent routine. Talent includes singing, playing a musical instrument, dancing, painting, dress designing, dramatics or a three minute talk on a career such as studying to be a nurse, doctor, school teacher or lawyer.

Every local firm and civic organization is invited to sponsor a girl. As an entrance fee, the sponsor is asked to pay $10.00, which will be contributed to the scholarship fund for the local winner. Girls entering do not have to find their own sponsors, however.

Entry blanks and full details are available from the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce or Radio Station WGH in Norfolk. $25,000 in educational scholarships will be awarded at the National Finals of the "Miss America" Pageant, a $500.00 scholarship will be given to the "Miss Virginia" winner, and local prizes are being arranged for the girl receiving the "Miss Virginia Beach" title.

Miss Woodhouse is sponsored by the Seashore Real Estate Company of Virginia Beach.

Registrars Sit June 11th, 12th

The registrars for Virginia Beach's two voting precincts have advised that anyone in doubt as to their voting status should visit them at the city hall on Friday and Saturday, June 11 and 12.

The registrars explained that some difficulty was experienced in last Tuesday's councilmanic election and that any discrepancy may have resulted in the transfer of names several years ago when a second precinct was established here. At that time the registrar made the transfers, setting up two books.

Clarification may be had by visiting the registrars this week.

Mrs. Pat Phau, who recently resigned as Director of Girl Scouts for Princess Anne County, was the honored guest.

Troop No. 213 was organized February 28, 1953 with ten scouts. Mrs. Cecil W. Shuler, served as Leader. There are now twenty-five members of the Troop including four of the original number.

INCUMBENT, 2 NEWCOMERS GET NOD FROM VOTERS

VOTE HEAVY, WITH SMALL MARGINS TELLING STORY

Two newcomers and an incumbent were elected to Virginia Beach's five-man city council as a result of last Tuesday's colorful and spirited election that saw 1829 votes cast.

Leading the winning candidates was Councilman W. W. McClanan, Jr., who polled 1002 votes. He was followed by his running mate on the Greater Virginia Beach ticket, W. C. Everett, who tallied 957 votes. The third man elected was Frank D. Tarrall, Jr., running on the Unity Ticket. Tarrall garnered 951 votes.

Voting was extremely heavy and close. The other candidates and their total vote were John A. Tallaferra, 839, Dr. W. B. Costenbader, 904, and P. F. Murray, 894.

The trend in the voting was evident when the Greater Virginia Beach candidates gained an early lead at Precinct Two, the smaller of the two voting places in Virginia Beach. The Unity Ticket candidates overcame this lead to a degree at Precinct One and Tallaferra ran a close fourth to the winning trio.

The results of the election leaves the city organization group with three members on the council and two members. The three, elected Tuesday will serve with John W. McCombs and Frank A. Dusch.

The total vote was the largest polled since the bitterly contested 1951 election when more than 2,200 votes were cast.

Voters went to the polls early Tuesday with approximately 130 on hand at Precinct One when it opened at 8:30 a. m. The polls remained open until 7:30 p. m.

In this election, the mayor's post was abolished as an elective office. In the future the mayor will be elected by the Council. Two Councilmen whose terms expire this year, did not stand for re-election. They are Henry L. Gregory and George C. McGowan. McGowan, 29, is a native of Norfolk. He attended Virginia Beach public schools and Oceana High School before studying at Emory and Henry College. He operates the Atlantic Cleaners and Tailors in the city. He is a member of the Virginia Beach Rotary Club, the Princess Anne County Club, and the Men's National Bible Class at the beach. He has been a member of the Council since 1948.

His wife is married to the former Councilman, Harry L. Gregory, who is a member of the Virginia Beach Rotary Club, the Norfolk and Virginia Beach Sports Clubs, the Virginia Club, and the Association of Surveyors.

He is married to the former Elizabeth Clark, of Norfolk. They have one son.

The unofficial vote by precincts:

TIPPING THE CHAPEAU

Congratulations to the Officers and Directors of the Bank of Virginia Beach!

Congratulations, not only for the progress made in the past nine years which, doubtless, is a result of the service rendered to the public by Princess Anne County's only bank-owned, home-operated, bank, but also for their contribution to the beauty of the community by the construction of their new ultra-modern "banking home" located at 31st Street and Pacific Avenue, in celebration of their ninth anniversary.

More praise particularly go to Mr. E. H. Church, President and Mr. Geo. T. Mullen, Cashier, who have steered the operations of the Bank since its inception, in that they have always fallen in line with what the Council of Garden Clubs is trying to accomplish and it is obvious that their "banking home" was not complete until it had been beautifully landscaped!

And, it is understood that after their anniversary celebration, the flowers from innumerable well-wishers, which beautified the entire building, were sent to the Virginia Beach Hospital, delivered through the courtesy of the Bureau of Social Work. An exceptionally nice gesture in sharing their happiness with others!

NOTE: The Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County, through this column, selects a beauty spot each week.

Williamsburg to Recall History

The first document in American history to proclaim individual citizens' rights will be recalled at Williamsburg, Va., on June 12, when this restored colonial city marks the 177th anniversary of the Virginia Declaration of Rights.

Passed on June 12, 1776, by the Virginia Convention, which met in the colonial Capitol building the Declaration proclaimed the rights that Virginians felt they were losing under the growing tyranny of Great Britain.

The doctrine of religious liberty and freedom of the press, the rights of fair trial, free elections and majority rule—all of which later found their way into the more famous Declaration of Independence—were first set down in the Virginia Declaration of Rights.

Its author, George Mason, was a retiring scholar who seldom meddled in public affairs unless his country needed him. He was an independent man who said what he thought, never pushed himself in the public eye and was content to remain a man behind the great scenes played in the birth of this country.

Called to Williamsburg in May, 1776, to attend the Virginia Convention, Mason was appointed by the Speaker of the House of Burgesses to serve on the committee to draft a declaration of rights. Twenty-eight men sat on the committee and each had ideas for the proclamation, but Mason's proposal swallowed up all the rest and became Virginia's answer to British injustice.

Cmdr. Davis at Washington Post

Lt. Cmdr. Frederick C. Davis, USCG, who has been Assistant Director of Reserve for the Fifth Coast Guard District in Norfolk since last November, today was assigned Chief of the Payment and Claims Division in Coast Guard Headquarters, Washington. He reports to Headquarters for his new assignment June 15.

Davis' wife, Ann, who teaches school in Princess Anne County, plans to remain living at their home on Rt. 2 Princess Anne, during the Lieutenant commander's Washington assignment.

Also Mrs. Tilford Williams, of Munden, Chairman for Pungo District; and Mrs. D. J. Vaughan, of Princess Anne, Chairman for Beaufort District.

Sponsors for the Princess Anne County drive include Mrs. G. Bentley Byrd, of London Bridge; John E. Day, of London Bridge; Judge Floyd E. Kellam, of Princess Anne; Mrs. Alfred L. Nicholson, of Lynnhaven; and Mrs. V. Alfred Etheridge, of Oceana.

"The work of the Society is for the benefit of the babies whose own parents, because of various circumstances, have had to give them up permanently, and these babies come to the Society in real need of help," said Mrs. Dormire, in pointing out the job the Society is doing in Virginia.

"I hope the people of this section will give generously to this work which has meant so much for the needy children in Virginia," she added.

The Society has pointed out that a gift of as little as two dollars will take care of all of a child's expenses in a boarding home for one day. Ten dollars will take care of all the clothing a child will use while he is the responsibility of the Society, while thirty-five dollars will board a child for an entire month, the records of the Society indicate.

The greatest part of the Society's support comes from private subscriptions given by thousands of persons in Virginia who wish to see the work continued.

Before he was made Fifth District assistant director of Reserve, Davis spent more than two years aboard the Norfolk based weather patrol cutter Ingham as executive officer. He last served in Headquarters between 1946 and '51 in the Personnel Division.

The Princess Anne Violet Society will meet June 17 at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Lockwood in Cavalier Park. There will be a panel discussion on Culture and Care of Violets, conducted by Mrs. Lockwood.

Wise Stepmother

Have you heard about young Shooter Roberts' unusual pet, the tame owl "Blinky"? He's had her about three years.

I say "her" because up to a couple of weeks ago nobody was quite sure. But now "Blinky" is a mother—of two chicks!

Seems "Blinky" had been acting kind of strange—so on a hunch, Shooter put a couple of hen's eggs in her nest. Darn if "Blinky" didn't set on them for 5 days! Last Friday they hatched, and now "Blinky" is as proud as a mother hen! (So's Shooter.)

From where I sit, there's a lesson for all of us. Guess you'd call it "tolerance." Birds and animals often seem to do better in that respect than humans. If I like a glass of temperate beer with supper and you'd rather have cider—it should be okay with both of us. Neither of us should give a "hoot" what the other fellow likes, says, or does, as long as he follows the law of the land. Right?

WITH THE 4-H CLUBS

By DICK COCKRELL, ASSISTANT COUNTY AGENT

"4-H Clubs Enjoy Spring Tours"

On Tuesday, May 25th, the Courthouse 4-H Club toured our nation's capitol. By leaving at 5 P. M. they managed to see quite a lot that many of us as an individual trip would not have seen. Let's run through the tour just as these club members did. Upon arriving in Washington they first went to the Capitol where they toured the grounds, & the buildings and most important to the club members was that they saw our Senate in Session. From there they went to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, there they saw the weapons belonging to the Dillingers, different types of finger prints, pictures of different criminal groups. But the two things that thrilled these 4-Hers was the expert shooting of a rifle and machine gun, and seeing the office of J. Edgar Hoover.

TOOL CARPENTER . . . Here is a handy, easily constructed rack that serves a useful purpose. Just look the rack on the tractor frame and take the whole kit along when you need tools in the field. Plan size of rack by measuring length and width of your tool box.

From there they went to the Archives building to see the original Declaration of Independence and also original constitution, and then on the Library of Congress to see the Gutenberg Bible, one of the first printed books. The 4-Hers even went to the Supreme Court building and into the Chamber where Trials are held. One 4-Her said "this is the only way I ever want to be in here."

By the time they got to the monument it was too late to go up, but at last many children who had never been to Washington did see it. They were not discouraged for they had other places to go, so on to Arlington they went. There they saw the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, also saw the change of the Guard while there. They also saw the amphitheater and the most of the maids. At Lincoln Memorial they saw the Statue of Lincoln. On the walls they saw and read the Gettysburg Address, and his second inaugural address.

At Union Station the tour was almost over. After supper and buying souvenirs the 4-Hers boarded the bus for home. The last to see on the tour was their own beds when they arrived home around 2 a. m.

On Thursday, May 27th, the Oceana Junior 4-H club had an all day tour which commenced at the Jet Base at Oceana. After seeing the operations at Oceana they panned to Elizabeth Way-side where they enjoyed a picnic prepared by Mrs. T. N. Wood, leader of the club. After lunch they went to the Norfolk Assembly Plant where they watch the Ford when it wasn't a Ford and then saw it being driven off the assembly line a finished product.

"Reduce Losses Due To Summer Heat"
Try to prevent your poultry flock from becoming overheated during the hot summer months. Remember that a hot poorly ventilated poultry house, or the lack of shade or enough water may cause a drop in egg production, poor growth, and sometimes death.

There are several things that can be done to reduce losses due to hot weather. One of the best things to do might be to reduce the amount of heat that goes through the roof of your building by insulating the ceiling or by painting the roof with a white, heat-resisting roof paint. Even the insulated roof will be cooler and last longer with a heat-reflecting covering. The best white roof covering is probably an aluminum asphalt paint prepared for this purpose. Another thing you can do to help protect your birds from the hot weather would be to open all windows, and, if necessary, even make extra openings on the north side in order to allow for the greater movement of air through your building. Still another thing you can do would be to put additional watering vessels in the house and keep them filled so as to make it easier for your birds to get plenty of clean, cool water. Also give your chickens sufficient floor space. Remember, your birds work and grow better when they are comfortable.

Secty. Benson to Address Plant Food Council Meeting Tomorrow

Nationally-known leaders in the field of agriculture will address the Ninth Annual Convention of the America Plant Food Council at the Homestead Hotel, Norfolk, Va., June 10-13. Paul T. Truitt, President of the Council, announced today.

Speakers will include Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, four leaders in the field of agricultural public relations, the Chairman of the House Subcommittee on Fertilizer and Farm Machinery, and Dr. H. B. James of North Carolina State College at Raleigh. Dr. Paul Saunders, Richmond, Va., Editor of The Southern Planter, will be the banquet speaker on Saturday evening, June 12. The opening of the Convention will be preceded by a meeting of warm temperatures or rough treatment. Gather your eggs 3 times a day during the summer months and keep them in a cool, moist place away from onions, kerosene, and other such products where the temperature is somewhere between 50 and 55 degrees F. until they are ready to be sold. Provide at least one nest for every 5 hens, and produce clean eggs by keeping the hens out of their night droppings, the litter dry and the nests filled with plenty of clean, dry nesting material. Dispose of all males unless you are producing hatching eggs. Keep broody hens off the nests. Collect the eggs in a wire basket or other container that air can pass through so that they can be cooled as fast as possible. Pack sound-shelled eggs in clean pre-cooled containers with the small end down. Market the eggs at least twice a week, and protect them from sun and rain and avoid unnecessary delay when enroute to market.

Miscellaneous Scratching
Get Rid of the Loafers. You can't afford to keep birds in your flock that are not producing. Check your flock carefully from time to time during the summer months and remove all hens that are not laying. Also sell or eat all males (unless you are producing hatching eggs) and the hens that want to set or go broody.

Don't Waste Feed Experiments conducted by one of our leading feed companies showed that chickens fed in regular type through feeders wasted 28 to 45 per cent of their feed during the first 6 weeks if feeders were filled full each time they were emptied. The study also showed that 7 to 15 per cent of the feed was wasted when the feeders were filled 2-3 full and 2 to 5 per cent of it wasted when the feeders were filled 1-1 full. Let's cut down on feed costs by filling feeders to the proper level.

Speakers on Saturday, June 12, will be Rep. Charles B. Hoeven (R-Iowa) chairman, House Agriculture Subcommittee on Fertilizer and Farm Machinery; Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson; and Dr. H. B. James, Head, Department of Agricultural Economics, North Carolina State College, Raleigh. The Council's annual business meeting will follow with reports from the Credential and Nominating Committees, followed by the election of eight new members to the Board of Directors.

The Convention will be brought to a climax on Saturday evening, June 12, at the annual banquet with an address by Dr. Paul D. Sanders, Editor of The Southern Planter. More than 550 of the Nation's leading manufacturers of fertilizer and producers of fertilizer materials, together with leaders in the field of agricultural education and research, will attend the 1954 Convention.

Saves . . . and saves . . . and saves

It's probably happened to you a lot of times. You've gone into town, or to visit a friend—perhaps at a considerable distance—and returned all the way home before you remembered something you wanted to buy, or a message you wanted to deliver. That's when you're really thankful for a telephone. A real time, step and money saver. In fact, if you stopped to add up all it saves you, you'd probably say, like so many others, "My telephone is worth more to me than it costs."

Pitching in on a picnic

One of the nicest things about living in a small town or in the country is that picnics are so easy to have. You simply call up your friends—Sally brings the potato salad, Edna bakes a cake, Johnny takes care of the stove equipment, and you're off for a grand time. When you think of it, though, it's sharing the work that makes it so much fun. Just like on the party line. When everyone shares and shares alike, service is so much better, more useful for all.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

By JOHN O. HART, County Farm Agent

TIME TO BEGIN CULLING YOUR DAIRY HERD

Virginia dairymen are being advised to send their cull cows to market in June and July. Cull dairy cows should sell to best advantage during these two months or possibly up to mid-August when a market run on beef cattle, especially old nurse cows, is expected.

Furthermore, milk prices are down, milk cow numbers are up, the per capita consumption of milk is dropping, and the average price of milk probably will not rise to its former level. It may be better to cull the herd now to save feed for more profitable use by the more efficient cow next fall.

Beef cows usually sell better than heifers during the summer. The further fact that Virginia beef producers are trying to build up herds of younger, more efficient brood cows by getting rid of less desirable old cows in the fall should be an added incentive for dairy farmers to sell culls before the expected fall run of beef cattle develops.

It will pay any dairyman to study all market outlets for his cull cattle. Certainly, he should plan to "feed" his cull cows into the market gradually to prevent a glut. In some localities, several dairymen may pool their cull cows to make truck loads for shipment to distant, more favorable markets.

An analysis of the 1953 Virginia Dairy Herd Improvement

Association records at VPI showed that cows in commercial dairy herds had to produce 6,000 pounds of milk per year (1.9 gallons per day) in order to break even in paying all production costs. In making herd adjustments, no one can merely look at a herd and be sure which and when certain cows should be weeded out. Any dairyman who has kept monthly production and cost records on his cows is able to practice safe and intelligent herd culling.

SWEET SUDAN HELPS HAY AND PASTURE CROP

Pastures and hay crops on many Virginia farms are producing less than usual so far this season — and farmers are faced with the need for more forage for pasture, silage or hay. Sweet sudan grass will help meet this need.

A third to one-half acre of sudan grass will usually provide adequate grazing for one animal during the critical July and August periods when permanent pastures are likely to be least productive. The pasture season of sudan can be lengthened by seeding half the acreage early and the rest four to six weeks later.

Fertilize well. Broadcast and disc in 600 to 800 pounds per acre of an 8-8-8 or 10-10-10 fertilizer. Sow seed at the rate of 20 to 30 pounds per acre. Best results are usually obtained by drilling. A grain drill set to sow two pecks of wheat will seed about 20 to 25 pounds of sudan per acre. If a drill is not available, the seed may be broadcast and harrowed in.

Seed from now until July 1. It should be ready for grazing 6 to 8 weeks later. For maximum production, graze sudan rotationally. Begin grazing when the grass is at least 18 inches tall or taller and graze down to 6 to 10 inches. Remove the animals until the grass is 18 inches high again and then graze again. Normally sudan will be ready to graze the second time in 2 to 3 weeks after removing the animals.

Sweet sudan grass in excess of that needed for grazing may be used for silage or hay. Cut as the first heads appear for highest quality forage.

To avoid possible prussic acid poisoning, do not graze sudan until it is at least 18 inches high, and do not graze frosted or frozen sudan.

BEAT THE HEAT IN EGG PRODUCTION

High temperatures are the most serious enemies of good egg quality known. A fresh Grade AA egg will become inedible in 3 days at 98 degrees, in 5 days at 77 degrees, 23 days at 60 degrees, 46 days at 44 degrees, and 100 days at 37 degrees, but usually will still be Grade A at the end of 6 months if held at a temperature just above freezing.

The warm weather is again here, and unless our poultrymen take extra precautions, the quality of eggs will drop rapidly. If you are selling table eggs on a graded basis, a drop in quality means lower prices. If eggs are prepared and always be prepared going to consumers ungraded, a far war at sea."

drop in quality brings a decline in consumer demand.

Nearly every egg produced on the farm is top quality when laid. All you have to do to keep them top quality is: (1) prevent them from getting dirty in the nest by keeping the nests supplied with clean, dry nesting material, keeping the floor of the laying house, clean and dry, and keeping the birds confined on wet days so they will not track dirt into the nests; (2) prevent eggs from being subject to high temperatures by penning up broody hens so they cannot sit on the nest, gathering eggs two or three times a day in a wire basket so the air can circulate and carry off the heat quickly; and (3) store the eggs in a cool, damp place in the basement, and take them to market often.

John Paul Jones, sometimes called the father of the American Navy and hero of the American Revolution, once said "In time of peace it is necessary to be prepared and always be prepared going to consumers ungraded, a far war at sea."

Future plans call for a permanent cabin and unit shelters. The State of Virginia has leased ten acres between 78th and 80th Streets, west of Atlantic Avenue, in the State Park to the Virginia Tidewater Area Council of Girl Scouts. This site will be used for day camping overnight and troop camping. Mrs. Mansfield also reported that the proceeds from the advertisements of local merchants and contributions of friends of Scouting appearing in the program of "FASHION UNDER THE STARS" will be used to further this project. Mrs. Mildred Alexander, Women's Director of WTAR, will be the commentator for "FASHION UNDER THE STARS" which will be at the Surf Beach Club on Thursday, June 17th.

WHICH ONE OF THESE Doesn't BURN TAX DOLLARS?

Of the four forms of commercial transportation, illustrated above, three are built and maintained to substantial extent from public funds created by your tax dollars.

Only one of them — the railroads — pays its own way one hundred per cent.

In fact, railroads build, maintain and improve their facilities completely out of their earnings — in addition they pay huge taxes on those facilities and earnings. And a part of railroad taxes is used to build and maintain the facilities of their competitors!

When you realize this, you realize what the railroads mean when they say they want to compete with other carriers on a free and equal basis.

If commercial transportation were put on a truly competitive basis, not only would each carrier constantly strive to improve facilities and provide better service, as the railroads do now, but the cost would fall where it rightly belongs — on transportation users and not on the taxpayer.

Through 1953, the Federal government had spent more than $2 billion on construction of civil airports and airways, and more than $4.3 billion for river and harbor navigation facilities. Highways, used for heavy truck transportation, cost $5 billion a year to construct and maintain — and the private motorist, farmer and light truck operators pay the biggest part of that bill. But railroads neither expect nor receive any income except that which they earn.

Draws Fire From Some Senators

The then nine-month old Small Business Administration, under fire from some Senators as too conservative in its loan policy, at the end of April had made disbursements on 37 small business loans.

SBA, established by Congress last July in terminating the Small Defense Plants Administration and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has stepped up the pace of its loan approvals. A total of $15,777,000 and Wendell Bar-281 business loans had been approved by May, the figure not including disaster loans, which SBA also handles.

The total of 281 loans approved was $15,777,000, and Wendell Barnes, SBA Administrator told the Senate Select Committee on Small Business that loan applications are now being received at the rate of 400 a month.

Chairman Edward J. Thye, (R-Min.) told Barnes the SBA should adopt a more "liberal" lending attitude. Other Senators also questioned SBA policies, but Sen. Barr Goldwater (R-Ariz.) indicated that he believed SBA was carrying out the intent of the act by which Congress created it.

The act empowered the agency to:

Make loans from a revolving fund authorized to run as high as $150 million, to small businesses unable to obtain credit from private sources, within an upper limit of $150,000 for any loans. Loans may be either direct, with the SBA supplying all the funds or participation loans in which private sources and SBA both share. SBA's part being limited to 90 per cent.

Help small concerns get government contracts, and take up to $100 million in prime contracts from defense procurement agencies for arcelling out among small suppliers.

Make disaster loans up to a total of $25 million.

Congress' SBA appropriation for fiscal 1954 was $45 million.

Chairman Thye said that under the first administrator, William D. Mitchell, SBA failed to "get airborne." When Mitchell resigned on Oct. 20, no loans had been approved. In part, observers say, the slow start may have been due to administrative delays coincident

MELONS ON JUNE MARKET

Include cantaloupes in your list of foods due to be plentiful on markets this month. Heaviest shipments of these popular melons with the sweet salmon-colored flesh are expected from California, Arizona and Texas with smaller supplies from Florida.

Names for the Castle of Cantaloup in Italy where historians say they were first grown in Europe, cantaloupes came to America with the early settlers. But this type of melon originated in the hot valleys of Iran (Persia) and still thrives with plenty of sunshine, a long growing season, and ample soil moisture. Thanks to modern refrigerated shipping, melons can be harvested when ripe enough for good eating and still travel long distances safely. Picked too green, they never ripen to good eating quality.

Cantaloupe is a mode—that is, a half cantaloupe with its center cavity filled with ice cream—is a famous summer dessert. Cantaloupe balls and cubes are attractive in fruit cup, fruit salad, and mixed fruit dessert, and may be home-frozen in sirup for year-round use. Under-ripe cantaloupe may be used to make a sweet, spicy, slightly tart picket. Cantaloupe for this area will be cabbage, beets, broccoli, green peas, and turnip tops, and spinach.

UP-TO-DATE FACTS ON MILK

Many families that get too little milk might be encouraged to use more, if the importance of including liberal amounts of milk in a food budget were explained to them.

In a new booklet, "Milk and its Products—Facts for Consumer Education," the U. S. D. A. economists have brought together much information on the value of milk for good nutrition, amounts needed, and up-to-date facts on kinds of milk and milk products on the market, along with other pointers on buying and use.

Designed primarily for food writers, teachers, and other consumer educators, the booklet also may prove useful to consumers who want to study up on this valuable food. Single copies of the booklet, "Milk and its Products—Facts for Consumer Education," (AIB 125) are free from the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

When you drink milk, you are getting about 100 different nutrients, including vitamins, minerals, and high quality protein, say the authors, Irene W. Wolanet and Lillian J. Fincher. Three-fourths of all the calcium in this country's food supply comes from with the establishment of a new agency, but two other factors may have been:

Caution on the part of the new Administration lest the so-called RFC scandals be repeated, and Reservations, among some top Eisenhower Administration leaders and supporters, as to the suitability of the lending business as a government function.

Barnes, former general counsel of SBA, became head of the agency in November. On Nov. 13 the first two loans were approved, and on Nov. 16 a new loan policy was announced, that "any small business enterprise with a good management record and able to give reasonable assurance of repayment is eligible to apply to SBA for a business loan."

milk; and this mineral, needed for strong bones and teeth, is the nutrient most often short in family food.

Because of the great amount of nourishment in milk, it is a "good buy" for the money it costs, say the food economists. Family food plans at low-cost as well as those at moderate cost level have always included liberal quantities of milk. These plans suggest 3 to 4 cups of milk a day for children, and 2 or more cups for adults, with increased amounts for expectant and nursing mothers.

HOMEMAKERS' TIPS

How about something special for those after-school appetites, teenage parties, or mid-morning and afternoon pickups—something that's easy to fix as well as healthful?

Fruit milk shakes, chocolate milk shakes, or banana milk shakes can fill the bill for that something special, suggest VPI food specialists.

For instance, mash or press one ripe banana through a sieve. Whip bananas, a large spoonful of ice cream, and 1 cup of milk, using an egg beater or an electric mixer. If the electric mixer is used, the banana need not be sieved. Pour into a glass and serve.

Or shake 2/3 cup sweet milk and 1/2 cup sweetened fruit juice in a pint jar until the mixture foams. Pour into a glass and top with 1 tablespoon whipped cream and a cherry.

FT. STORY
TELLINGS

FORT STORY, VA.—The big Virginia Beach $15,000 Open Golf Championship from June 10-13 at the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club has aroused considerable interest among Story sports fans. About two dozen men from Headquarters Company, 9224-4, and the 54th Transportation Battalion have volunteered their services as guards and in other capacities. Story will also have a representative on the Cavalier terrain—

Cpl. John C. Mabry of Post Special Services, who played on the 1952 Pershing golf team.

SECOND ARMY'S DEPUTY Commander, Maj. Gen. George W. Smyth, visited Fort Story Friday, accompanied by Brig. Gen. Frank S. Benson, Jr., Commanding General of Fort Eustis and the Transportation Training Command. Their quick tour of inspection included a visit to a field class conducted by the 325th Transportation Company, a Massachusetts Reserve unit on summer training. Before departing by helicopter, the two generals lunched in the mess hall of Headquarters Company, 9224-4, with Col. Guy D. Thompson, Story commander, Lt. Col. Herbert A. Ziegler, executive officer, and others of the story staff.

THE TRANSPORTATION AMPHIBIOUS Training Center at Story will send a company of troops and DUKWs to participate in the large-scale Logistical Support Problem to be staged by the Transportation School at Fort Eustis June 28 through July 2. Many high-ranking Army, Navy and Air Force officers and Congressmen are expected to visit the maneuvers.

THE LITTLE THEATER Players of Norfolk Naval Air Station scheduled a playdate for Monday evening, June 7, at Fort Story's post theater. Titled "Duet," the bill included two one-act plays, "The Valiant," a drama, and "Pumped Out," the popular comedy by Noel Coward. The group plans to present "Duet" and subsequent offerings at military and naval installations in the Norfolk-Portsmouth-Virginia Beach area.

NEW OFFICER ARRIVALS at TATC include 1st Lt. Robert A. Klier, who has joined the 461st T Company, and 2nd Lt. Robert A. White, Jr., assigned to the 612 T Company, both units of the 54th T Battalion.

TWO MORE WINS by the Fort Story DUKWs this week put them only one game out of first place in the Hampton Roads Baseball League. The team beat Yorktown Naval Mine Depot by a score of 4 to 3 and followed this up by beating Naval Cargo Handling Battalion No. 1 with a score of 19 to 11. Upcoming games June 8 and 10 will put the DUKWs against Naval Retraining Command and Oceana Naval Air Station.

One of the most unusual direct charity organizations in the country is composed of a small group of business men in Mobile, Ala., called Bicycles Anonymous. The group's chief function is to provide American bikes for needy children in the community, especially at Christmas time.

Future Farmers Converging on Blacksburg for 26th Convention

More than 1,000 Virginia farm youths will converge on Blacksburg next Monday for the 26th annual convention of Future Farmers of America.

Delegates to the rally, which will continue through Thursday, June 17, on the Virginia Tech campus, will represent approximately 8,000 FFA members from 264 Virginia chapters. The organization is made up of high school students enrolled in Vocational Agriculture.

One of the highlights of the convention will be an address by David Bayne Mariette, Mich., National FFA president. He will speak at the first evening meeting.

Another feature will be the conferring of State Farmer degrees, the third degree in the FFA step. Outstanding supervised farming activities, leadership and other factors are considered in awarding the degrees, which are to go to about 150 boys.

Highest ranking recipient of the State Farmer degree will be presented the State Star Farmer degree.

In addition, several lay persons who have made outstanding contributions to the FFA will be presented the honorary State Farmer degree, highest award the state organization can bestow.

Those presentations will be made at the Wednesday night session.

Also to be presented during the convention are individual awards to boys chosen as winners in dairy farming, soil and water conservation, farm mechanics, farm electrification and forestry competition. The two outstanding FFA chapters will be named to represent Virginia in the national chapter contest and they will receive plaques and prizes. Chapter awards in farm safety, dairy

"Speed Kills — Take It Easy" Johnson Advises

"Speed Kills. Take it easy!" This warning was issued today by Chief of Police Reeves E. Johnson who stressed the need for speed control as a curb on traffic accidents. Johnson spoke in behalf of the speed control program the Virginia Beach Police are conducting this month in co-operation with the Governor's Highway Safety Committee.

"More than 25 per cent of the drivers involved in fatal traffic accidents annually are violating a speed law at the time of the accident," Johnson said.

Because many factors enter into the making of every accident, The Chief said it is impossible to determine to what extent speed is to blame in any single accident. However, he pointed out that we know enough about speed to make us realize that it's dynamite if used unwisely.

"For instance," he said, "a speeding car travels a greater distance between the time the brakes are applied and the time the car stops than a slower-moving vehicle. Obviously, a driver's chances of hitting an object that suddenly looms in his path increase as his speed increases."

To illustrate his point, Chief Johnson said that a car with good brakes can stop in about 21 feet after the brakes are applied from a speed of 20 miles per hour. It will take about 150 feet for the car to stop if the speed is 60 miles per hour.

Another dangerous factor about speed, Johnson said, is that force of impact is increased much more rapidly than speed — at twice the speed, for example, you hit four times as hard.

"In other words," he said, "if your car hits a fixed obstacle when you're going 20 miles an hour it will suffer as much damage as if it were dropped from a height of 13 feet onto a concrete highway. But if you hit the same object when you're doing 40, the car will be damaged as much as if it were dropped from a 10-story building."

Speeding on U. S. streets and highways injured nearly 700,000 men, women and children.

Spring Fiesta at Eastern Shore

The Woman's Auxiliary of Eastern Shore Chapel is planning a "Spring Fiesta," June 18th from 10:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M. to raise funds for their Parish. This is to be held in the Parish House on Laskin Road.

Mexican handicrafts are being featured. The Mexican Booth will have displayed - jewelry, hand-blown glass, baskets, stoves and many other beautiful items. Other booths will offer home-made cakes, candies, pickles, fruits, preserves, vegetables, etc. Antiques and other valuable items will be sold on commission. Cut flowers, plants and garden supplies as well as "hot new clothing" and white elephants will be available.

A luncheon of sandwiches and cola drinks will be served. Entertainment and games planned for the children.

Hostesses will be on hand to show the newly completed Chapel and grounds.

Mrs. Carter Copland of Virginia Beach is chairman of the Fiesta.

Plan Your Vacation Well in Advance — Anticipation Half of Free-Time Pleasure

Any person who takes his vacation a day or two at a time probably would enjoy a symphony in twelve monthly installments — or play one hole of golf on each of eighteen consecutive days.

We always have been skeptical of people who are "too busy to be gone for more than a couple of days at a time." Our feelings were justified when we read recently a few vacation tips made in the interest of everyone who gets an annual two-week respite from his work.

This is a free country, and it's true that one man's vacation is another man's "Two weeks wasted — we should have stayed home!" Nevertheless, we'd like to pass along a few down-to-earth suggestions from Employers Mutual of Wausau, that should help make your year at least a little brighter.

First of all, plan your vacation all year. Anticipation is half the enjoyment — and it just may not be necessary to change your plans at the last minute.

Your vacation isn't a sick leave — take it before you're a wheelchair case.

When you get to the point where you think you don't need a vacation — take it!

Spend enough money to enjoy yourself — and whack your conscience with a fishing rod if it interferes. Beware of the hook, however!

Let others wear themselves out by "not missing a thing." Drink deep of beauty wherever you go, even if it takes you five or ten minutes.

Refrain, if you can, from boasting that you covered 6,791 miles on your trip.

Never let your fun depend entirely on good weather, tasty meat, a soft bed or good fishing. Prepare a second line of defense if things go wrong.

One of the best things to take on a vacation is your hobby. If you don't start out with one, maybe you can bring one back. (Single girls please read it "hubby.")

Try to have a good time but don't be too terribly determined about it. You're going to have another chance next year.

Be careful!

With these things in mind, chances are at least fifty-fifty that you'll enjoy yourself.

By ALICE BREWER WHITE
FASHION AND WOMAN'S EDITOR

Tune in to Radio Station WAVY — 1350 on your dial — for latest fashion news, interesting items about people, places, stuff and things, by Alice Brewer White, each day, Monday through Saturday, 9:30 to 10:30 A. M. — NBC in Tidewater.

Brides, brides, brides — everywhere! And have you been wondering what to give, when YOUR favorite girl walks down the aisle? Why not a cookbook, or something for her kitchen? I'm sure either would make HIM very happy — for every boy loves to eat and certainly thoughtful gifts as these would make BOTH happy!

On yes, among the kitchen gifts most certain to be appreciated are a meat thermometer and a shallow roasting pan — just perfect for the new bride.

Meat is the mainstay of every meal and this gift would surely insure perfect roasts every time.

Warm weather entertaining is something we need think a lot about just now — for days are growing longer and undoubtedly — you'll be having friends visit with you. Plan ahead and enjoy your friends. A smart choice for summer entertaining is cold cuts, salads and it's always nice to have a ham in the refrigerator to help out. It's nice to vary the cold cuts and a cooked tongue and roast beef are both excellent to have to vary the platter and perk up heat-flagged appetites. If you are planning for a large number, you can cook a ham, roast a nice cut of beef, and prepare a tongue. Although it sounds like an awfully expensive suggestion, it is not, for in the long run you will be saving yourself a lot of work. Be sure to keep all under refrigeration, and after the guests have gone (provided there is any left) you can have beef hash, sandwiches, casserole dishes and the like to make use of the rough pieces of ham.

If you are planning outdoor meals, and are going to cook over an open fire, — whether a built-in barbecue or a portable charcoal grill — or even a Boy Scout-type fire — here are three good ideas:

HAMBURGERS

Season with salt and pepper, and perhaps a little onion juice or seasoning salt. Add no eggs or bread crumbs. Make the patties flat and wide, as they'll shrink up a little during cooking. Stack with waxed paper between, then wrap in waxed paper until the grill is ready.

BARBECUE FRANKS

Grilled franks are delicious with no special fixings, but if you'd like a smoky flavor touch, twist the franks with bacon and fasten at both ends with toothpicks. Grill as usual, turning to cook bacon evenly; pop into buttered buns and remove toothpicks.

CUBED STEAKS, CLUB STEAKS or SIRLOIN

Don't take round steak to a picnic and expect to be able to fry it like a tender steak. A high grade round steak may be acceptably tender if purchased thin, pounded with a meat pounder, then cooked quickly on a hot greased grill. It still won't be as tender as porterhouse, but it'll be good.

Bye now, see you next week.

SUMMER VELVET FASHIONS!

Summer velvet fashions reflect the same frosted shimmer on the summer scene as a frosted drink does on a hot day! You're finding velvet on everything — tailored linen or cotton, frothy organdy or dotted swiss. As a matter of fact, never since grandmother's day were so many summer dresses enriched with velvet. Every important American designer has dressed up summer cottons, laces, organdies and silks with bows and bands, ribbons, midrifts, boleros and even ruffles. Velvet bows frame curved bodies and shoulder-lines, or accent the fullness of skirts. Rows and rows of velvet ribbons interspersed with starched organdy make an entire summer dance skirt. Startlingly lovely with a gleaming strapless velvet halter in black or pastels.

Wide velvet bands in sunny colors hold together the important scattered colors of a print dress, giving it the depth, deep color, coherence an artist gets when he adds a velvet mat to his glazed painting.

VELVET FACE FRAME ANGLE

In millinery, nothing is as flattering as velvet around your face. With its four-season adaptability, a velvet hat or accessory is a really good investment and makes your wardrobe money go four times as far. You will certainly be in fashion this summer if you own a velvet hat. From the tiniest of shallow shells to new dramatic platters, they endow the face with an exotic air of mystery. Velvet hats to wear all day can be found in the shops. You can wear, and be right in fashion, velvet hats all hours of the day, early and late, for garden parties or summer weddings, because velvet hats go well with any kind of fabric. Raspberry, orange, cherry, lemon, melon, larkspur blue, new reds offer you a color spectrum that can make you look radiant indeed. Go ahead and splurge on color in velvets — even shades you have never worn before. Gleaming, deep velvet reflects lights that enrich your skin tone.

trium that can make you look radiant indeed. Go ahead and splurge on color in velvets — even shades you have never worn before. Gleaming, deep velvet reflects lights that enrich your skin tone.

VELVET "BELIEVE IT OR NOT"

For centuries, velvet, "the king of all fabrics," was available only to royalty! Commoners were forbidden to wear it even if they could afford it. Today, it is just as fabulous, with scientific finishes, such as crease-resistance, adding the practical to the magnificent. Today brilliant designers create versatile velvets in all-occasion, all-season fashions for every individual to wear and enjoy.

ADELE SIMPSON'S INSPIRATION

Adele Simpson, diminutive New York designer, has been inspired yellow and white pansies are beautiful in bloom right now. She's a true green-thumb gardener and an expert cook. Florence loves to cook better than she does to design a hat and I'll bet lots of you readers never knew that before!

Mrs. Bristow Hardin is all a-bubbling because she will soon be a grandmother for the fourth time! Never have seen her when she hasn't been bubbling over with some happiness or other!

Mrs. Frances Barker is planning her next summer's trip this summer as she sits in the Essex House and dreams of what she's going to see and take in when she gets to Italy in 1935. That's planning a long way ahead but the way time flies these days makes it not so far away. It seems just yesterday when folks were hopping about with Christmas-wrapped gifts tucked under their arms and here it's nearly time to worry about the kids shooting firecrackers!

Sally Corbell is concentrating on her "big cottage" across the street from her Arlington Hotel this summer. Not so much to do and worry about.

Mrs. Marguerite Shelly has moved back to her home, after a winter at the Essex House, because her young son and his friends are giving her such fun these summer days.

Mrs. Nellie Flanagan, owner of the Bayne Grill, has a way with the tots and teens alike. They love her Mom-like ways and really behave when she puts her feminine foot down. It's a popular rendezvous for the youngsters and she's patient with them when they go through that all-important choosing of comic books and penny candies!

Florence Wilson Morrisette is mighty proud of the fine things visitors to her lovely garden and flowered grounds had to say last Garden Week. Her spot was not on the itinerary but many cars, seeing the beauty of her azaleas, tulips, jonquils and blue fox, just drove in the grounds and proceeded to look about. The California-style house is yellow and white and her thick border of by the graceful sari, traditional garment of the Indian woman and for warm summer evenings she has designed two exquisite gowns. They are soft dresses made of cotton sari handwoven in India. These dresses have simple elegant lines that emphasize the beauty of the authentic sari. These saris will be introduced in New York this week. When the saris arrived at the Simpson workshop from New Delhi, they were in the conventional six-yard length, in moonstone blue, seafoam green and a lovely amber color called curry. No two patterns are identical even though the same designs might be represented. This is because they have been woven individually by Indian women in their own homes. To a designer, the delicate sari provides a pleasant means of draping.

LIGHT AS A FEATHER

It is the weave and not the finish that gives resilience to the cotton favored by Indian women in the summer. So light and gauzy is this fabric that one sari with its non-tarnishable gold pattern weighs only fifteen ounces, a point of interest to summer travelers in need of packable lightweight evening dresses. For the woman who prefers to drape a sari in the traditional Indian fashion or wear it as a summer stole, cotton or silk saris are also to be found in the smart shops. Instructions from the Indian embassy on how to wear a sari say that for maximum effect the sari must be worn "consciously and deliberately."

ORGANDY EVENINGS

Wearing organdy evening gowns is THE latest! The New England Textile Association is celebrating its centennial this year, honoring the fine craftsmanship brought by New England weavers.

beauty of the many pines on their grounds.

Mrs. W. C. Griffin, past president of the Federation of Garden Clubs of Norfolk and vicinity, is another enthusiastic outdoor planter on her grounds at Lake Joyce. She's making plans for a big "This and That" sale for funds for the new garden center the Federation is working for in Norfolk.

Benefit Ball at Cabana Club

The annual Semi-Annual Benefit Ball sponsored by the Junior League of Norfolk will be held June 16 from 9:30 to 12:30 P.M. at the Cavalier Beach and Casino Club.

There will be dancing to the music of Jimmy Featherstone's orchestra, floor show and chances to win many door prizes, the first, an all expenses paid weekend at the Tides Inn, Irvington, Virginia. Tickets may be purchased from Miss Betty Renn Bevan, 316 Pocahontas Drive, Telephone 3174 at $5.00 per couple. No Reservations.

This Ball will benefit The Tidewater Cerebral Palsy Training Center, Norfolk Dental Clinic, YWCA Camperships, Myers House, Norfolk Orchestral Association and The Children's Entertainment Bureau.

The Berkshire organdies and the organdy worn by Hathaway of New Bedford are all lovely. One stunning new organdy is being made for the first time in this country and is a misty white, flocked with black velvet in a sort of sculptured intricacy. It has a black velvet bodice and huge yellow streamers flying behind. Another designed by Pileol is of black, stiff organdy with a huge starched white sailor collar and paneled skirt with a white one-emerald outlining the high-waisted bodice and seams of the skirt. Really, you're in high fashion on enchanted evenings if, like the new organdy fashions. Of course, Laddie Northridge and Rhonda have turned out some good-looking-to-eat frothy organdy platter hats and toques.

Mrs. Blanche Whitmore was the smartest dressed city-to-beach visitor you'll see last weekend. She wore a stunning navy silk shantung dressmaker suit, navy shoes and accessories, a pink silk blouse and a stunning large coolie-shaped hat of navy milan. You can't beat navy blue for summertime chic!

MERRY MATRONS

Manhattan's Nata Lee, famous party caterer, had "one glorious day at Virginia Beach after all these years of wishing" — to the brow-ey'd, vivacious Nata — last week. With a lovely lunch at the Cavalier Club with peppy Sally Sloan and Mrs. R. H. Owen, a quick trip through the Cavalier's lower gardens and a fast look-see of the Beach front north to south, a race for WTCV-TV's studios to do a five o'clock television chat with Grace Sumner and a yet faster race for the airport, Nata waved Mabel goodbye from the plane at exactly 6 o'clock. Nata's the gal who puts on terrific parties in New York for business houses, fashion press gals, celebrities, clubs and even wedding receptions.

Her arrival by van is quite well known on Long Island as she whips up with equipment for an outdoor wedding reception with canopies, tent tops 'n' everything. She has her own special cakes, delicacies and sweetmeats whipped up from her own famous secret recipes. And all this big business happens from a de luxe "sit idle" and from making some special little cakes for friends who insisted she should go into business. She has some cute stories about parties at which the Duke and Duchess of Windsor have been guests. Two had the couldn't have stayed longer. Mabel Owen was pressed into hostingess on the spur of the moment (because your Albee had to spend the afternoon in the dentist's chair) and what a fine asset Mabel would make to the Chamber of Commerce staff in selling the Beach to a visitor!

Encourage your younger children in good eating habits and avoid having a problem "eater" by these simple methods:

Let a rest period precede meal time if possible. Rest periods are necessary to promote appetite, and emotional upsets, excitement, fear or anger can be allayed by this since they take away appetite.

Serve meals as simply as possible as little children tire quickly when eating. Having all foods except dessert at the child's place makes this possible.

Keep a regular schedule for meals. Children lose appetite and initial interest if meals are late. Have the table interesting and attractive. Use a simple oilcloth or plastic cover with potted or fresh plants for interest.

Dramatize foods to keep children interested. Cut sandwiches in fancy shapes, hide fruit at the bottom of custard and cereal dishes and cut vegetable garnishes in shapes of flowers.

Use gay china or plastic dishes which are suitable to the child's size and interests.

Introduce new foods one at a time and with some of the child's favorites. Assume that he will eat the new food without any discussion.

Hamand Tongue Lunch (Serves 6)

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
Salt and pepper
2 cups milk
1-2 pound tongue, cut in strips
1-2 pound boiled ham, cubed
1-2 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced

Make a cream sauce by melting butter, blending in flour and milk. Season to taste, cooking and stirring. Add tongue, ham and mushrooms. Serve on toast or biscuits.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, Seashore Real Estate Company operator, has taken on another summer-time business. She's leased the tavern at the new Casino Park and her happy smile, pretty snappy dark eyes and pleasant ways bring real serenades from her customers when she "turns to" to help out. It's amazing how some merry matrons can do so much in the time others just fritter away in unhappy fashion.

Another busy and efficient helper-out-in-a-pinch charmer is Mrs. Mildred Lachman, who is truly an expert fisherman as well as really a fine fishing tackle and bait expert out on the Fishing Pier. Mildred can name every type of fish and give its weight by just glancing at the happy and lucky fishermen are leavin' the pier.

Light for Freedom Power for Progress

WITH THE 75th Anniversary Year of Edison's invention of the first practical incandescent lamp, the United States and much of the free world celebrate Light's Diamond Jubilee.

This celebration is more far-reaching in significance than might seem at first thought. For that first incandescent bulb not only heralded the science of lighting as we know it today, but it also inspired the research and development which brought electricity out of the laboratory and into the home. The Electric Age was born of the principle which made Edison's magic lamp glow with wondrous light, in 1879.

In homes, in business, on farms, the uses of electricity continue to multiply. Steady space with the demand, even in advance of it . . . the supply keeps growing, too, thanks to America's business-managed light and power companies . . . each, like VEPCO, a tax-paying "citizen" in the community it serves.

Because of the filament in this magic lamp . . . you can:

- ... turn a dial and wash the week's clothes automatically, dry them automatically, rain or shine.
- ... twist a knob, and bring into your home the sound and motion of a world of entertainment.
- ... set a gauge and keep foods peak-season fresh the year 'round, right in your own kitchen.
- ... flick a switch and change the seasons from stuffy heat to a houseful of spring.

VA in Need of Psychiatrists

More psychiatrists are needed for Veterans Administration mental hygiene clinics to prevent excessive hospitalization for the increasing load of service-connected psychiatric cases, VA announced. VA said its mental hygiene clinics are able to treat certain types of psychiatric cases at a cost 70 to 80 percent below that of hospitalization in even the most economically operated hospitals. As a result, VA estimates its clinics now save more than $2,000,000 a year in money that would be required if the clinic cases had to be hospitalized.

Service-connected cases are the only group of veterans entitled to both outpatient clinic care and hospitalization; and approximately 500,000 veterans are service-connected for psychiatric and neurological disabilities. By treating most of this load in clinics, the need for expensive hospitalization, and the service-connected psychiatric cases may be reduced proportionately, VA said.

Moreover, these clinics enable VA to shorten the hospitalization of service-connected cases whose hospital treatment can be completed on an outpatient basis. Another advantage of the clinic program, VA said, is that it permits the treatment of service-connected veterans in or near their home communities without loss of time from work. This is of particular value to veterans and their families, VA said.

VA said it has openings for psychiatrists who prefer to work with outpatients or who are interested in organizing or administering mental hygiene clinics. In addition, VA needs chiefs for clinics in Cincinnati, Ohio; Huntsville, W. Va.; Louisville, Ky.; Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Columbus, Ohio; Little Rock, Ark.; Wichita, Kansas, and Des Moines, Iowa.

Even Presidents Enjoy Hobbies

The election of President Eisenhower to the Hobby Hall of Fame last year highlighted interest and activity of record proportions in hobbies of all sorts according to an article prepared for publication in the 1954 Yearbook of the American Peoples Encyclopedia. The chief executive's ability to indulge in his favorite pastimes of oil painting, photography and golf, in spite of extreme pressures, were an inspiration to hobbyists in all parts of the country.

While the old standby hobbies - coin and stamps collecting - were enjoying their biggest years, several newer ones were rapidly coming to the fore, according to the survey. The "do-it-yourself" trend - gaining in popularity since the end of the war - has now become a mass movement and "paint-by-numbers" sets in which the canvas is divided into numbered sections according to colors, were selling in record quantities in almost every imaginable type of store.

Robert Wahab Opens Office

Robert S. Wahab, Jr., has announced the opening of his office for the general practice of law at 206 19th Street, Virginia Beach, Virginia.

Mr. Wahab was born in Norfolk and was graduated from Maury High School in 1935. After graduating from the University of Alabama in 1939, he attended law school at the University of Virginia and the University of Maryland where he obtained his Bachelor of Laws degree. Mr. Wahab is a member of the Virginia and Maryland Bars.

Formerly a special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Mr. Wahab served as an Administrative Assistant to J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the F. B. I. for several years in Washington, D. C. During World War II, he supervised the German Subversive Activities Squad in the Chicago Field Office of the F. B. I. For five years after leaving the F. B. I., Mr. Wahab was connected with a mercantile merchandising and advisory service in Baltimore, Maryland, and in 1952 he joined the law firm of Pilcher and Pilcher.

Married to the former Betty Ridgwell of Norfolk, Mr. Wahab, his wife, and two children have been making their home at Virginia Beach for the past several years.

record quantities in almost every imaginable type of store.

Gardening added many newcomers to its ranks during 1953, the new American Peoples Yearbook will point out, adding that this development was largely sparked by increasing numbers of home owners in suburban areas.

April, last year, was set aside by the Hobby Guild of America as National Hobby Month and had such wide acceptance that plans are now being made for an expanded celebration this year when it is planned to introduce the observance of National Photography Week for the first time.

Marriage Topic Of New Census

Special questions on marriage will be asked in the June Current Population Survey, according to Supervisor Robert L. Gaines of the Census Bureau's District Office at Norfolk, Virginia.

Persons currently married or separated will be asked the year in which the current marriage took place while those widowed or divorced since 1947 will be asked additional questions on number of times married, state of residence and highest grade of school completed.

The inquiries on marriage are in addition to the regular questions on employment and unemployment which are asked each month in the Current Population Survey which provides official national figures on these important items. This information on marriage to be collected in the June survey is expected to be a valuable addition to the current knowledge of the pattern of American family life.

The Current Population Survey will be conducted during the week of June 14 here and in 229 other places throughout the country. Mrs. Geneva Thomas of Norfolk District Office will handle the local interviews.

Red Cross Early On Fire Scene

Mrs. Harold Kellam, Chapter chairman, Princess Anne County and State of Virginia American Red Cross, announces that Red Cross volunteers were immediately on the scene at the explosion and fire aboard the aircraft carrier Bennington May 28. The full facilities of AHC blood centers in New York and New England were offered to the Commander of the Naval Hospital at Newport. The hospital reported that a sufficient supply of blood and serum albumen was available for immediate use but asked ABC to stand by in the event of future need. Meanwhile, the Newport, Rhode Island, Chapter established a liaison office for servicemen's dependents at Quonset Point Naval Base Auditorium and listed rooms for dependents of injured servicemen.

FAST GROWING TIDEWATER INSTITUTION

Mutual Federal Offers a Savings and Home Financing Plan For All Tidewater

Mutual Federal Savings and Loan Association is a part of the Federal Savings and Loan system established by Act of Congress on June 13, 1933. Purpose of that act was "To provide local mutual thrift institutions in which people may invest their funds and to provide for the financing of homes."

The savings of each individual member of the association are automatically and permanently insured against loss up to $10,000 by Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an instrumentality of the United States government.

Mutual Federal is a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank, a reserve and credit system established and controlled by the government, which also provides supervision and periodic examination of all institutions of this type. The bank system adds liquidity by making it possible for us to obtain large sums of money quickly and at low rates.

Investments of the association are limited by law to loans secured by first liens on real estate (almost all on homes and repayable in monthly payments which include taxes); to home improvement loans; to securities of the United States government; and to stock in the Federal Home Loan Bank.

Accounts here are non-assessable, and are always worth 100 cents on the dollar. No withdrawal fee or other penalty may be charged by the association.

Our savings plan is extremely flexible — accounts may be opened with a convenient amount and added to with any amount at any time. To open a new savings account, you merely fill in a signature card and receive a pass book, in which to enter additions and withdrawals. Liberal earnings on your savings account are credited and compounded twice yearly.

Accounts may be opened in the name of an individual, or jointly by two or more parties. A man and wife, for example, may have an account in the man's name, another in the wife's name, and a third held jointly, with each of the three accounts insured to $10,000. Accounts of children are usually opened jointly with one of the parents or other relatives. Earnings are paid on savings accounts on June 30th and December 31st of each year. The rate is fixed every six months. Since the institution is completely mu-trial, all earnings other than those paid our members are added to reserves and surplus. Earnings are computed on a monthly basis — all funds received up to the 10th of any month, earn from the first of that month if left to the end of the earnings period.

Economical Mortgage Loan Plan

If you plan to buy, build or remodel a home, or refinance an old mortgage, we invite you to come here for money or advice. Your loan can be made on a long term basis, repayable monthly, like rent. And the monthly payments may include everything — interest, principal, taxes and insurance. There are no delays, no red tape. You will get prompt service from friendly people. Each detail of your loan and its terms will be arranged for your convenience.

Savings and home financing institutions like ours originated the "amortized" home payment plan many years ago. This safe, easy plan of paying for a home reduces the mortgage gradually over a period of years, until it is completely cancelled. Costly mortgage renewals are unnecessary. Our plan gives you a low-cost, worry-free method of financing and enjoying home ownership. Interest is computed monthly on

Wheat Marketing Cards Available

Wheat farmers who are entitled to market their wheat without penalty should go to the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office to obtain marketing cards. Mr. White, chairman, stated this week.

Marketing cards will not be issued to wheat producers unless requested. Marketing cards will be mailed upon telephone or letter request to the ASC office.

Mr. White pointed out that in order to sell wheat penalty free, a marketing card must be displayed by the producer at the time of sale. Whether or not a penalty is due on the crop of wheat, it will be considered as subject to penalty by wheat buyers unless accompanied by a marketing card. Growers do not surrender marketing cards to the buyer, but merely display the card so that the buyer may take certain information therefrom for his records.

Producers who plan to market wheat by letter or in a manner other than in the presence of the buyer should obtain a marketing certificate from the ASC office. The chairman also pointed out that the ASC office is ready to issue forms and any other records that wheat buyers must use under the program.

Established in 1889, Mutual Federal has grown to become Virginia's largest savings and loan association, with assets in excess of $30,000,000. President C. Q. Links Veteran Pete Cooper Wins Top Money in 2nd Beach Open

18th Is Nemesis Of Bolt and Ford

The difficult 18 hole proved just that late Sunday afternoon and the veteran Pete Cooper, of Tampa, Florida, walked off with first place in the second annual Virginia Beach Open Golf tournament at the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club. Cooper's 72-hole winning score was 283, just one shot above the figure that won a year ago.

Before Cooper got his par at the treacherous water hole, the leader for the three days, Tommy "Thunder" Bolt plopped his tee shot into the water that practically surrounds the green. Bolt finished the hole with a double bogey five that cost him first place and left him one shot back of Cooper.

Moments after Bolt "blew" the final hole, defending champion Doug Ford hit an identical shot into the water at the 18th green. The hole cost him at least a tie for first place and he wound up third.

In winning the title Cooper knitted rounds of 67-64-64-68 for a 13-under par score for the 72-hole tour. Bolt totaled 284 and Ford 285. Fred and fourth and fifth places were Freddie Haas, Jr. and Art Wall, Jr. Both shot 286.

First place meant $2400 to the popular Cooper. Bolt earned $1800 for second place and Ford hauled down $1400. Haas and Wall each pocketed $1100.

Amateur honors for the tournament went to Frank McCham, of Roanoke Rapids, N. C., who also won the amateur tournament last year. McCham put together rounds of 69-70-74-73 for a 266 total.

Sponsors of the event were a bit disappointed in the crowds and Leo Hoarty, Chamber of Commerce manager, revealed that the April dates seemed to be better from a publicity standpoint and from a financial standpoint. The hot weather, many thought, was a contributing factor to the lack of a larger gallery.

Old Fashioned Excursion Offered By Ruritan Club

For $13.00 you can ride 400 odd miles via train, see a big league ball game in the nation's capitol and return home, all in one day.

That's the bill of fare offered by Ruritan Clubs to fellow Ruritans and the general public on Sunday, June 11, when it will sponsor an old-fashioned all-day train excursion from Norfolk to Washington with stops being made between Norfolk and Richmond to take on sightseers and partygoers. There is only one restriction—no women are allowed.

The special will leave Norfolk about 7 A. M. and arrive in Washington in ample time for you to take your reserved seat in Griffith Stadium where, in solid comfort, you can watch the Washington Senators take on the big bad New York Yankees. Special buses will meet the train to take you to the ball park. All that is included in your ticket.

Tickets are on sale by members of most Ruritan Clubs of Holland District and by Robert O. Regale and R. E. Herbert in Waverly.

Garden Clubs Ask Aid in Keeping Atlantic Ave. Parkway Attractive

The Council of Garden Clubs urgently appeals to those residents on Atlantic Avenue to help in keeping the parkway in front of their places free of trash and unsightly objects which are, no doubt, thrown from cars by thoughtless motorists. The Council has worked to no end to beautify the parkway and after the Memorial Day Week-end it was literally covered with refuse. It is an impossible task for the Council of Garden Clubs to clean the area daily, or even weekly through the would be so simple if each resident would take care of the parkway in front of his own premises, resulting in a more desirable and being of such extensive help to the Council of Garden Clubs and the State Highway Department.

Interest in Toll Road Revived

Interest in the proposed toll highway between Virginia Beach and Nags Head, North Carolina, was revived this week as a result of the commissioners from Virginia and North Carolina meeting in Raleigh on Tuesday.

The toll road was held unconstitutional by the North Carolina court at one time, but the North Carolina legislature enacted legislation in 1953 to bring the possibility of the road back into focus.

The road, which many believe will be built within the next three years, would link Virginia Beach with Nags Head and would place an ocean highway through the heart of Virginia Beach.

6 Year $4,500,000 School Building Program Planned For Princess Anne County

Princess Anne County's School Board to a broad look into the future and announced a six-year $4,500,000 construction program at its meeting held Tuesday.

The plans include a Kempsville District junior high school and a Lynnhaven District junior high school, to care for 1,000 students each; a 600-capacity elementary school in the Kempsville District, and a six-room addition to the Sealeck elementary school for Negroes.

In presenting the program, Frank W. Cox, superintendent of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach schools, said the State Board of Education had asked for a schedule of building needs. The Virginia Beach School Board on Friday made preliminary plans for a junior high school in the city. The county board already has applied for a Federal grant for a Negro elementary school in the Sealeck District.

A 1950 school need survey, based on studies that showed the county to have one of the biggest population increases in the State, led to the new program for future school buildings, Cox explained. During the board meeting, the county and the city made their annual settlement for services. The county paid Virginia Beach $54,480 for tuition for county pupils educated in city schools and the city paid $18,560 in return for such services as supervision and tuition.

The board also reviewed progress on three schools now under construction. Princess Anne High School, which will centralize all the secondary schools in the county, will be completed before the September term, insofar as such necessary accommodations as classrooms and cafeteria are concerned. Utilities are nearly completed.

The elementary schools at Shelton Park and Little Creek, both in the Kempsville District, are due to be completed by July 15. Cox told the board that no name has been chosen for the Little Creek Elementary School is under consideration and other names are still being submitted.

Auto Thrill Show At Oceana on Friday Night

Local devotees of the unusual will have an opportunity Friday night to attend one of the nation's foremost automobile daredevil exhibitions at the stadium of the Oceana High School.

The internationally-famous daredevil, The World Champion Hell Riders, are booked for one performance only in this vicinity for the two-hour program beginning at 8 P. M.

Nicknamed "The Hottest Show on Wheels," this year the show features "Flash" Edwards. Hailed by many critics as "the greatest thrill driver since the late 'Lucky' Terer," Edwards was starred in the nationally-publicized "Death Dodge" Show at the New York World's Fair from 1939 through 1941 during which time he played to more than 1-4 million awe-struck spectators. The Rocky Mount, N. C. star, married and father of six, has during the past winter, dreamed up several new bone-rattling stunts which he will attempt in the local show which one will be seen for the first time before any audience.

Bob Koolage Jr., producer and director of the show, stated today that he has been successful this year in obtaining two other "bests" to delight the crowds. One is Ray Melton of Washington, D. C., of whom "Billboard," the show business weekly, said in a feature article, "after 18 years with the top motor shows in the land, Melton is still the top-notch in the field." The other is a character of questionable extraction - "Ham-bone," by name. This former screen stunt man, in reality an outstanding driver, plays the role of a nonsensical buffoon taking ridiculous chances with the life but so far, at least, coming out in good shape. Both Melton and "Hambone" will be here Friday night with the troupe.

Others slated to appear on the program are: Lester "Mac" McGregor, Richmond, Calif., who has thus far this season, held first place in the majority of the "Wreck'em Race" features of the show; Ralph Steed formerly from Norfolk but now calling Patterson, N. J. his home, who performs a startling rollover stunt as well as a rib-mashing head-on collision; and Bob Kelly, Huntington, W. Va., who has just joined the Edwards group this year after three years with top billing in another outfit.

The many motorcycle acts will feature Buddy Powell of Albany, N. Y., and Roman Brooke, another Turney, who hails from Charlotte.

A great many of the 24 acts said Koolage, take place in and around fire; some 200 gallons of gasoline ignited during the running of each performance exclusive of that used in the cars and motorcycles themselves. One act alone, the 100-foot Fire Jump, calls for 65 gallons to be flowed onto the ground and ignited as the new model car leaves a ramp and slides through the 20 - 30 foot flames.

Officials of the outfit give their assurance that at least three cars will be totally demolished during the evening and probably four or five if their "luck" run badly. "We've never given a show in which we lost less than 3. The boys knock themselves out if the crowd is good and sometimes destroy as many as seven or eight," reports Koolage.

A sellout crowd is expected and, since there definitely will be only one performance, it is recommended that you go early so as to avoid standing. The action begins promptly at eight o'clock this coming Friday night. In case of rain, it will be run off Saturday night at the same hour.

The price of admission for pure excitement is $1.00 for symposium children under twelve, will be free of charge if accompanied by parents.

In 1953, 2,140,000 Americans were injured in traffic accidents.

M. PET PEEVE

Sometimes I wonder where the radio quiz shows find so many unusual people to serve as contestants. Don't get me wrong. I know that this planet is inhabited by a goodly quantity of nuts and acrobats - excluding, of course, you and me overlooking the fact that even then we sometimes doubt one another.

The thing that amazes me about the people who appear on quiz shows is that practically all of them have been married from 20 to 50 years and, in their own words, the marriage has been "one continual honeymoon."

Marriages should be made in heaven, and a lot of them are. But the honeymoon doesn't last. It's not supposed to, either, and I don't think folks should keep kidding themselves for years on end.

In some cases the honeymoon is ended when the husband no longer gets his morning coffee in bed. It's only a memory when hubby "forgets" to open the car door for his "bride" before getting under the steering wheel. And, when Mr. and Mrs. Pa engage in a verbal difference of opinion about what's best

Personally, I wouldn't want to endure a honeymoon that lasted for 50 years. I was very happy the day the little woman and I stopped trying to impress each other with our intelligence and wit, courtesy manners, and, let's face it, "put-on."

When we began to act our normal selves we found a comfortable feeling we expect to share during years of wedded bliss, an "at home" feeling no one ever enjoyed on a honeymoon.

NOTES FOR HOMEMAKERS

By Mrs. Elizabeth Deal
County Home Demonstration Agent

COLD EGGS

Eggs, so plentiful and such good buys this season, need to be kept cold, just as other protein foods do. Cooling eggs promptly after gathering from the hen's nest is important because the temperature of the egg when laid is around 105 degrees F. But eggs also need to be kept cold—right up to the time they are used.

Best temperature for holding egg quality for short periods is from about 35 to 45 degrees F. If kept at room temperature—that is, from 70 to 80 F.—eggs may drop in quality in a few days.

Above 80 F. they lose quality even faster. Thus eggs lose quality during shipping in a hot truck, in unrefrigerated store rooms, on ordinary market counters, or while left in a hot car or out in a hot kitchen. This is why it pays to buy from markets where eggs are kept under refrigerated display cases. It also saves quality—the quality you pay for—to put eggs in the home refrigerator promptly & keep them there until used.

PACKAGED PERISHABLES

When the more perishable fresh vegetables and fruits, now selling in film packages, come home from market, they need to go into the refrigerator promptly if they are to keep fresh, specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture advise family food-shoppers. The film wrap keeps in moisture and thus helps prevent wilting on drying out. But cold keeping also is needed to avoid decay or discoloration. Wrapped in film, lettuce or other greens, celery, carrots, radishes, salads and slaws may be placed on storage shelves in refrigerators the wrap serving as an individual hydrator. If vegetables are put in a good refrigerator-hydrator, wraps may be removed.

Juicy berries or cherries may be spread out on a large plate or platter in the refrigerator and covered with waxed paper. Wash just before serving.

Very perishable items are those which have been cut or trimmed before pre-packaging. Most leafy vegetables, peas, broccoli and other members of the cabbage family, carrots, sweet corn, apples, small fruits and fully ripe peaches, pears and tomatoes keep best in the coldest part of the refrigerator—that is, just above freezing.

FREEZING SANDWICHES

Sandwiches-making often is a chore that gets the homemaker up early in the morning or keeps her up at night in families where lunches are carried regularly to work or to school. But there's a way to speed and ease that job for those with home freezers. Save time by making up a large batch of sandwiches—enough for a week or two, wrap each one separately and put in the freezer. Frozen sandwiches can go directly from the freezer to the lunch box and by noon will be thawed and ready to eat.

So many homemakers have asked about freezing sandwiches both for lunches and for picnics that home economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture offer these suggestions:

Filling suitable for sandwiches to be frozen include: Luncheon meats, leftover sliced roast beef, pork, baked ham, chicken, turkey dried beef, turn, salmon, sliced cheese, cheese spreads, yolks of hard-cooked eggs and peanut butter. Use separately or combine with cream cheese, creamed butter, mayonnaise or salad dressing. Add sliced or chopped olives and dill or sweet pickles if desired.

For safety freeze only freshly prepared sandwiches and fillings. Avoid raw vegetables such as lettuce, celery, tomatoes and water-cress which lose crispness, color and flavor when frozen; whites of hard-cooked eggs which become tough; or fruit jellies or preserves which soak into bread. Spread bread with softened butter or margarine, not with salad dressing or mayonnaise which soaks into bread. Once frozen sandwiches are thawed, use them promptly because they spoil rapidly after they have warmed up to temperatures above 45 degrees F.

Wrap each sandwich in a double thickness of heavy waxed paper or with moisture-vapor-resistant wrapping, folded tight. Freeze and store at zero F. or sandwiches keep fresh in the freezer a week; in moisture-vapor-resistant wrapping they may be stored two to three weeks. Thawing at room temperature takes about three hours.

State Has Surge Of Industrial Expansion

More than $317,000,000 in industrial expansion has taken place or been projected in Virginia during the past year and a half, according to Chris H. Whiteman, director of the industrial development department of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce.

The total, compiled after a two-month-long study of industrial activity in Virginia and conducted in cooperation with local Chambers of Commerce and other civic groups, showed manufacturing expansion of more than $189,000,000 and of more than $128,000,000 in public utilities, Whiteman said.

The survey gave indications that industrial expansion in 1954 will far surpass that of 1953, he explained. In 1953, firms and corporations spent more than $100,000,000 for new plants or for expansion of existing plants, while comparable figures for 1954 were a whopping $217,000,000, and probably more, considering projected industrial development.

The expansion will create more than 15,000 jobs for Virginians, the survey showed, and add a minimum of $50,000,000 to the State's annual payroll figures, said Whiteman.

The industrial director said the survey showed that a majority of the 55 new plants and the 57 major expansion projects were what he termed as "strong industries," which normally pay higher than average salaries to their workers. Many of the new industries are located in areas where they add the community's employment picture by creating new jobs, Whiteman said.

He emphasized that the dollar figures accounted for in the survey included only those projects

May Proves Busy Month For Court House Junior 4-H Club

The month of May was indeed a busy month for the Court House Junior 4-H Club.

Winners picked from the local talent show to represent the club at the County Talent Show and their presentations were: Martha Dull and Helen Gilbert as "The Vagabonds"; Lois Purlough and Marjorie White singing "When Irish Eyes are Smiling"; Harry Ormstead with his trumpet solo: "The Dancer"; Frances Roundbush, "Lilac Time," piano solo.

We were very proud of our representatives. Frances Roundbush was awarded second place and Harry Ormstead third place. Combining with the Science Fair they gave their program at our regular P. T. Fewer Forest Fires Aim of Campaign

It's time to get outdoors again and the annual campaign by the Forest Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture to prevent forest fires is being stepped up.

This year an effort is being made to enlist the cooperation of the nation's youths as well as adults. Business firms also are being called upon to help. For example, arrangements have been completed for full color display pieces depicting an appeal by Smokey Bear, official symbol of the fire-prevention campaign, to be displayed in A & P stores across the land.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company also is cooperating in the campaign to enlist the aid of the nation's youth by offering a Smokey Bear belt as a premium in its stores in conjunction with the purchase of Ann Page brand of beans or prepared spaghetti. Each youth who obtains one of these is eligible to receive an official Junior Forest Ranger kit from Smokey Bear Headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Although a Smokey Bear symbol was conceived in 1954, according to Clinton Davis, Director of Forest Fire Prevention for the Forestry Division, it was not adopted by the Forestry Division as a central figure until 1947, and has been used extensively ever since. There was an average of 21,000 forest fires annually prior to the inauguration of the Smokey Bear campaign. Since then the number has been reduced to an average of 185,000, even though thousands of additional people visit forest and woodland areas every year for picnics, camping, hunting and fishing expeditions.

If it were not for the extensive fire-prevention program, of which the Smokey Bear symbol is the central figure, Davis estimates the number of fires would be running at the rate of between 300,000 and 350,000 annually because of increased use of forest areas. Because fires caused by people run in direct proportion to forest use by the public, we are grateful for as widespread support as possible to bring home the need for keeping down the huge annual loss of our natural resources caused by fires, he said.

THE SAND FESTIVAL

With hardly a chance to catch her breath between promotional stunts, Virginia Beach is looking forward to the Third Annual Sand Festival to be held on Friday and Saturday, June 25 and 26.

Publicity-wise the $15,000 Virginia Beach Open Golf tournament was a success and the sand festival celebration bids fair to equaling that event, if not in surpassing it from publicity standpoint.

Much work goes into the promotion of an event such as the sand festival and many details are involved. Its success will be measured by the effort our citizens put behind the promotion.

Ag intelligent, interesting and entertaining program has been planned for the two-day event. It is a project worthy of the support of everyone and one that seems to grow in stature each year.

An interesting part of the program will be the selection of a young lady who will ultimately compete for the title of "Miss America" in the Atlantic City Pageant. All in all, there are big things ahead for those who attend the third annual sand festival.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

It has long a Communist hope that the capitalist nations, most particularly the United States, would be ravaged from within by economic upheavals and the resulting social unrest.

Now evidence is appearing that the shoe may be on the other foot—and that the Soviet Union and her satellites are facing very serious internal problems of an economic and social nature.

In a speech made in mid-March, Didecor Harold E. Stassen of the Foreign Operations Administration said: "There are increasing reports indicating real economic trouble inside the Iron Curtain . . . They have taken millions of their people and placed them at standard conditions under veritable slave labor . . . They have pulled down these groups while they make a tremendous effort to make some improvement in living conditions of a minority . . . That very process is starting to show very real strains and cracks and stresses." Now U. S. News & World Report has featured an article, based on reports from Bonn, London and Washington, which sums up the available evidence.

The article bears the unequivocal title, "Depression Hits Communist Empire." It observes, "People throughout the Communist empire are ill-nourished, ill-clad, ill-housed. In the satellites, they are obviously restless. Prosperity is not to be found anywhere within the Communist realm."

This, in the magazine's view, is largely the consequence of a breakdown in planning. Communism has gone all-out to develop heavy industry, and has neglected consumer industry. And the upshot, says U. S. News, is "ruined fields, short crops, shortage of food, clothing and housing; famine and general misery. Workers, underfed and without promise of reward, have little incentive to produce."

Some figures tell a revealing story in themselves. Since 1916, before the revolution, Russia's human population has increased 40 per cent—but her livestock population, which is an excellent barometer of the food situation, has actually declined by three per cent. Since 1937, Russian industrial production has more than doubled, a considerable achievement. But the consumer's share has gone down and down—where it amounted to 42 per cent of the total in 1937, it was but 28 per cent last year.

If the U. S. News survey is correct, the economic blight is intense everywhere—in Poland, Hungary, Rumania, and in Czechoslovakia which, prior to communization, was self-sufficient in food and also was a highly-advanced and prosperous industrial power. Czech coal production, a vital element, has gone to pot, primarily because of the poor food and housing allowed the miners. Strong efforts have been made to bring production up, but it seems to be a case where even Communist methods can't get blood out of a turnip. In China, there are famine conditions. Famine is nothing new to that vast land, but the Reds had promised to prevent it.

It is significant that top Russian officials, from Malenkov down, in speeches made for internal consumption, are promising all kinds of improvements in the living standards of the masses. Soon, they say, there will be more food, more and better goods of all kinds, more medical services, and so on. They are appealing to the people's loyalty and patriotism. This, in itself, certainly shows that there are grave troubles back of the Curtain.

It would be a sad day indeed for this country if we ever ran out of coal—that great and basic energy resource. Luckily, that's a possibility no one need worry about.

According to Secretary of the Interior McKay, coal constitutes 84 per cent of the known, potentially recoverable mineral fuel reserves of the United States. These reserves total nearly 95,000,000,000 tons—one third of the whole world supply.

Moreover, this inventory is far from being complete, impressive as it is. Director W. E. Wrather of the Geological Survey says: "Much new detailed geologic mapping and exploration will be necessary before we will have even an adequate picture of our coal resources, and the present estimate should be regarded only as a report of progress to date."

Our coal industry, despite all the severe economic problems it has faced and still faces, is superbly well geared to keep coal on a profitable basis. A fair profit, in the long run, is the key to progress—and is essential to unlock coal resources.

WARNING FROM HISTORY ON TRADE RESTRICTIONS

Last Saturday, June 12, marked the expiration date of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act which was an extension of the program proposed by Cordell Hull in 1934 as a means of combating a world-wide depression.

In his State of the Union message last January President Eisenhower said: "The free world can no longer afford the kinds of arbitrary restraint on trade that have continued ever since the war." He promised at that time to submit detailed recommendations after the expiration of the program.

On March 30, after the Randall Commission had reported the expiration date of the program, Congress measures to expand import and export trade and increase the flow of our capital into foreign investments including a three years extension of the Reciprocal Trade Act. He said then: "We fall in all our trade policy, we may fall in all our domestic living, our security, and the solidarity of the free world all are involved."

A bill in line with the President's trade program was introduced in the House of Representatives by Representative Keen of New Jersey on April 15. When certain Congressional leaders expressed unalterable opposition to that bill, they induced the President to say that he would compromise for a one year extension of the present Act, which did not include the recommendations of the Randall Commission to authorize the President to go further in reducing trade barriers than the present act permitted. So when the expiration date of the existing trade act arrived, the Congress was offered no choice except to let the Act expire un-noticed or to hurriedly pass a bill to extend it for one year and was stated in Senate debate that pressure had been brought on the President to agree that if the extension were approved he would not use the power given him to make any new trade agreements during the next year.

This would, of course, make the extension an empty gesture. I had these facts in mind when, in my University of Virginia Commencement address on June 14, I recalled the consequences of our failure to follow the leadership of Woodrow Wilson after World War I when he advocated international cooperation to restore "relations of mutual advantage" among nations. I pointed out specifically that at a time when trade wars were bringing on a world-wide depression, the United States sought to isolate itself behind the highest tariff in our history and thus set the stage for World War II.

This is a warning from history which, in my opinion, we cannot afford to ignore at a time when those who possibly might be induced to attend should not be deterred by work requirements, and I don't believe I'd have much trouble getting a high percentage of agreements to a declaration of that nature. I do not believe that proprietors or operators of a very large number of businesses in this fair Christian land would disagree on that one point.

We have seen most Sunday baseball and other sports delayed during the day until afternoon. Even many drug stores wait until afternoon on Sunday.

Since it would allow most church services on Sunday to be over before requiring clerks to be on the job they can't be justified, either, or at least require the food establishments to stay closed on Sunday until 1:00 p. m.

Yours truly,

 Dear Sir:

I would like to make a suggestion to the subject of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act. I believe it would be reasonable to have a law that would require the food establishments to stay closed on Sunday until 1:00 p. m.

Our system being run on a democratic basis, however, it seems legitimate to expect a settlement of this Sunday operations problem according to a system acceptable by a majority, even though some will still be dissatisfied.

I believe we can reasonably consider that our public in its majority, feels that the practice of attending church once or twice a week is an admirable and advisable practice. Those who have a custom of attending church at certain hours during the week when economic cooperation among the free nations is essential to prevent World War III. The nations which share our faith in democracy must have trade or their industry and agriculture, which we have spent $60 billion since World War II to rebuild, will stagnate. If we do not make it possible for them to trade with us, their only choice will be to trade with Russia and her satellites and the Soviet leaders have launched an all-out effort to capture that trade. Trade also is important to us because we are dependent on imports for many essential defense materials.

To give just one illustration of what is happening: Russia is having ships built in Italy and will use those ships for her expanded trade which will cut into our world sales of such items as wheat, cotton and tobacco, which already are declining. She is paying for those ships by sending coal to Italy which the Italians are glad to get at a price equivalent to $25 a ton. I was informed by the research office of the Bituminous coal industry that we could ship coal from Virginia to Italy and deliver it at a price of not more than $18 a ton. That is not being done, however, because the Italians do not have dollars with which to pay for it and meanwhile our coal mines are closing down and creating widening waves of economic distress.

and those who possibly might be induced to attend should not be deterred by work requirements, and I don't believe I'd have much trouble getting a high percentage of agreements to a declaration of that nature. I do not believe that proprietors or operators of a very large number of businesses in this fair Christian land would disagree on that one point.

We have seen most Sunday baseball and other sports delayed during the day until afternoon. Even many drug stores wait until afternoon on Sunday.

Since it would allow most church services on Sunday to be over before requiring clerks to be on the job they can't be justified, either, or at least require the food establishments to stay closed on Sunday until 1:00 p. m.

Dear Editor:
 Last Saturday, May 23rd when I came to the farm to look my strawberry crop over I found at least 200 white people had invaded my strawberry fields without any authority from anyone and were picking my strawberries, using by quarts, crates and bushels. I know these people must have taken at least 50 crates of strawberries away from me Sunday. Monday I put my pickers in the fields and scrapped the fields myself and got 168 crates which I sold for $600. This seems to happen to us every year and it seems to be quite a problem to control the situation.

If we lived in a small backwood community we could be gracious enough to allow a few close friends to come into our fields but since we are near Norfolk City, Virginia Beach and other communities with over a total population of a half million people who like strawberries we can not turn our fields over to the public any longer because people here so had abused the privilege we granted them in the past, by taking our strawberry carriers, our quarts, our crates and stamping our vines down by walking all over top of the beds.

About 10 years ago we used to raise Missionary strawberries that did not put out crown fruit or what is sometimes known as a second crop. We are now raising Blakemore strawberries that do put out a second crop of crown fruit and there are plenty of blossoms in the fields now that will develop although we finished picking our major crop Monday, May 24. About four years ago we picked a lot of crown fruit strawberries right up to July 3rd and made several thousand dollars extra this way. We had the same problem that year of keeping people out of the fields. I know they must have taken $2,000 worth of strawberries from me that year as they captured all the berries and berries at Ives Corner and we found it just impossible to keep the public out. It seems that one car stops and then the news travels like wildfire falsely that we have given our fields up. Now I know that we all have many dear friends and I know that our many employees have many dear friends and these friends tell their friends and so on until the situation is almost uncontrollable. Therefore as we want to pick our own crown fruit strawberries in the future we are restricting anyone from scrapping strawberries in the future because we are in such a heavily populated area and do not want to hurt anybody's feelings.

Saturday is the most dangerous day of the week in traffic.

Three out of four traffic accidents involve passenger cars.

Here's a wonderful dessert recipe that will help keep the bulge out of Summer diets:

Cantaloup Chiffon Cups

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
 1/4 cup cold water
 4 eggs, separated
 1/2 cup fresh lemon juice, strained

1 teaspoon salt
 1/4 cup sugar
 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
 2 ripe cantaloupes

Soften gelatin in cold water. Beat yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add lemon juice, salt and 1/2 cup of the sugar. Cook over hot water until thickened, stirring constantly. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Chill in refrigerator until beginning to set. (consistency of unbeaten egg white). While custard is chilling, halve the cantaloupes and remove seeds. With spoon scoop out some of the pulp, leaving about 3/8-inch rim of pulp in the shell. Note: Crush pulp with potato masher and measure 2 cups of pulp. Beat whites until stiff. Gradually beat in remaining sugar. Fold in gelatin mixture, grated rind and cantaloup pulp. Pile into cantaloup shells and chill until firm. Garnish top with sprig of fresh mint if desired.

"Give Blood in Self-Protection" Slogan in Current Donor Appeal

"Protect yourself. Be a blood donor." is the slogan of the Intra Civic Club Sponsored Red Cross Bloodmobile which will visit Virginia Beach on Monday, June 28th from noon to six o'clock. Members of the Intra Civic Club are Citizens Club, American Legion Junior Chamber, Rotary Club, Lions Club, Exchange Club, Junior Women's Club, Norfolk Junior League, Princess Anne Women's Club, and Princess Anne Ruritan. These local organizations have joined together headed by Duane Current of the Citizens Club to secure blood donors. Large banners to be used one at 17th St. pointing to the Community House and one at 18th street and Atlantic Avenue with arrow toward Community House, will remind the public of the Bloodmobile visit. The gasoline service stations which are lending 100% cooperation to the Intra Civic Club Committee, will have sandwich signs at their places, the attendants will wear buttons and hand-out cards calling motorists attention to Blood Donor Day. The Consovo Advertising Corporation of Norfolk has donated a sign to be placed in front of the Community House. These groups have worked hard and it is up to the people to turn out June 28th and donate their blood.

Many prospective donors have questions about giving their blood. Who can give blood? Any person age 21 through 59 who's in good health and weighs 110 pounds or more. Those 18 through 20 with parental consent or are in armed forces or married may also give without parental consent. How often may one give blood? Donations may be made once every 8 weeks but not more than five times in any 12 months. Should a donor avoid certain foods before giving blood? Yes. During a 4 hour period before his donation, a donor should avoid heavy, fatty foods. Included are: eggs, meat, cream, salad dressings, butter, fried foods, and the like.

Does a donor experience any noticeable effect from giving blood? A healthy person should feel none whatever. What precautions are observed for the donor's safety? For the safety of both himself

Chrysler Introduces New Type Power Steering in Latest Models

Chrysler, which in 1951 pioneered power steering for automobiles, now has introduced a new type called coaxial power steering, reports E. C. Quinn, president Chrysler Division, Chrysler Corporation.

"Because power steering increases driving safety makes driving more restful and provides effortless parking almost every automobile manufacturer has followed Chrysler's lead and offers power steering in some form," Quinn said. "This new device, designed and built by Chrysler, gives the same full-time operation and excellent performance as the original design but its streamlined, simplified design offers additional benefits."

The Chrysler coaxial unit is designed as an integral car component, not as an add-on or booster feature. Its simple, functional design means less bulk in the engine compartment allowing easier access to the other equipment such as starter and brake pedal.

It has fewer parts and is lighter in weight than any other integral-type power steering system now on the market because of its simplified mechanism which promises longer operational life without adjustment.

Service-free operation beyond the usual 1000 mile oil level check is provided as the gear is self-lubricated. No mechanical adjustments are needed, except possibly for a cross-shaft adjustment once or twice during the car's life. All other adjustments are securely locked in place when the unit is built.

Coaxial power steering retains the exclusive advantages which have marked Chrysler power steering since its introduction, working to provide safer, easier steering and parking at all times.

The unit applies power steering help directly in proportion to need and not on an on-again-off-again basis, so that drivers always have a perfectly consistent feel of the road through the steering wheel. Whatever the steering job, the driver supplies approximately 20 per cent of the effort.

The power unit supplies the additional 80% so that there is no unpredictable change in the feel as power cuts in and out.

Coaxial power steering is available in a great increase in safety because it provides great maneuverability. Because of power assist, the Chrysler steering gear ratio could be reduced from the manual steering ratio of 25.8 to 1, to 16.8 to 1. This means that the steering wheel need be turned only 3 1/2 times to move the front wheels from full right to full left, compared to 5 1/2 turns without power. For this reason the car

Eight Fort Story Lieutenants this week carried the flag-draped casket of Lt. Richard T. Shea at last rites for the Portsmouth, Va. war hero who has been recommended for the Medal of Honor. Shea, who was killed in Korea over a year ago while trying to save the lives of his comrades, set all-time middle distance running records at the U. S. Military Academy. His casket bearers were Lieutenants Chester Gail, Robert C. Howard, Robert R. Kinkadee, Bart F. O'Brien, Anthony H. Breslin, Robert Kizer, Milton C. Jackson, Jr., and Allan N. Niederman.

SUMMER TRAINING Of Reserve units is underway at Fort Story with the 325th DUKW Company completing two weeks of amphibious problems. As this Worcester, Mass., unit moves out, the 223rd and 277th DUKW Companies, both from Brooklyn, are moving in. Support and instructors for these units are being furnished by the 169th DUKW Company of will respond 40 per cent faster, providing greater maneuverability.

The danger involved in blow-outs is greatly minimized because even when a front tire blows little effort is required to continue in a straight line.

Coaxial power steering is available throughout the 1954 line. It is optional at extra cost, except in the Crown Imperial where it is standard equipment.

GOOD NEWS FOR Homemakers
Anne Marshall

"What's for lunch, Mom?" That's a familiar query this season when outdoor activities sharpen appetites. A good way to make sure lunches at your house reach expectations is to keep a supply of lunch-on-building foods on the kitchen shelf. Give top priority to condensed soups, for they are star performers in summer meals. They are quickly and easily prepared. They provide variety. And they give cool sandwich-salad meals a warm heart. Too, soups are well-liked and nourishing.

A good luncheon plan with soup

Salad or Sandwich
Dessert Beverage
Imagination and "know-how" are needed to turn this plan into appetizing and nutritious meals. With cream soup have a meat or seafood salad and fruit for dessert. A vegetable soup tastes good with egg salad and pie or cake. With a meat soup select fruit salad and a cheese sandwich; then pudding for dessert. The beverage could be milk, or on a particularly sweltering day—iced tea or lemonade.

Old which included beside the well known Golden Charn, Vulcan, Peralan Prince and Glory of Texas, new types produced from seedlings and which Mrs. Old named for members of the Princess Anne Garden Club. A second exhibit of an Easter Lily Stalk with nine lilies was made by Mrs. J. R. Pritchard.

GOVERNMENT HOLDS VAST SUPPLY OF COTTON, PORK, BUTTER & WHAT-HAVE-YOU

Could your family use 1,400 loaves bread with your next grocery order?

Do you need 117 cotton shirts, or 91 cotton house dresses?

Will your refrigerator or deep freeze hold a six months' supply of pork, and enough butter to last your family three months?

Before you decide that these questions are just too absurd to answer let it be explained that your Government now owns outright or else has under loan sufficient wheat, cotton and butter to provide every family in the United States with those quantities, and enough corn to raise the pigs for your half-year's supply of pork and pork products.

Here is the Government's dilemma: Commodity Credit Corporation has about $6.5 billion invested in farm price support operations. It costs CCC more than $700,000 a day just to store these commodities.

And more storage space will be needed in the near future.

Supports Centered on Six Commodities

Nine-tenths of this vast sum committed to price support operations is tied up in six basic commodities — wheat, cotton, corn, rice, tobacco and peanuts.

The basic commodities however, account for only 33 per cent of the Nation's total farm income.

An additional 54 per cent of farmers' receipts comes from commodities which are not under Ives, Blackwater District; Roger Sawyer, Seaboard District; John P. Linn, Lynnhaven District; and Stanley Oliver, Kempsville District. Each of these men has a quota of twelve farmers to go from their District of the County. I would suggest that you make your plans as soon as possible so that you can contact your Committee member and confirm your reservations. Looking forward to having two full bus loads for our Washington trip.

The tour of the Station Wednesday and Thursday will include general experimental work being done on (1) flowers and vegetables, (2) insect and weed control, (3) swine breeding, (4) dairy and beef breeding, (5) soybeans, (6) pasture and forage crops, (7) poultry, (8) forestry, and (9) termite control. The officials of the Beltsville Research Center are making plans so that our group may see some of the latest experimental work being conducted with particular emphasis on those crops and farm enterprises which are most interesting to our County group.

Marlon Bright's Committee has done a wonderful job in working up the Program for this tour, and his Committee would like to encourage all farmers to make their plans to take this trip. This should be a highlight and a must in your schedule.

The cost for special bus transportation and lodging at the Harrington Hotel has been arranged for the group at a very reasonable price. $17.00 will pay your expenses for the three nights in the Hotel and the constant use of the buses during the four day trip. The members of the Committee are now taking reservations for this tour; and if you will contribute your support.

The present price support program encourages small farmers to raise wheat and corn for storage, rather than as feed for the production of meat, milk and eggs. Administration recommendations, now before the Congress, are designed to correct these defects in the present program. Under these proposals, more emphasis would be placed upon production for dietary wants and requirements. Likewise, they are designed to help move more farm products into wider areas both at home and abroad, reduce the staggering surpluses, and encourage sound land use patterns.

"Tour of Beltsville Experiment Station"

Last winter during the Meeting of the Princess Anne County Board of Agriculture, it was decided to make plans for a tour by farmers and others interested to the National Research Center at Beltsville, Maryland during July. Marlon Bright and his Committee have now completed arrangements for this trip.

The group is planning to leave from Princess Anne Courthouse on Tuesday, July 26th and journey to Washington that day arriving at the Harrington Hotel in time for the group to attend a baseball game that night between the Washington Senators and the Detroit Tigers. Wednesday and Thursday the group will visit the experiment Station on the morning returning to the hotel each night in Washington with the option of attending the baseball games or visiting some of the landmarks of the Capitol City. Friday morning the group will have a short guided tour of several of the more important Government Buildings returning to Princess Anne in time for supper Friday night, July 29th.

Tuberculosis, Despite Progress Made, Still Family Tragedy in United States

Tuberculosis, despite progress made toward its control in the past 50 years, remains "an individual or family tragedy for thousands of people and a financial loss to our economy measured in hundreds of millions of dollars," according to the Annual Report of the National Tuberculosis Association, released by Dr. James E. Perkins, managing director.

The report, which covers specifically the fiscal year from April 1, 1953, to March 31, 1954, commemorates half a century of organized, nationwide action against tuberculosis since the NTA was founded in 1904. The 50th anniversary meeting of the Association was held the week of May 17 in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Pointing to the progress made against tuberculosis, "with the death rate today approximately 16 per 100,000 population as compared with 188 in 1904, the report states that "satisfaction with this progress is tempered by awareness of the 20,000 deaths which still occur each year from a disease that is completely preventable."

In discussing changes in the tuberculosis picture, the report states that 50 years ago the disease was considered typically one of young women while today, although it is still a major cause of death among women from 15 to 24, more than half of the tuberculosis deaths are among men over 40. It brings out, too, that the disease is a particularly serious problem in cities, with 43 per cent of tuberculosis deaths occurring in cities of more than 100,000 population although such cities comprise only 29 per cent of the population.

"People who live or work in institutions — prisons, mental hospitals — are at a special risk of infection," it continues. "And incidence among them is high except where continuous careful precautions are taken. Tuberculosis still finds its most ready victims among the poor, and because it is still a long and expensive illness, it continues to be a cause, as well as an effect, of financial distress and dependency."

The better means of fighting tuberculosis today, including improved treatment resulting from surgical techniques, are a measure of progress but the report points out that "we are concerned not alone with progress but also with ultimate conquest of the disease, and, therefore, with the deficiencies in programs and the work that still remains to be done."

The greatest problem for the future, according to the report, will be to see that the job started 50 years ago is carried to its ultimate goal — eradication of tuberculosis.

"Already there is great difficulty in even maintaining appropriations from tax monies for tuberculosis services," the report states. "Undoubtedly it will be harder than ever, as time goes on, to get the public to contribute in health departments, hospitals, and welfare services that will be adequate to continue necessary programs. Keeping the public sufficiently interested in tuberculosis problems and aware of the necessities for control so that they will support and demand these services may be an increasingly difficult task. Furthermore, persuading people to take measures for their own protection — to have chest X-rays, for instance — will require even more effort and imagination than it does today. Aggressive and dedicated work will have to go into preventing premature relaxation of efforts to control tuberculosis."

to begin two weeks of amphibious warfare training designed to acquaint them with various techniques of amphibious operations.

Wheat Growers Should Check On Allotments

Farmers who had no wheat for grain during the past three years and who want to plant wheat for harvest in 1955, must file an application for a "new farm" wheat allotment with the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office. The last date for filing applications for new farm wheat allotments is June 30, 1954. Mr. W. W. White, County ASC Chairman said.

He explained that new farms, for allotment purposes, are those on which no wheat was harvested as grain in any one of the past three years — 1952, 1953, and 1954. With the strong probability of acreage controls being in effect on the wheat crop to be seeded this fall, Mr. White said that the ASC office needs certain data for such farms in order to establish fair allotments.

Any farmer who wants to be considered for a new farm 1955-crop wheat allotment must file a written application with his county ASC office not later than June 30, 1954. Application forms are available in the county ASC office and will be supplied or mailed on request.

June is Dairy Month - so let's really celebrate it in a big way. You can really hit the jackpot, if you just serve - milk - cheese butter, ice cream and all the good dishes that require the use of milk products. Cheese supplies - break all records so says, the Food Review I just received from the Agricultural Marketing Service. "Cheddar cheese one of the most important dairy products now highlighting the plentiful foods list broke all cold storage records at the end of April, when holdings mounted to 452,000,000 pounds. That quantity, if equally divided, would provide nearly three pounds per pound to every man, woman and child in the nation. Cheddar cheese ranks beside meat as a source of efficient protein - this is truly one of the leading buys in nutritive foods. It has calcium as well as riboflavin and it made from whole milk, it's also rich in Vitamin A. Agricultural Marketing Service tells us that one ounce of cheddar cheese contains as much calcium as a cup of milk.

Cheddar cheese bears the name of the Village of Cheddar in Somersetshire, England, where it was first made some three centuries ago. The cheddar cheese making process, though, as it is now known, is relatively new. In America and England, it is an exceptionally popular variety of cheese, and probably the most important of all cheese, as measured by the quantity which is produced annually.

Although the making of cheese enjoys an enviable history, going back some 4,000 years, when travelers from Asia are said to have brought the art to the European continent, the manufacture of cheese in the U. S. was only a local farm industry until some 100 years ago, with housewives making it from surplus milk on the farm. The first cheese factory in this country was built in 1851 near Rome, New York, and Herkimer County, close by became the center of the cheese making industry in this country for the next half century. Since then it has moved westward, and is now located in the fertile farm lands of Wisconsin. Cheese making is now mostly a factory industry, with only small quantities being made on farms for home use.

Today Americans eat almost twice as much cheese as they did some 20 years ago. More than 1,000,000,000 pounds of cheese are manufactured in this country each year, requiring the use of about 10 per cent of the nation's annual milk production.

Milk is the first food to sustain human life and one of the finest foods for people of every age. It is one of the best sources of calcium. It offers high quality protein, riboflavin (one of the B. Vitamins) and other nutrients. Milk also tastes good. Yummy, Yum what could be finer than a slice of cold milk and a slice of cake or pie? American diets lack milk, although 46 per cent of the Nation's total milk supply was used as fluid milk and cream in 1953, many people are not using enough milk for best nutritional health.

Children should have a quart each day and adults a pint. Milk is economical. Skimming on milk to cut family food costs is poor economy. Milk and its products offer excellent nutritional returns for the money spent. In a recent study of city family diets, dairy products took less than 1-3 of the money spent on food, yet provided 2-3 of the calcium and over 1-3 of the riboflavin, plus considerable protein - vitamin A and energy value. Dairy products are versatile foods. Homemakers can use them in many ways, alone and with nearly all other foods to make meals tasteful and complete. Drink more milk - use more dairy products - not only during June, but every month. Happy Father's Day to all you nice fathers! Bye-bye, I'll be seeing you.

TWO YEARS OF FASHIONS

On June 19, 1952, this fashion column saw the "light of day" in the Virginia Beach Sun-News - also your Alliebee's Merry Matrons column - and it has been bringing you direct fashion stories from the New York market and the New York Dress Institute's two-year Fashion Fresh Weeks, from Washington, from the St. Louis fashion center of the mid-west, observations from the Caribbean and from Paris, France, and great homes of Christian Dior, Jacques Fath and others visited and viewed last June. Naturally, we've kept our fashion-snooping nose pretty close to the home-front fashions and reported them, too. It's been exciting and fun and we hope your readers have enjoyed our coverage. There'll be more out-of-town viewing to come so keep reading the fashion and woman's page of this newspaper each week!

RUGGED MASCULINE SILK - That quiet man who writes the family's checks and leaves his own needs to the last is about to have a break. It'll be Father's Day Sunday and he'll get his break in the form of robes or sports shirts, perhaps, and nothing but the best is good enough for Dad. Lots of rugged masculine silks in the shops this year for him. The thoughtful luxury of a pyre silk sport shirt designed by Adrian would be a nifty gift. Precisely tailored to fit, plaids, sporting checks and neatly woven stripes are just some of the designs in plain or parchment shantungs. Conversational prints in miniature pale printed poodles are still other shirt gifts. Fabric patterns are perfectly matched and collars take a newly narrowed turn.

FOR HIS RELAXING MOMENTS - Time to relax for the older father may mean the quiet luxury of a silk robe forlorn in the season when it's not so torrid. Cotton seersucker and chambray wash robes are nice for just about now. Two tones of silk and orlon shantung or pure silk shantung - pale and dark gray, ivory or tan, charcoal and cream - are contrasting effects used on deep shawl collars, cuffs and sash. All are easy wrap-around designs; borrowed from the trenchcoat are the notched collars that afford a different detail to some of the

she works with the Catholic Social Service agency and relaxing with music is as good a way as any for getting away from the sad tales she sympathizes with throughout the day, began collecting her records through her Uncle David now the Duke of Windsor - when, as a tiny tot, she used to sit enraptured listening to his famous collection. He gave her some of them when he left with "the woman I love."

For that calm, cool look, take a peek at Mrs. Joseph La iglia this summer. No one can look quite as serene and lovely as Jane does when she's decked out in summer-cool collars. She has that air of serenity about her that's refreshing to behold on a hot summer's day. Knowing how to do it is a gift!

Mrs. Harry Mansbach is another summertime dresser who has the know-how. Her 72nd street neighbors admire her adeptness at wearing tailored things that still give a cool, relaxing appearance. She does so much fine work with the Girl Scouts through the winter months, too!

ALL AROUND THE HOME

... OR HOUSEKEEPING MADE EASIER

Many homemakers are beginning to use the attractive pastel colored sheets for such things as curtains, drapery, flounces, tablecloths and bed spreads. Make sure the colored sheets you buy are sunfast and colorfast if you use the sheets on the beds or elsewhere in the house, warn technicians at American Institute of Laundering. Look for the sheets whose label certifies washability and colorfastness.

When shopping for curtain materials inquire about washability. If there are no preshrunk labels make allowance for lengthwise shrinkage—as much as three inches to the yard. To decide total yardage, figure on at least 100 per cent fullness if the curtains are not to be skimpy. In other words, the fabric should be twice as wide as the space to be covered, according to textile experts at American Institute of Laundering.

Those stytic pencils designed to stop the flow of blood when hubby nicks himself while shaving can also damage fabrics. That's why the American Institute of Laundering, educational and research center of the laundry industry, cautions all makes and the wives who look after them to keep that stytic pencil away from shirts undershirts and towels in the bathroom. Alum, one of the ingredients in such pencils is the culprit, that causes holes to develop in any fabrics with which it comes in contact.

patterns widely spaced on four-ard. His more tailored designs are: "Line and Arrow" or "Sunburst," a single design in woven checked silk. Its black and white checks take a strong contrasting accent in diagonal color bars of navy, red or gold.

TIES BY DACHE AND DIOR

those sections where head, shoulders and hips rub against them, the American Institute of Laundering recommends changing bed linens around occasionally. In other words, simply put the bottom hem of the sheet at the top of the bed sometimes and they equalize the wear.

If you are thinking about buying some throw-rags, make sure the cotton fabrics do not contain a paper base. Paper yarns are not washable, say technicians at the American Institute of Laundering. When paper becomes wet it deteriorates and loses up to 70 per cent of its strength. This makes the rag yarns very susceptible to damage from rubbing and abrasion. Examine the yarn construction, the label on the rug and ask the sales person to make sure.

Napkins should not be used to pinch-hit for pot holders! The reason, according to American Institute of Laundering, research and educational center of the laundry industry, is that the stain caused by the contact of the fabric with carbon-containing grease is practically impossible to remove. Although the Institute says, will remove a large portion of the discoloration produced by contact of a napkin with a blackened cooking pan, but a grey discoloration will remain in the fabric.

Looking for cool, delightful ideas on a warm day? These will make your family feel more like eating:

Cooked vegetables don't always have to be served hot. These are good when chilled and served with French dressing; asparagus tips, cauliflower, carrot strips.

Potato salad looks and tastes good when served in green pepper rings or cups. Garnish with slices of tomato and ham, plum tomatoes and celery strips.

Here's what you can do with cold roast chicken to make a luncheon pretty enough for a guest: slice the chicken and team with slices of avocado, tomato aspic and marinated asparagus.

With a heavy dinner you'll want the lightest of salads. Try lettuce hearts, small tender spinach leaves, watercress and sliced radishes. Simple oil and vinegar dressing will be best for this.

Have your salad and dessert course all in one: strawberries, pineapple spears, melon balls, green grapes, peach halves and as-cop of sherbet.

Offer your family a cold meat and cheese platter for variety: slices of ham tongue and turkey served with mounds of potato salad, marinated green beans and cold slaw.

Jellied Tomato Delusion (Serves 3)

1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
2 cups boiling tomato juice
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon onion juice
Dissolve gelatin in tomato juice. Add remaining ingredients and pour into a pan which is one inch deep. Chill until firm. Cut into cubes and serve cold. Serve with soured cream, sliced cucumbers and hard-cooked egg slices.

1953 Automobile Death Toll Worst in History

The worst automobile accident toll in the nation's history—more than two million casualties—was recorded in 1953, according to figures released today by The Travelers Insurance Companies.

Traffic deaths totaled 38,500, an increase of 900 over 1952. The injury count reached 2,140,000 compared to 2,090,000 for the previous year.

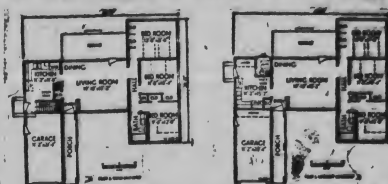

The totals are statistics from "The Passing Scene," twentieth in an annual series of traffic accident data booklets published by The Travelers. Accident facts from every state in the country are collected and analyzed for the publication by Travelers statisticians.

Excessive speed was the most dangerous driving mistake in 1953. Speed killed 13,870 persons and injured more than 600,000. Drivers under 25 years of age were involved in almost 25 per cent of the year's fatal accidents although they constitute only about 15 per cent of the total of all drivers.

THOSE WERE THE DAYS

College Enrollments on Upgrade; Vast Increase Seen in 1970

These wonderful days of high school graduations lead to visions of our ambitious young people seeking higher education at private and state-endowed colleges and universities.

Perhaps it would be wise then to reflect upon an Economic Bulletin just released by the National Association of Manufacturers which concerns the expected increase in college enrollment by 1960 and 1970.

Summaries were made by the NAM from a study entitled College Age Population Trends—1940-1970, published by The Committee on Special Projects for the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admission Officers.

The reports show, for example, there were 8,076,441 persons of college age in the U. S. in 1950, but by 1970 this figure would climb to 9,273,157.

By 1970, if you can imagine it, the total number of persons of college age is estimated at 13,609,831.

The eight Southeastern states of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia will have a 1970 college enrollment potential of 2,423,707. North Carolina will have the expected high of 407,844 followed by Georgia's 349,387.

It is not too soon to think about college and university facilities for the period from 1960 to 1970. The "post-war babies" of are partially endowed, some are supported by municipalities, some are church affiliated, and others are privately controlled and supported. Decisions must then be made concerning the amount of expansion each college or university can support. Undoubtedly, it will be necessary to establish new schools and add branches to existing schools. The ultimate provision for the expanding number of college and university students will take years of planning and building.

These are the observations of registrars and enrollment officers. We should begin heeding them

The French touch comes straight out of the designing salons of Lilly Dache and Christian Dior. All of which should give Dad the same lift it gives Mom to wear a horse gift from either of the two French houses. The, with a distinctive Parisian flavor are Lilly Dache's forte. "City Light," "Lilly Artist," "Hurdy-Gurdy," "Kioke" are just a few of her Gallic designs in neckwear. For the sporting male, she includes a golf motif. "Pore," a sweeping pattern, "Baling" and "Deep Sea" with graceful swordfish. All are pure silk foulard or organdy foulard. That Lilly! She's a shrewd one. Lilly probably feels that a way to the American man's pocketbook for the Lady is through a little flatter-gift of a "very special" Lilly Dache tie! Christian Dior returns to the Napoleonic era for neckwear inspiration. Ivory crown and lion is the regal theme, for a red silk tie. A mythological horse is the kingly pattern against chevron-woven silk. Navy ribbed and corded silks. Navy ribbed and corded silks were the first smart spots to welcome the bold times. They're plentifully displayed in the Tide-water shops so heres another neat trick for a Father's Day gift.

PREDICTION FOR FAL — It's in the fashion winds that the good old double-breasted suit for the Man Of The House will make a very slow, very slow, Falltime comeback. We always did think the navy blue, double-breasted suits for men didn't get beaten for youthfuling the "figer!"

It cost the manufacturer of a new jet transport plane prototype more than $15 million to produce the 550 mile per hour aircraft.

The overwhelming majority — 90 per cent — of America's mineral fuels reserves are coal and lignite.

Bad Time Ahead For Revokes Says Woodson

Drivers whose licenses have been revoked or suspended but continue to drive are in for a bad time if a new policy just inaugurated by the State Police is as effective as it promises to be. Colonel C. W. Woodson, Jr., Superintendent and Executive Chairman of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee, has just disclosed an arrangement with the Division of Motor Vehicles whereby every 15 days the Division will furnish police departments with a list of persons whose licenses have been suspended or revoked. The list gives the names in alphabetical order by city and county, the offense and the duration of the suspension. Thus police officers can conduct follow-up checks in their communities to ascertain if persons so penalized are continuing to drive in defiance of the law. This information is available to bona fide Virginia police organizations only.

Calling attention to the extreme difficulty of apprehending such a driver unless he is arrested for another offense or involved in an accident, Colonel Woodson noted that the Code of Virginia provides that anyone convicted of the offense "shall be confined in jail not less than 10 days or more than six months" in addition to a maximum fine of $500.

"One of the most powerful weapons we now have to aid us in reducing accidents is our license-suspension program. In order for this program to continue its success, it must be supported by strong enforcement. If the violator receives the impression that no attention is paid to the operation of motor vehicles by persons who have been ruled from the road, this will defeat the very purpose for which the suspension was intended," he said.

Active Duty Planned For Medical Trainees

60 Days in Naval Hospitals Ahead

It is anticipated that a new active duty for training program in the nature of a clinical clerkship for Naval Reserve Ensign 1135 (Medical) Officers to be conducted during the fiscal year 1955 will receive Congressional and Presidential approval in the immediate future. This program will provide 60 days of training in Naval Teaching Hospitals for those officers who have completed at least the second year of medical school but have not graduated.

The program will be developed to provide for indoctrination and orientation in Naval Medicine, rotation through the major professional services, and the performance of on-the-job training. The officer will receive the pay and allowances of his rank plus the cost of transportation for himself from the place he receives his orders to the hospital.

Allocation of billets will be made by the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery as soon as sufficient information is available. Allocation will be made, insofar as practicable, to avoid undue travel.

Full Report of Anglican Meet to Be Published

A full report of the Anglican Congress, which meets this summer from August 4-13 in Minneapolis, Minn., will be published shortly after the close of the Congress by Seabury Press, official publishing house of the Episcopal Church. It is likely that the report will be published in the United Kingdom at the same time.

Editor of the publication will be the Rev. Powell Mills Dawley, Professor of Church History at the General Theological Seminary in New York. Among the items to be included in the report are the official text of speeches on the Anglican Congress theme, "The Call of God and the Mission of the Anglican Communion," and the findings and resolution resulting from the eight days of discussion.

The report will open with a foreword by the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church, and will close with a message to all Anglicans from the Archbishop of Canterbury. More than 600 bishops, priests, laymen and women from all over the world are expected to attend this first gathering of the Anglican Communion outside the British Isles.

Commander of "Intrepid" Will Make Virginia Beach Home Port

Taking command of the Navy's modernized aircraft carrier Intrepid is just one of the many events that Captain William T. Easton, USN, is looking forward to during the month of June.

His daughter, Bayne, wife of Col. William B. Mickle, USAF, will present him with a grandchild some time this month. His stepson, Peter Bigelow, was graduated Friday, June 4, from the Naval Academy and will be married Tuesday June 8, in Washington, D. C.

Another son, William B. Easton, 15, will soon return home from school in Switzerland. And Captain Easton will soon move into a new Tidewater home with his wife, the former Miss Manoa Bigelow, and seven-year-old son, Frederick, at 209 5th St., Virginia Beach, Va.

Captain Easton will preside over flight deck recommissioning ceremonies aboard the Intrepid on June 18 at Norfolk Naval Shipyard, Portsmouth, when the completely revamped 32,000-ton carrier rejoins the fleet.

A hardy veteran of World War II action in the Pacific, the Intrepid has undergone a major overhaul at Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company to prepare her for the heavier and faster jet planes that will operate from her decks.

Captain Easton remembers three interesting years he spent as personal pilot for the late Secretary of the Naval Frank Knox. Assigned to fly Knox from July, 1939 quality bulls, and this might be a good opportunity for you to find just what you need. The Ivy Hill Dispersal Sale is being planned for June 21st and 22nd at Forrest, Virginia. This has been one of the outstanding horned Hereford herds in the State. Due to the death of Mr. Thompson, 319 animals of high quality will be sold at that time.

Another Dispersal Sale that might be of interest to you will be held on the Virginia Horizon Farm at Manassas, Virginia on June 26th. At this Sale there will be 98 animals including 11 bulls of the pooled Hereford bred put up for auction.

These Sales should afford you an excellent opportunity to purchase good quality foundation stock for your herd.

Youngsters Who Would Work Should Check Regulations

Youngsters who expect to be counted in the labor market by taking jobs after school for close this June are advised to stop, look, and listen before taking the plunge.

"It will pay you to pause, to take stock of yourself and the job situation," says Regional Director William M. Eaves of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage-Hour Office here.

Federal and State laws regulate the employment of young people, he said. Under the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act, the minimum age of 16 for employment in factories and for most other interstate commerce work as well as for any type of work during school hours, including agriculture that is subject to the law.

"Under the Federal law and many State laws," he said, "a minimum age of 18 is set for certain hazardous jobs. Among the jobs prohibited for minors under 18 by Federal regulation and by some State laws are motor-vehicle driver and helper, the operation of power-driven wood-working machines, the operation of power-driven metal-forming, punching, and shearing machines, and the operation of bakery machines. Seven other types of work also require a minimum of 18 years under the Federal law."

Also regulated by the Federal law are hours of work by minors, night work of boys and girls, as well as minimum wages & required overtime pay. Further information about such items is available from the local labor department office. If employers who want to avoid unintentional violation of child labor laws should obtain age certificates for youthful applicants before they go to work, he said. In this area such certificates of age may be obtained from local school authorities.

Council Votes Fund For Fireworks, Rescue Squad, 'Remnant' Appropriations

The Carolina Coaches Company operators of bus service between Norfolk and Virginia Beach and within the city of Virginia Beach will construct a new, modern bus terminal at 18th street and Pacific avenue, the city council was informed Monday night at its regular meeting.

Dudley Cooke, attorney, represented the bus company at council meeting and requested certain subdivision of property he claims is purchasing from the Fuel, Feed Corporation.

The Council put its $1,300, 000-plus budget on second reading at the meeting and decided to use a $500 appropriation included to celebrate the Fourth of July with a bang this year at the resort.

The Council members voted the $500 to purchase an elaborate fireworks display to be set off the night of the Fourth. May or F. R. Murray designated Councilman John McCombs, whose idea the display was, to head a committee to check on the availability of the Virginia Beach Flaming Pier for the big show.

McCombs had pointed to the "40,000 visitors we have here every fourth," and said he thought the city ought to "give them some entertainment." Members agreed and mentioned that the display might serve to keep the visitors, especially the children, on hand for the full holiday.

The Council also voted certain "remnant" appropriations winding up its 1953-54 fiscal year. They gave $15,000 to the Bureau of Police (for 12 to 18 extra Summer policemen), $30,000 to the Department of Public Works (primarily for street work), and $16,800 for Social Security taxes.

In other actions, Council:

Approved a $46,000 low bid offered by the Sam B. Archbell Company for the second phase of the other five bids ranged up to sixty-odd thousand dollars, according to A. W. Petty, Department of Public Works director.

Approved the last $40,000 of a $300,000 sewer bond issue for improvements to the 14th Street pumping station and installation of a larger pressure line from the 29th Street Station to the sewage plant.

Voted $1,000 for operational funds for the Volunteer Virginia Beach Rescue Squad and $1,200 for playground operation costs.

Homes Found For Hundreds of Orphaned Tots

Hundreds of babies in Virginia have been given homes as a result of the work of the Children's Home Society, the state's oldest and largest adoption agency, according to Mrs. Floyd H. Dornier, of Virginia Beach, Princess Anne County chairman for the 1954 campaign to raise funds to carry on the work.

"I want to appeal to our people in this section of Virginia to give generously to this wonderful drive and to avail themselves of the opportunity to share in making this service available to the children in our state," she added.

Mrs. Dornier has announced the names of those who will work with her in the drive. They include Mrs. O. L. Smith, Mrs. William Hudgins, Mrs. Fred Trumter, Mrs. Tildford Williams, and Mrs. D. J. Vaughan.

Sponsors for the Princess Anne County drive include Mrs. G. Bentley Byrd, John B. Dey, Judge Floyd E. Kellam, Mrs. Alfred L. Nicholson, and V. Alfred Eberhardt. Records show that this organization now has nearly 1,000 requests for adoption of babies. This indicates that not only is the Society watching out for the babies

Drivers at Fault In 75 Percent Of Accidents

One or both of the drivers are at fault in about 75 per cent of all fatal traffic accidents. So the best advice for avoiding a traffic accident during the Fourth of July holiday, the National Safety Council says, is to think twice — once for yourself and once for the other guy.

With 40 million vehicles — and drivers — jamming the nation's highways, the chance for driver mistakes will be multiplied many times over the normal accident risk, warned Ned H. Dearborn, Council president.

"Traffic accidents don't just happen — they are caused," he said. "They are caused by human indifference, ignorance, recklessness, or lack of plain courteous and decent behavior."

"A car accident does not go out of control until the driver loses his control over it."

In an effort to reduce the holiday toll, the Council is coordinating a nationwide campaign in which 100 national organizations are participating. The campaign is designed to increase public awareness.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

By JOHN O. HART, County Farm Agent

National Farm Safety Week Scheduled For July 25-31

For the 11th consecutive year, the last full week of July has again been proclaimed National Farm Safety Week by the President of the United States.

In a recent proclamation, President Eisenhower said "I urgently request all farm residents to make every effort to develop safe work habits and skills, so they may farm to live and live to farm. I also request all persons and organizations interested in farm life and welfare, to join in a campaign to free as many farm homes as possible from the tragedy and losses caused by needless accidents."

Endorsing the observance, the Virginia Rural Safety Council pointed out that more accidental deaths occur in farming than in any other major industry in the country. Last year in the Old Dominion, while the record was better than in 1952, there were 519 non-transport, accidental deaths in rural areas. This is a drop of 47 from the year before. Topping the list as the main killer were accidental falls—126 of them, up 19 from 1952. The leading cause of accidents in 1952—fires and explosions—numbered 106 in 1953, down 37.

Other plus signs shown in the figures compiled by the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Richmond occurred in the following categories: suffocation in bed; poisoning; blow from falling objects; and excessive heat.

People find all kinds of ways to die, the Council points out. Meanwhile, there are those who are lucky—who have accidents but survive. Take a case reported by the National Safety Council—a seven-year-old boy swallowed a penny and coughed up a stick.

"Sweet Sudan Insurance Against Summer Drouth"

If a field of sweet sudan grass is available during the hot dry periods of July and August, it's one of the best types of insurance against the seasonal mid-summer slump in milk production.

Sudan is available when other pastures are either dormant or retarded during mid-summer. It comes back quickly after being grazed or mowed, and is particularly adapted to rotational grazing. If the season is favorable, and sudan is not needed for pasture, it can be made into a satisfactory silage that does not need a preservative.

With average soil fertility and weather, a yield of two tons of hay, or equivalent, per acre can be expected. Under a system of rotational grazing during a 60-day period, this will provide enough TDN (Total digestible nutrients) to keep three 1,000-pound dairy cows producing about 10 pounds of 4 per cent milk per cow each day. Since sudan grass is relatively low in protein, it will be necessary to supplement pasture with protein for a balanced ration. Use about one pound of 20 per cent concentrate for each 5 to 6 pounds of milk.

The average improved herd of 45 cows might expect to get nutrients from 15 acres of sudan grass to maintain their body weight and produce 27,000 pounds of milk. A farmer may expect to spend $450, or $30 an acre, to produce 15 acres of sudan grass which would yield 2 tons of hay, or its equivalent, per acre. The feed cost per 100 pounds of milk produced would be $1.66.

To put it another way if the sudan grass were not available, you might expect the same results from two tons of good hay or six tons of good silage. If you had to buy the hay at, say, $30 per ton, you'd need $900 worth of hay to do the same job at a feed cost of $3.32 per 100 pounds of milk.

Scientifically banked curves that permit automobiles under test to seek automatically their own safest level according to speed are a feature of the 1.7-mile test track at the new Chrysler Corporation Engineering Proving Grounds dedicated this week at Chelsea, Mich.

The six-lane oval is designed to handle speeds up to 160 miles per hour on the curves without side thrust and with complete safety, enabling engineers to study fuel economy, vibration, steering, axle shock, lubrication, acceleration and other characteristics under the severest conditions.

The 4,500 acre tract is the largest facility in existence devoted exclusively to the testing of passenger cars and trucks. In addition to the concrete paved track, the Chrysler Engineering Proving Grounds contain several miles of cross-country roads, hills, and grades to test automobiles under all operating conditions. berries, raspberries, and other home grown fruits, or to use a netting made of cord. The mesh should not be greater than one inch, and can be stretched over small trees or berries which need protection. In some cases it might be advisable to use cheesecloth, especially if the fruits ripen when Japanese beetles are flying, and you're in an area bothered with the pest.

At first the cost of the cord netting may seem rather high, but if it is cared for and stored properly, it should last for 10 years or more; and the cost spread over this period of time would not be much, and likely will pay off when used on many plants.

"A 4-B Injury Common In State"

People just seem to go on doing the same thing. For instance, every year at VPI many samples of plants are sent in which don't have any horrible disease, but which are simply injured because your gardener has used a sprayer to spray them which has been used to spray weeds with 2,4-D, or more especially 4,5-T.

All you need to do to prevent this sort of injury is to use a

It is almost impossible to remove 2,4-D from a sprayer. It's especially dangerous to use the same sprayer to apply chemicals to very sensitive plants such as tomatoes, grapes, tobacco, cotton, beans, melons, and cucumbers. Peas and eggplants also are easily injured. Motto-get a sprayer for spraying weeds and mark it as such.

New Colonial Store Offers Orchids and Prizes to Celebrate Opening Week

Emergency Polio Drive Slated

Americans contributed nearly $55,000,000 to the March of Dimes last January — more than in any previous year — yet the sum fell short by $20,000,000 of meeting the current year's needs, Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, reported today.

As a result, he said, it will be necessary to seek the additional amount through an Emergency March of Dimes scheduled for August 16 through 31. The decision to hold the emergency appeal for polio-fighting funds was made late last week at a meeting of the National Foundation's Board of Trustees, he disclosed.

"This year," Mr. O'Connor said, "confronts us with the greatest challenge of any in the history of the fight against polio, with commitments for a Polio Prevention Program of staggering size and the necessity of providing aid to a record number of polio patients."

Mr. O'Connor said estimates last fall were that $75,000,000 would be needed to finance the polio vaccine trials, the pur-

A new Colonial Store for Virginia Beach opened its doors Wednesday morning on 31st street between Pacific avenue and Arctic avenue. Special opening week store hours through Saturday will prevail with closing at 10 p. m. each night.

The new store is the latest in the Colonial Store chain and is located next to the location where the grocery firm has been operating a store for the past several years.

The new store is billed "your store of tomorrow for today" and its design and physical layout of grocery items seems to back up that slogan.

The new store offers many innovations in grocery store buying. Some conveniences include wired music while you shop, magic eye doors, easy-to-reach displays, a store directory on each grocery cart, etc.

During this week free prizes will be given away, plus some 4000 beautiful Hawaiian baby orchids. Some of the free prizes include a Philco air conditioner, General Electric home freezer, English bicycles, barbecue wagons, reversible window fans and food baskets.

There is ample parking while shopping at this great new super market with parking facility on all sides of the huge building.

The Council suggests five points for the Fourth to help balance the extra highway hazards.

1. Don't drive after drinking — even a little.

DESERVED PRAISE

We have observed for a long time and with justifiable pride the efficient operation of this city's police department and this week we have reprinted a letter written to Chief Reeves E. Johnson commending the work of his men in supervising the transfer of securities and monies in the move of a financial institution from one location to another.

The Virginia Beach Police department has an enviable record among law enforcement agencies among cities of comparable size. Its crime record has been well below the national average for the past several years.

We were particularly impressed with the work of Chief Johnson and his men at the recent Virginia Beach Open Golf tournament. It was another job well done and it happened to be one that we took particular notice of at the time. The entire department operates that way all through the year.

And, it must be remembered that the police department here is placed under extremely difficult conditions when our population through the summer months swells out of proportion. But, the Virginia Beach Police Department is equal to the job as their fine record indicates. Our congratulations to Chief Johnson and the men under him.

HEEL AT THE WHEEL

Are you a heel at the wheel?

The National Safety Council, which is coordinating a nationwide Fourth of July safety campaign, holds up six mirrors. If you can see yourself in any of them, then be prepared to become a holiday statistic.

THE ME-FIRSTER — this is the selfish competitive character who must be first away from the traffic light, can't stand to have anyone pass him, and risks the life of anyone who gets in his way.

THE BIG I — this is the fellow who is too big for the rules. Others can obey the law and a code of decent and courteous behavior, but not this self-inflated big shot. He's above all that.

THE KNOW-IT-ALL — this driver is good, in his own estimation. He knows just what the other driver is going to do, just how fast he can stop, just how much room he needs to cut in on another car. But the only way this over-confident jerk escapes painful disillusionment is that the really good drivers give him a wide berth.

THE SWASHBUCKLER — this fellow thinks he expresses his masculinity or something by living dangerously behind the wheel. He believes that he who hesitates is lost, and that his luck will hold forever.

THE SOREHEAD — this fellow is just plain hostile. He drives with a chip on his shoulder and is ready to lock fenders for any real or imagined wrong. He's sore at everyone, and very brave while surrounded by a steel automobile with the windows rolled up.

THE SHOW-OFF — this is the exhibitionist. He's graduated from no hands on a bike to no sense at the wheel. He just wants people to admire his flashy performance, but most other drivers are too busy getting out of his way.

Take a good, long look at yourself in one of these mirrors. See anything?

A heel at the wheel gets by because the good drivers give him the margin of safety he fails to give himself. But the heavy Fourth of July traffic will reduce that margin. Watch it!

WHAT IS HAPPENING TO THE MERCHANT MARINE

Any major power must have a merchant marine, the U. S. included. No nation which is engaged in world trade and which would be a principal belligerent in the event of another war could afford to depend on the merchant marines of others.

The sad fact is that our merchant marine has been declining — and at a time when those of other powers have been increasing. On June 30, 1948, for example, we had an active fleet of 1,723 vessels of 1,000 gross tons or larger while foreign flag fleets consisted of 8,826 vessels. As of June 30, 1953, the latest date for which figures are available, foreign fleets had risen to 10,732. By comparison on January 1 of this year our fleet numbered only 1,203 vessels.

Even worse is the shipbuilding situation. As of July 1, 1953, the U. S. private merchant marine didn't have a single vessel, freight or passenger, under construction. England, by contrast, had at that time 2,144 freighters and seven passenger ships either on order or under construction. Sweden, Norway, Japan, France and the other maritime nations all have active shipbuilding programs underway.

Finally, many of the ships now flying our flag are obsolescent or approaching it, and should be replaced.

Every American has an interest in the merchant marine — and in the legislative problems and confusions which are undermining it.

HUGO, COLO., EASTERN PLAINSMAN: "Any time any one person or any group of persons receives a check from the federal government for any purpose or on any pretext, they can be sure somebody paid a lot more into the government for that check than it amounted to. The political patronage connected with it must be paid for."

BIGGEST DEBT

Manufacturers Record points out that most American families have a good idea of how much money they owe on home mortgages and other obligations. The average is around $2,900. But there's another debt we tend to overlook. That is our share of the $274,500,000,000 national debt. It amounts to more than $6,000 per family!

SCANNING THE NEWS

The Editor's Mail Box

June 21 1954
 Reeves E. Johnson, Chief
 Department of Police
 Virginia Beach, Virginia

Dear Chief Johnson:

This letter is in appreciation of the fine cooperation we received from you in response to our request for protection during the moving of our securities and those of our customers from the vault in our former Main Office location at 18th Street and Atlantic Avenue to our new Main Office building at 31st Street and Pacific Avenue on June 3rd, last.

This type of moving operation was very unusual and called for experienced protective supervision during the entire period from the moment the vault equipment movers entered the doors of the Bank until the equipment, with the securities it contained, was safely installed in our new vault. The entire procedure, which included the transportation through 13 blocks of our City's streets, took the better part of a day and at no time were the funds and securities of the stockholders and customers of Princess Anne County's Home Owned Bank not under guard from several vantage points. The detail, preceding and during this time, and the coordination of your Department with the State Police for their valuable assistance, was expertly planned and executed by you and must remain your property and may not properly be discussed by us. Let it be said, however, that from observation of only that part of the surveillance that was visible, the conclusion was drawn that any untoward move by unauthorized persons would have been extremely unwise. It was also noted that while a large force was used by you for this specific purpose, because of the strategic manner in which they were located, together with your friendly alliance with the State Police, the City was not deprived for a moment of its normal police protection.

We wish to thank you, Chief Johnson, for the willing and capable service rendered to this institution and its customers, which includes a large portion of our community population, and we ask that you extend these thanks to the men who assisted you.

My PET PEEVE

It never fails to tickle my funnybone just the wee bit when I hear a dotting parent explain away the mischievous deportment of a teen-ager winder-child with the statement, "Oh, the poor child is merely developing a personality. He'll get over actions of this sort."

He sure will. The day that he dies. Then, his personality will have reached its peak. He'll never learn a new trick, hear a new word or phrase, develop a new craving, or find something new to love, dislike, or maybe even hate. One must, of course, go along with mother's theory that Junior is "developing a personality." Under the guise of developing this "personality," however, he is also laying a good solid foundation for future development into what is commonly called among the older generation a "character."

I don't think that progress has any right to permit us to allow our children to commit venial sins in the name of personality. Our elders used some very good "personality developers" to make the present generation what it is today and not a one of us is willing to admit that he personally developed into anything but a fine, upstanding citizen.

Take me, for example. I can't truthfully state that I am bubbling over with personality, intelligence, wit, etc., but I'd sure rub muscles with the guy who said I was a "character."

The only evidence of my personality development are in the fact that I don't like razor strops or castor oil. I saw so much of the both of them in youth that the first real decision I made for myself was to forego either existed and allow my personality to develop as best it could without them.

It seems that I have been going about the business of rearing a son in the wrong manner. I had hopes of making something of him that I am now told is impossible. Since he was always a husky lad, I had hoped to make an athlete

DALE CARNEGIE

Eddie Abel, 1840 Lincoln, Denver, Colorado, was going home from work one afternoon when he was approached by a young man whom he knew only by sight. But slight acquaintance did not deter the young man from asking for a small loan. When Eddie questioned him he learned the chap had just lost his job, was broke, and had no place to stay. Consequently, he took him home and made arrangements whereby the new friend went to work the next day — and continued to live with Eddie! Supposed to pay his share of the rent, which was twenty-five dollars, on the 10th of the month which would be in about a week. When the time came for the rent to be paid, the young man packed what little he had and left, asking with his also ten dollars which belonged to Eddie and which he had left carelessly on the dresser. Through the shop foreman it was learned plans had been made by him to go to a of him. And, since he talked at a very early age (honestly, no prejudice on this point) his mother and I have always talked to him as if he were a grown-up with amazing results.

As long as I can remember, we read to him and bought picture books, teaching him every symbol or word-picture therein. I have played ball and "catch" with him hours on end.

Now, they say it is impossible for a boy to be a topflight athlete and be a scholar at the same time. Course, there has always been talk about "dumb athletes," but most of it came from people who couldn't play competitive sports, or weren't at all interested in any form of athletics. Now the educators are shouting about "high pressure" high school sports making "heroes" of boys who play and "outcasts" of those who didn't with education relegated to secondary importance.

There may be a lot in what the educators say. They should have first-hand knowledge of the situation. Maybe the point is exaggerated, maybe it isn't. But it has been in a dither.

Here I've been priming my boy and planning for the day he would pitch a no-hitter and still make the school honor roll. I find I might have been developing in him a split personality that might ruin him for life.

chase of increased quantities of gamma globulin, the search for improved preventive and treatment techniques, the support of professional education, and the provision of financial assistance for polio patients who need it.

"This is still a very realistic figure in terms of our obligations and commitments," Mr. O'Connor explained. "It was certainly not because of any lack of effort by our volunteers that we failed to meet it. March of Dimes workers did a remarkable job. Receipts went ahead more than 6-1-2 per cent and will carry the program through 1954."

"We now are entering the evaluation phase of the vaccine trials. Surely no American would be a party to slowing this hopeful venture because money is needed to care for patients. And who could sanction cutting down on patient aid in a year that already gives signs of heavy polio incidence?"

"I know the American public does not want to see the vital program it has supported through 16 March of Dimes drives jeopardized in this year of challenge. I feel certain they will support the Emergency March of Dimes, to make sure that the prevention program, rehabilitation and aid for patients, research and professional education continue for as long as necessary."

Distractions Cause of Many Accidents

Lack of Attention While Driving Blamed by Judge

Distractions cause 75 per cent of all automobile accidents, according to a prominent woman traffic judge.

Window shopping, looking at pretty girls, settling squabbles among the children in the back seat, head-swiveling conversations with passengers, lighting a cigarette—these are the things that cause accidents, in the opinion of Judge Geraldine F. Macelwane of the Toledo, Ohio, Municipal Court.

Hearing 80 to 120 traffic violation cases a day, she qualifies as an expert on human behavior behind the wheel. In 1953, she heard 7,300 traffic cases.

"It takes only a second of distraction on the part of the driver to cause a serious injury or death," Judge Macelwane points out. "If a moving car is left unguided, even for a second, a serious accident can result."

She cited the example of a fearful and trembling young mother who recently appeared in her court. The mother had made the common mistake of allowing her small child to stand on the front seat beside her.

"As the driver of the car ahead signalled an intention to turn left, the child diverted the mother's attention for an instant—long enough for the car ahead to stop for oncoming traffic," Judge Macelwane said. "The woman crashed into it, the child required hospital treatment, & she was hailed into my court on a reckless driving charge."

Improving the driver's knowledge and attitude is more important than punitive action in such cases, Judge Macelwane believes.

"Although women can rally public support for enforcement and engineering advances, they can be even more effective in reducing accidents by focusing attention on more common dangers, like distraction," she says.

As one of the judges of the 1954 Carol Lane Awards for traffic safety, Judge Macelwane called

Furniture Men Name Governor Stanley "Man of the Year"

Thomas H. Stanley, Governor of Virginia, was named the furniture industry's "Man of the Year," by the Board of Governors of the American Furniture Mart Monday at Chicago, where the semi-annual Furniture Market is being held—with 17,000 buyers in attendance. Governor Stanley was hailed for outstanding service to his industry and his state. Presentation of an illuminated plaque was made by William D. Houser for the Board, and was accepted by Governor Stanley. A dinner tonight for 500 leading merchants and manufacturers, tendered by the Mart, will present Gov. Stanley to the trade, as an outstanding American. Last year's Man of the Year was Charles Sligh, Jr., then President of the National Association of Manufacturers.

In accepting the honor, Gov. Stanley pointed out that the Stanley Furniture Co., Stanleytown, Va., of which he is President was started simultaneously with the opening of the American Furniture Mart 30 years ago, & it grows has paralleled that of the Mart. He credited his business associates for much of the success of the undertaking and reserved for himself the credit for selecting able young assistants.

Upon American women, as individuals and in club groups, to enter the award program before the June 30, 1954, closing date. Winners will receive a $1,000 defense bond and a bronze safety "uscar."

The Carol Lane Awards, the nation's only awards which recognize the achievements of women in the field of traffic safety, are administered by the National Safety Council through a grant from the Shell Oil Co. Further information about the awards may be obtained from Alice C. Mills, National Safety Council, 425 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 11, Ill.

In 1953, 38,500 Americans were killed in traffic accidents.

Shaw to Drive Pace Car at Darlington Race

Wilbur Shaw, general manager and president of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway will drive the pace car that leads the field of thirty Indianapolis race cars when the starting flag falls on the AAA 200 mile Independence Day Sweepstakes at Darlington, S. C. July 5.

Shaw, who is always the passenger in the Indianapolis 500 mile pace car on Decoration Day, will drive a new Oldsmobile 88. The Darlington field will be sent on their way after a pace lap of approximately 60 mph. Lap speeds will double this average during the race.

The dapper Indianapolis executive is one of the most sought-after celebrities of the racing world. One of the most fearless and popular of race drivers, just prior to the war, Shaw climaxed a lengthy racing career that included the national AAA title in 1928, by winning the 500 mile race three times—being one of two men who have accomplished this feat in history. Shaw, Mauri Rose and Bill Vukovich, this year's 500 victor are the only ones to win consecutive victories. Shaw was first into the winner's circle in 1927, 1929, and 1940. He was leading the 1941 race with less than a hundred miles to go when a wheel collapsed, putting him into the wall and injuring him seriously.

Shaw then joined the Firestone Tire and Rubber company where he headed their aviation division. He became general manager of the Indiana speedway in 1946.

With less than two weeks remaining before the 1954 running of the Darlington Classic entries continue to pour into the race managers. Johnny Thompson, former AAA eastern midget champ

NO PLACE TO MATCH COLONY RESTAURANT

Rose and Paul Weller, of New Castle, Pennsylvania, after a recent visit to Virginia Beach's famed Colony Restaurant said: "Your food was excellent and your help pleasant. We have not found any eating place to match the Colony."

This strong endorsement of the Colony is heard every day from those who have enjoyed a meal in the Colony tradition. If you haven't visited the Colony you should do so without delay. (ADV.)

Uncle CHARLEY'S Epigrams

By the time you're rich enough to stay in bed you're too old to enjoy it.

A meaty campaign with lots of scraps put some politicians in gravy.

Grandpa Hedges says he'd run off only he likes Gram's cookin'.

The Ridge Corners fire department all got new rubber coats and now they kin hardly wait until there's a fire.

Some folks just ain't got good sense, but it doesn't seem to matter.

Sometimes, even a 'pretty miss' kin end up a pretty mess.

Bay Croakers Get Age Check

Often the age of a fish can be determined by a study of the markings on its scales. The scales of the croaker are difficult to interpret, but Dexter Haven, of the Laboratory staff, believes he is making progress.

Haven is using several methods to unravel the mystery of the croaker's age. In June 1952, he placed some baby croakers, about two inches long, in a large concrete tank of sea water at Gloucester Point. Today, two years later, these fish, though still less than six inches long, are apparently in good health. In their natural surroundings croakers become larger than this in less than a year. Their slow growth in the tank is caused by crowding and shortage of food.

"Fishermen know that the croakers they catch today are smaller than they were ten years ago," states Haven. "It is our job at the Laboratory to find out why. It is just as important to know why the growth of fish is sometimes stunted, as to understand the reasons for rapid growth."

Admiral Wright Leaves for Europe

Admiral Jernald Wright, USN, Supreme Allied Commander Atlantic, will depart Norfolk for Europe on June 22nd to visit six of the NATO nations which are associated with his allied command.

The visits to Iceland, Denmark, Norway, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Portugal will afford Admiral Wright the opportunity of paying his first courtesy calls upon heads of government and ministers of defense of these countries since his recent assumption of command as SACLANT.

The official calls will be supplemented where appropriate by discussions with various national officials on mutual defense problems, and opportunity will also be taken to observe several key NATO military installations.

Visits of a similar nature to the United Kingdom and France have already been made by the new international ocean commander. However, a visit to Paris has been included in the itinerary to enable Admiral Wright to confer informally with General A. M. Gruenther, U. S. A., the Supreme Allied Commander Europe, on matters of mutual concern.

During his return trip, Admiral Wright will stop over briefly at Port Lamer, French Morocco, and the Azores, arriving at his Norfolk Headquarters July 11th. Accompanying him on the 19-day trip will be various members of his staff.

ALL AROUND THE HOME

... OR HOUSEKEEPING MADE EASIER

Shirt boards, those cardboard backing sheets used by laundries to protect shirts from the time they are pressed until they are stored in dresser drawers by the homemaker, have many uses in the home.

Many males, according to American Institute of Laundering, educational and research center for the laundry industry, are in the habit of slipping such shirtboards from their laundered shirts and dropping them in the waste basket, ignoring the fact that they have a valuable variety of uses.

Homemakers will find many uses for the lowly but versatile shirtboard when they prepare food for the family. Vegetables or fruit for salads can be cut or peeled on one of the boards. The board makes a nice cutting surface, absorbs juices lost in cutting, and makes a sturdy wrapping when folded around the peeling and disposed without mess.

Shirtboards are stiff enough to hold sweepings when no dust pan is handy, and if you're building a home, save those shirtboards to pick up wood shavings, plaster, and dirt and mud tracked into the house. Another variety of uses, the Institute says, occurs when the house is painting to be done in the house. When painting windows the shirtboard can be held over the paint. Boards can also be used as a guide or straight edge and as "splatter boards" under paint cans.

The shirtboard can also be used under potted plants to protect the painted or varnished window sill or can be placed on the newly scrubbed or waxed floor to prevent tracks or scuff marks.

Ever have to keep the children in the house because of rainy weather? Those shirtboards you've saved will come in handy for them to use in coloring, making puzzles or for building houses or boats.

Shirtboards can be used as picture backing when mounting photographs or paintings, as protection from sleet or snow if held in place by the windshield wiper on the family car.

Those whose tastes run to stencils can draw their own original designs on shirtboards. It is then an easy matter to cut and paint them on nursery, kitchen and bathroom walls.

Motorboat Owners Reminded of Fire Extinguisher Regulations

The Coast Guard reminds the boating public that a recent revision of regulations requires many motorboats to carry fire extinguishers that were not required to do so last season.

In issuing the statement, Captain Edward H. Thiele, Chief of the Merchant Marine Safety Division on the Staff of the Commander, Fifth Coast Guard District, explained the purpose of the new requirement and clarified the meaning of the term "open construction" which many boat owners have inquired about.

The Code of Federal Regulations Amendment, which was published in the Federal Register of December 18, 1953, requires that all motorboats, except motorboats less than 26 feet in length of "open construction" propelled by outboard motors and not carrying passengers for hire, have aboard a prescribed number of fire extinguishers. The EAGLE or The OYSTER?

For a people . . . who elect opportunism rather than opportunity, who dream of security rather than success; who believe political charity is a virtue; who mock the frugal and plunder the thrifty; who adopt the rule that if I don't succeed you are to blame, that what you have is as much mine as yours; who contend that property is a shameful sign of success; who whimper that failure is the nobler cause; well-being is wicked; prudence, out-of-date; sacrifice silly — for such a people a fitting emblem is the Oyster.

For a people . . . who faced nature in the raw, with privation the rule and hardihood a virtue; who endured defeat, disease and disaster for a hundred years in order to get a foothold on the Eastern Seaboard, the while with one eye on the interior, a no-man's land, a cockpit for settling international rivalries and private grudges, disputed by wild animals and wilder redmen; who sacrificed thus for a belief in the worth and dignity of the individual; who believed that economic freedom was as important as political freedom; who substituted "In God We Trust" for the Old World motto "In Government We Trust"; for a nation built by men who dedicated their lives to achieve the realization of these beliefs, I give you, fellow citizens — the Eagle!

Auto Liability Rate Increase Below Average

Automobile liability insurance rates of stock insurance companies rose an average of only 59 percent on a countrywide basis from the prewar period to the close of 1953, as compared with an increase of 92 percent in consumers' prices during the same period, William Leslie, general manager of the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters, announced.

A survey of rates for six major casualty insurance lines in the United States showed that stock company countrywide rates for these major lines rose an average of only 31 percent on an equivalent coverage basis during the same period.

Between 1939 and the end of 1943, countrywide average insurance rates for workmen's compensation were reduced 36 percent on an equivalent coverage basis, and rates for burglary, theft and robbery were lowered 2 percent, according to the survey. Insurance rates for automobile liability — bodily injury and property damage combined — rose 59 percent, general liability 35 percent, boiler and machinery 26 percent and glass 90 percent. Weighted on the basis of premium volume, the changes in rates for the six casualty lines resulted in an average rate increase of 31 percent over the 14 year period.

Pettus Gilman Receives FFA Award at Blacksburg Meeting

WINNER

Pettus Gilman, son of Mrs. Emily Stanley and the late Wilbur P. Gilman of Ashland, received the FFA Star Farmer of Virginia award last week at a session of the State Convention of the Virginia Association, Future Farmers of America, Blacksburg.

The award, the highest honor the Virginia Future Farmers can bestow upon one of their members, carries with it a cash prize of $100.

Young Gilman recently graduated from the Henry Clay High School, Hanover County. During his first three years in high school as a student of vocational agriculture and a member of the local Future Farmer Chapter, he put in 3,394 hours of labor on his farm enterprises, which included 73 acres of crops, 77 head of livestock and 71,675 broilers and layers. His labor income for these enterprises amounted to $8,076.09.

He now has $5,800 invested in farming and $725.00 on saving in the bank. His farm investments are $2,500 in equipment, $1,100 in cattle, $100 in hogs, $630 in sheep and $150 in poultry.

This year during his fourth year in vocational agriculture his farm enterprises include 26,000 broilers, 275 laying hens, 2 head of beef cattle, 21 sheep, 15 hogs, 8 acres of corn, 13 acres of soybeans, 12 acres of wheat and 20 acres of lespedeza. He has had the responsibility of managing the 134-acre home farm, as well as a 100-acre farm for an aunt, since entering high school. His father died when he was 10 years old. In addition to his farming activities, young Gilman has been active in school and community organizations. He served as president of his FFA Chapter and Federation. He played varsity football three years, and represented his school on various agricultural judging teams. His scholastic average for four years is 92.

George F. Compton is principal of the Henry Clay High School and Harvey D. Seal is the teacher of vocational agriculture and FFA Chapter adviser.

Dowdy-Wilson Vows Spoken In Tabernacle Church

The marriage of Miss Phyllis Anne Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Andrew Wilson, of Princess Anne, to Pittsburgh Lee Dowdy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dowdy, of Lynnhaven, took place Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Tabernacle Methodist Church.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Richard Shephard. The church was decorated with white flowers, palms, ferns and trees of mountain laurel. Mrs. Charles Fitzhugh accompanied Miss Marjorie Jean Dowdy, sister of the bridegroom, who sang several selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of white tulle over tulle over satin, styled with a wide scooped neckline, and a long moulded bodice of chantilly lace. The voluminous skirt was a mist of tulle forming a cathedral train. Her finger-ring veil of imported illusion fell from a contour cap of chantilly lace and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, orchids and white roses.

Mrs. Vernon Jerome Honeycutt, Jr. of Virginia Beach, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of orchid crystal over matching taffeta, made with a strapless bodice outlined with tucks, and a full skirt. She wore a matching shoulder jacket, which formed a portrait neckline. She carried a bouquet of mixed summer flowers and wore a bandeau of matching flowers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Betty Lou Wilson, of London Bridge, and Miss Jacqueline Camille Kelam, of Princess Anne. Miss Marilyn Jane Wilson, of Princess Anne, was junior bridesmaid. They wore gowns of blue crystal over matching taffeta, styled like that of the honor attendant, and carried cascade bouquets of mixed summer flowers. They wore bandeau

THE LITTLE GAME

A SHORT STORY

"Are you absolutely certain you want a divorce?" he asked. "Are you sure?"
The woman's voice shocked him with its dullness. What could have snapped the spirit, what had stolen the sparkle from her, he wondered.

"I can't stand it any longer," she was saying. "I hadn't been loved so much in the beginning — if I hadn't been shown in so many ways —" Her voice broke a little. "To be one day an adored woman and the next a piece of furniture — it's made me an old woman."

She began to sob almost silently and seemingly without effort. It was as though she had done so many times before and it had become a habit. He patted her shoulder as he had patted so many others. She drew away.

"I'm very sorry," he murmured. He walked to the window and looked down at the crowded sidewalk. Countless times in the past he had done this and tried to guess which of those hurrying people who turned into the building, would ride up on the elevator and open a door marked: GEORGE BRADLEY, Attorney at Law. It had become a little game with him. But there the game ended for this branch of his profession was anything but a harmless little game.

If the twenty years that he had specialized in divorce cases, he had grown to hate the entire business, but never the people. He felt a strong pity for his clients with their real and fancied complaints; but strangely, what bothered him most was the pity that he felt for the others, those whose mates came to him for assistance. He had often wondered how it felt to be one of them and shuddered.

Turning, he gazed at the woman sitting beside his desk. She retained a strong hint of beauty beneath the weight of her early forties, but her dark hair was gray-streaked, and her features were strained as had been so many of those he observed in this office.

His professional detachment had slowly faded with the years, and now he had to consciously restrain an impulse to stroke the bowed head. She would resent that action, anyway, he realized. Instead, he again told her: "I'm very sorry."

"Don't be," she answered with a hopeless shake of her head. "I've stopped being sorry for myself. It's all over. It's been over for years but I wouldn't admit it. Even to myself. I tried to hang on to something that was long gone. All that's left now is the publicity, the pictures, and the muck raking. But I won't mind. I couldn't shirk anything too much now."

"Is there any chance that you might reconsider it?"
"No!" She cut him off her voice alive for the first time. "Isn't there anything I can do?" he persisted.
"There is only one thing to do," she said. Her words were deathly in their finality. "It's too late for anything else."
"Oh," said George Bradley in a resigned voice. He sighed. "Very well. It's your decision to make."

He had said the same thing countless times before, in exact, by the same tone of voice, and lately he had found himself hating to say it. It made him feel too much like a judge pronouncing sentence.
Returning to his desk, he took a photograph from a drawer. A beautiful young woman smiled up at him. Love shined in her eyes. It had been years since he had really looked at the picture. But now he studied it for a long minute. Then he kissed it and replaced it in the drawer.

From force of habit perhaps, he went to the window, and looking down to the street, was just in time to see the woman cross the sidewalk and step into a waiting taxi. Then his wife was gone. He never again played the little game.

Large Increase in Church Going Is Predicted

An increase in church population to some 120 million people by 1975 is seen probable by Warren J. Trause, a Director of Church-Industry Relations for the National Association of Manufacturers, and he cautions that this 28 million increase over 1952 will bring about the need for over 100,000 new churches at a cost of nearly $6 billion.

Writing in the current issue of The Christian Herald, Mr. Trause points out that an "irreversible force is at work in America today, testing the resources and ingenuity of every person interested in the welfare and mission of his church."

This force, he explains, is the steady increase in population which is expected to approximate 200 millions by 1975.

Ocheltree School Of Art Began Back in 1936

The Ocheltree School of Professional Art is an outgrowth of classes conducted by the present director over a period of many years in the Norfolk area. It is by no means a new idea. Classes were first begun on the top floor of the Norfolk Newspapers Building in 1936, and since that time have been held continuously. Many of the former students of these classes have entered the fine art, as well as the applied art field and are now successfully practicing here & in metropolitan centers. Limited classes make it possible for students to learn whichever phases of art they wish, and to advance at their own speed.

Anticipating the formation of the Ocheltree School of Professional Art, was the establishment of a Professional Arts Guild, one aim of which is the dissemination of art knowledge through group instruction. From this group have come many of the instructors of the school. Another aim of the Professional Arts Guild is the furthering of American art through a greater appreciation of art by the American public. Carrying out this aim, the Art Center is showing a series of one-man shows of American Artists which are open and free to the general public every day of the week. These exhibits are held also in conjunction with the school as the study of original work by top practicing artists is an important phase of art training.

J. L. Ocheltree, Jr., the director of the school and founder of the guild, studied art under Michaelis, University of Virginia, also Chicago and New York under professional instructors. He has practiced professional art in New York, Chicago, and Norfolk.

A KADAS INSTALLATION

A recent Kadas ornamental wrought iron railing installation.

Kadas Building New Plant For Expanded Operations

C. F. Kadas Company was organized in 1947 shortly after Mr. Kadas was discharged from the U. S. Navy. For the past seven years the plant has been operating at Great Neck & Laskin Road in Oceana, Va.

The company started out on a small scale manufacturing bread and pie racks for bakeries in the Norfolk area and gradually expanded its variety of products to ornamental iron railings, columns, fences, gates, lawn markers, fire escapes and all types of wrought iron furniture. In 1950 the company manufactured their first Fire Truck for the town of Oceana.

where he was director of art and advertising for Shulman & Co. for nine years, Art Director of Norfolk engraving for two years, graphic artist for the fifth Naval District for five years. He has had twenty-six years of experience in fine and applied art and has won national recognition in advertising art and layout.

Other instructors of the school include Clarence Woodson, former director of the Miami Beach Art Center and several visiting and exhibiting members of the Arts Guild.

Classes in both fine and applied art are held night and weekdays. The Art Center gallery is open to the public daily from 2 to 5 p. m.

er and several other communities throughout the state of Virginia. Kadas Company specializes in Custom Built Wrought Iron furniture and railings building specialties to the specified desires of the customer.

At the present time a new plant is under construction and will cover a floor space of 12800 square feet which will be located on Laskin Road next to Virginia Jalousie Company. The new plant will be completed about the middle of July and at that time will expand its manufacturing capacity to both commercial and residential for structural steel buildings. This building was designed by the owner and all steel used is being fabricated in their plant. For an estimate on any ornamental iron work, fire truck or wrought iron furniture, call C. F. Kadas Co. at Virginia Beach 1742.

Grand Coulee Dam in Washington is the largest concrete structure in the world. It is 4,173 feet long and 550 feet high from the granite block on which it rests to the 30-foot-wide highway that crosses its top.

The eagle is one of the world's oldest national emblems, used by the Mesopotamian city of Legash some 5,000 years ago. Benjamin Franklin objected to the eagle as our national emblem, saying the bird is lazy, a thief, coward and bully.

Valve and Ring Jobs Avoided Says Motaloy Co.

The expensive and time consuming valve and ring job which used to plague motorists has now been reduced to the simple and inexpensive proposition of dropping small metallic tablets into your gasoline tank, according to the manufacturer of this revolutionary process.

Motaloy guaranteed to stop oil burning increasing gas mileage, and raise engine compression for the life of the engine in being distributed by Motaloy of Virginia, 1212 Granby street, Norfolk.

ACCORDING TO the manufacturer, Motaloy stirs into action when it is agitated in the gas tank as you drive, funds its way to the engine during the normal operation of the car, and goes to work to half slugs engine performance.

Motaloy, says the manufacturer, fills in pits on the cylinder and cylinder wall, and replaces worn metal parts with a metallic coating which will restore the life of the engine. The manufacturer, however, makes no claims that bent or badly damaged ensine parts, valve stems and pistons, will be helped by this new discovery.

MOTALOY, available in three sizes, may be used for cars, trucks, buses, diesels, motorcycles, off-the-road machinery, and any device powered by internal combustion engines.

It is just as good for new cars as for old, the manufacturer says.

It is estimated that Canada's output of nickel in 1953 reached 285,000,000 pounds, or about 85 per cent of the free world's total production.

Choose Courses Wisely Says VA

Veterans planning to start Korean GI Bill training the forthcoming August 20 cut-off date were urged by the Veterans Administration to give extra-special thought to their choice of a training program.

The reason, VA said, is that after the cut-off date, the law tightens up appreciably on a veteran's right to change his course. He no longer will be allowed to make his one-and-only course change with the same ease that it could be made before the deadline.

At any time before the cut-off date, the Korean GI Bill permits a veteran one change of course. So long as his conduct and progress were satisfactory, he has a relatively free hand in making the change. It could be from law to engineering; from air conditioning to airplane mechanics; the choice was his.

But once the cut-off date passes, VA said, the one-and-only free change-of-course provision no longer holds good. After that time, a veteran may change his course only under one of the following circumstances:

1. The course he wants to change to is a normal progression from the course he has already taken. For example, if he obtained his A.S. degree, he would be permitted to change to an M.A. degree.

2. He hasn't been making satisfactory progress in the course he was taking, due to no fault of his own. If this is the case, he will be required to undergo VA vocational counseling, to help him select a new course more in keeping with his aptitudes & abilities.

The August 20 Korean GI Bill cut-off date applies only to post-Korea veterans separated from active service before August 20, 1952. Veterans who got out of active service after that date have two years from separation in which to begin their training.

Newly-separated veterans in the latter group need not worry about having their one-change-of-course rights curtailed until after their individual cut-off dates, come around VA said.

Segregation Ruling to Touch Off Political Repercussions in South

Will The Supreme Court decision ruling out segregation in public schools have elected repercussions? Definitely so, say the political observers, with full impact when the 1956 ballot boxes are counted.

Despite the fact that the decision was rendered by a Supreme Court made up of seven Democrats and two Republicans, it occurred during a Republican Administration and is therefore expected to make the President, and perhaps his party, more acceptable to Negro voters in the Southern and Border states — voters who have been predominantly Democratic since 1944.

Strangely enough, it is not expected to bring any appreciable change in the Negro vote in the South.

The decision may cause some Southern white voters to turn away from moderates on the race issue in favor of candidates who openly oppose the Supreme Court ruling.

Just how important is the Negro vote? There are now an estimated 16 million Negroes and about three million of them are registered voters, with more than a million of these in the South. Negroes in the South voted Republican from the Civil War until 1940, have since voted Democratic. In the 1952 Presidential election, the Negro vote was 73 per cent Democratic and 27 per cent Republican in Negro wards and precincts of 47 cities, according to a survey conducted by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The survey disclosed a mere 90 per cent Negro Democratic vote in Detroit, Gainesville, Ga., Wilmington, N. C.; Columbia and Darlington, S. C.; and Corpus Christi and Houston, Texas. Many politicians have also expressed belief that the states of Louisiana and South Carolina stayed in the Democratic column in 1952 on the strength of the Negro vote.

The Republican National Committee is attempting to "sell" its party to the Negro. Immediately

Sen. Robertson Praises Frozen Food Industry

Virginia's Senator A. Willis Robertson today hailed the frozen foods industry — this month celebrating its 25th Anniversary — for the contribution it has made to the State's fruit and vegetable growers, and to its producers of seafoods and poultry.

It was in June, 1929, that the Postum Company, later renamed General Foods Corporation, acquired the patents and rights to a revolutionary new process for preserving the best qualities of foods by quick freezing. This acquisition sparked the development of the nationwide industry that during 1953 produced over 300 different varieties of frozen foods with a retail value of over a billion dollars.

Commenting on the industry's quarter century of progress, Senator Robertson said, "Balancing food supplies with demand and handling surpluses which result when producers' calculations are upset by factors beyond their control are among the most difficult problems our nation faces today."

"These problems would be infinitely more difficult, however, had it not been for the discovery 25 years ago of the quick freezing process by which perishable foods can be kept in fresh condition for extended periods. This has meant wide extension of markets beyond their previous limits both in terms of time and geographical distance.

"Realizing the importance of the frozen foods industry to poultry and seafood production as well as to fruit and vegetable growing in Virginia, I am happy to add my word of congratulation on a quarter century of progress. And we can also thank the REA CO-OPS for bringing the advantages of deep freeze units to rural areas."

One of the principal beneficiaries of the development of the frozen foods industry has been the famous Del Mar-Var poultry raising area, General Foods Corporation's Birds Eye Frozen Foods first introduced quick-frozen cut-up poultry in 1937. The product rapidly gained popularity and in 1942 Birds Eye bought a processing plant at Pocomoke City, Maryland, where poultry is processed on an assembly line basis.

In 1953 Birds Eye spent in the Del-Mar-Var area more than nine million dollars for raw materials, supplies, services, salaries, wages and taxes. From a per capita consumption of 18 pounds in 1946, quick frozen cut-up poultry rose to 30 pounds in 1953. Birds Eye's Pocomoke City plant is now processing 60 thousand fryers a day.

Principal peanut producing states are Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Texas and Oklahoma.

Don't get overheated. Rest in the hottest part of the day.

VI FOOD

Keep food refrigerated.

Prevent tomato poisoning.

Don't drink unpasteurized milk.

Hot weather diet.

Many people are still hunting for the proper diet for hot weather.

The following are general rules which are almost universally accepted at present.

Eat a well balanced diet of seven basic foods: Milk, cheese, meat, eggs, vegetables: I green or yellow, one other, fruits, citrus or green cabbage, strawberries, watermelon, other whole grain or enriched bread and cereal. All of these should be included daily.

It is thought that your body needs less fat during summer. However, unless like an Eskimo you have eaten lots of fat during the winter, one is more interested in food with zest as Fruit Cup with lemon-herb would not be too much change there. In the summer, on juice squeezed over, tangy sherberts, or vegetable salads and less of the desire for hot pie or rich puddings.

Contrary to some ideas, we should have some hot food as this is an aid to digestion. Some authorities suggest one hot food at each meal and some one hot meal a day. A jellyed or cold meat salad, potato salad with sliced tomatoes, hot rolls and chilled fresh fruit make a nice combination. Hot fresh vegetable, cold sliced ham, spoonbread and a gelatin pie is also nice. The cook should try to arrange life with less hurry and fix food with an idea to her schedule, too, as well as the family's.

Your attitude toward the heat has lots to do with your feelings and your family's feelings about it.

WILL CHINCHILLA COME BACK? — There is some talk that chinchilla wraps will soon go on the market for the first time since Mrs. Herbert Hoover had a coat made more than 25 years ago, according to Rosemary Sheehan, fur historian. The full-length coat that Mrs. Hoover wore on her husband's inauguration day back in 1929 was reported to have cost $80,000. But after that the chinchilla industry sort of died out. Only a few wraps of the soft blue-gray fur are known to be in existence today. One was made for Lily Pons in 1946. Last Monday, the chinchilla industry was revived officially at a New York auction of 18,000 skins which will be enough for only 300 stoles, jackets or capes. The prices of the wraps will depend on how high the furriers bid for the pelts on Monday. But the lowest price for a stole or cape or jacket will be $10,000! Will chinchilla make a comeback at that rate? Anyone want to buy a chinchilla?

Grain Storage Facilities Receive Attention of Agriculture Dept.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture today announced that applications for grain storage contracts between the Commodity Credit Corporation and commercial firms will again be accepted, beginning immediately, in order to encourage the construction of additional public commercial facilities for the handling and storage of grain and oilseeds in the average short areas of the U. S.

The program reopened today is one under which applications for contracts were received prior to September 30, 1953. Contracts are in effect calling for construction under this program of a net total of about 200 million bushels of capacity, with 123 million bushels of this now under construction. This program is part of the board over-all operation that has as its objective providing adequate commercial and on-the-farm storage for handling the Nation's supply for grain and oilseeds.

In general, the program provides for payments to warehousemen if the occupancy of storage facilities under contract falls below certain levels during a specified period. Some modifications from previous provisions are being made in the type of building and material that will be acceptable under the program. Preferred construction will continue to be commercial silo-and-tank-type facilities made of concrete or steel. However, other materials, including wood, will be considered if properly designed, equipped and protected against fire, insect, rodent and other possible causes of grain loss. Flat-type storage structures will be considered if adequate equipment for the handling and conditioning of grain is provided.

Responsible commercial firms including cooperatives are eligible to participate in the program. Under the reopened program, only new applications will be accepted; however, firms which submitted applications too late for consid-

As possible after plan approval. Storage facilities under the program must be operated as commercial public warehouses under the Uniform Grain Storage Agreement. The facilities must be kept in operating condition and available for the receipt, handling, storage and shipment of grain and oilseeds.

CCC will not finance the construction of commercial storage facilities, and limits its participation under this program to underwriting occupancy of the facilities.

An occupancy with CCC does not provide for automatic yearly payments for storage nor does rate prevailing during the contract require the CCC to use the facilities for the storage of CCC-owned grain. The contract, under three plans, provides for payments to warehousemen if occupancy falls below certain levels. Under one plan, the CCC underwrites up to 75 percent occupancy for three years and 40 percent for the next two years. The second plan provides for occupancy up to 60 percent for five years, and plan three for occupancy up to 50 percent for six years. Any of the three plans may be selected by operators of facilities. The yearly rate per bushel for unused space under the contract will be 18 percent of the annual applicable wheat storage

No Sale!

Right in front of Granny White's beautiful old house on Maple Avenue there's a brand-new sign: "Antiques. Inquire Within."

Now—don't get excited. Granny explained it all the other night—after we settled down in her parlor, me with my temperate beer, Granny with her tea.

I asked her if she was really going in the antique business. "Oh, no," says Granny, "I wouldn't sell anything. I put that sign up so folks would come in and talk—and look around. If they insist on a price, I tell them some extrageous figure! I guess I just like people," she said.

From where I sit Granny can be excused for her little ruse. She may be in her eighties, but her mind is young—and open. She's the kind of person who's made this town so wonderful. Granny not only likes people—but she respects them and their preferences and opinions. Come to think of it, "liking" and "respecting" mean much the same thing, don't they?

It's Freezin' Season!

WITH AN electric home food freezer, you not only save on shopping time and meal preparation—but you can actually save enough on food bills to pay for the freezer itself!

It is estimated that the average family wastes 10% of its budget in food spoilage and waste. Much of this can be eliminated with a home food freezer. Additional savings result from quantity purchases, buying during peak-season when prices are lowest, taking advantage of specials and sales, and cutting transportation costs with fewer shopping trips. And of course, if you have a garden, you can USE all you produce, instead of giving away the surplus!

Many families say that their food freezers paid for themselves in 32 to 36 months. Some owners report food savings of $112 to $250 a year! You'll eat better and spend less—with a home food freezer!
